belt and windbreak plantings for early spring 1955. The Oregon State board of forestry this week announced that trees for Eastern Oregon, which would be available, would consist of incense cedar, Ponderosa pine, lodge pole pine, Chinese arborvitae, black locust, Russian olive, Russian mulberry, Chinese elm and caragana.

The tree costs will be one penny each We have order blanks at this office for ordering the trees and we would be happy to assist you in laying out your windbreak.

The October livestock and meat situation from the U. S. D. A. reports that more cows, heifers and calves are being slaughtered this year but steer slaughter is slightly below last year. The cow slaughter rate is a new record. They predict that it is high enough to halt expansion of cow numbers but not high enough to force any sharp reduction.

A successful noxious weed control program was finished this week for another year. Cal Carson, county weed supervisor, spraying roadsides for perrennial and annual weeds, applied 761 gallons of 2,4-D with 7½ gallons of spreader sticker to insure a good kill. This year, for the first time, most of our roads were sprayed two times for annual weeds during the season. The first time over 515 miles on both sides of the road were sprayed while the second time, 358 miles were covered. The control program took 1186 gallons of gas and 9 gallons of oil in the Dodge power-wagon, while 8207 miles were traveled.

Taking advantage of the opportunity to have custom spraying done by this county weed rig, 147 gallons of 2,4-D were applied in custom farm spraying. In addition to this spray program, 230 gallons of 2,4-D were applied on state highway right-of-ways, 151 gallons on Union Pacific right-of-ways. A total of 1289 gallons of 2,4-D was 72 gallons more than was applied last year. Taking an average application rate of 2 quarts per acre, this would mean that a solid perennial weed acreage of approximately 2600 acres were sprayed.

A new Oregon State College bulletin "Control of Mastitis in Dairy Cattle", is just now off the press. The bulletin is illustrated and printed for easy reading. It answers twenty-eight questions about controlling Mastitis in Dairy Cattle. For those that have had trouble with this problem on their farm whether with the family milk cow or a dairy, will find much information in the bulletin. A copy can be secured at this office by writing or stopping in.

For those livestock operators who have been asking questions about feeding molasses, we have a lot of information now. Briefly molasses is most valuable for its high content of readily available energy. If feed in limited amount, one or two pounds daily to beef cattle may replace such grains as barley, pound per pound. When feed in larger quantities, its energy value runs from 70 to 80% of barley. It was interesting to have a report from a research man from Hawaii where they have lots of molasses but don't have much grain to feed cattle, reports how they feed yearling steers up to 16 pounds of molasses daily and get three pounds daily gain. He said the steers scoured considerably but the scoring didn't seem to hurt them much.
