Kinzua Twilight Golfers Complete Summer Play

By VIRGINIA KELSO

KINZUA—The final Men's Stag night and the close of Twilight League play was the order of the evening at the Kinzua Golf club. The Dubbers were held to a slim lead and became the proud winners of the League Trophy only after a rough battle and a one-half point margin over the Flubbers.

Twilight League play for the summer has been enjoyed no end by the men golfers and some excellent rounds of golf have been turned in by various members. The social stags and the meals have all carried an air of good fellowship and sportsmanship has prevailed throughout.

Honors for the final night. Low gross, Don Slinkard; low net, Bob Misener and Verlin Connor; least putts, Don Slinkard; long drive, Mark Jellick; secret hole, Fermer Plank; closest to the pin on No. 9, Maurice Brown.

The annual husband and wife mixed two-ball foursome was played at the local club on Saturday, Sept. 19. The handsome trophy for low score was won by Don and Vi Slinkard. Low net honors were won by Lee and Marilyn Bailey who were playing in their first tournament. The event was run off without a hitch and oddly enough the male and female duos were still on speaking terms as most of the participants gathered at the clubhouse in the evening for a social and a no host snack lunch.

Pam Wilkinson At Arizona State

Pam (Cochell) Wilkinson has pledged to Kappa Delta sorority at Arizona State University, Tempe, Ariz., where she entered this year as a freshman. The 1964 Heppner High school graduate expects to major in psychology.

She reports that she likes it fine there but is "about to freeze to death" from the air conditioning. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Wilkinson, took her to Tempe about two weeks ago.

Maupin Defeats Mustangs, 20-13

In a rough battle that was marked by a controversial Maupin touchdown, the Heppner High Mustangs lost a 20-13 grueller at Maupin Union Friday night in a non-league game.

The Mustangs tallied on their first series of downs and again in the fourth quarter, but Maupin scored twice in the second period for a halftime lead of 14 to 7 and added another six points in the final stanza.

Stuart Dick hit paydirt from six yards out early in the game for the Mustangs, and he added the extra point on a plunge.

In the second period came the controversial play that gave Maupin seven points. A pass found its target in the receiver in the end zone, but Mustang partisans said that he dropped the ball. The official saw it reach the lad and turned and signalled a touchdown. He apparently did not see that the receiver immediately dropped the ball. As usual, the Heppner protest brought no change in the decision, but the ball was lying in the end zone where the Maupin gridder dropped it.

The pass play was good for 25 yards and came on a fourth down. Maupin's second TD came after a march with 45 yards in penalties being assessed against Heppner.

Trailing 14-7, Heppner came close for a time in the fourth when Dick again hit the end zone from one yard out. The point which would have tied the game was missed, and the Heppner eleven trailed, 14-13.

Maupin clinched the game by running back the kickoff with Dal Hammer, a stalwart for Maupin, packing the mail.

"It was a terrible ball game," said Coach Jim Potter, referring to rough and tumble tactics in the action. Both teams were guilty of piling on and roughness.

He said, however, that Maupin has a very fine team and is capable of playing good football.

The winners had a one-yard advantage in statistics. Heppner had the edge in rushing, 221 yards to 195, but Maupin had 50 yards in passing, including the touchdown pass, against 23 for Heppner. The Mustangs completed three of seven passes. They were penalized 95 yards against 40 for Maupin.

Again, Tim Driscoll and Dick were leading ground gainers and Dave Hanna and Greg Pierce were tops on defense.

Contagious Diseases Show Increase

Mid-year totals for reported cases of communicable diseases occuring in Oregon were released today by the Oregon State Board of Health. Of the nineteen categories of communicable disease surveyed weekly by the board, nine showed an increase over the same period last year, according to Dr. Richard H. Wilcox, State Health Officer.

A significant increase was noted in German measles. Nearly twice as many cases were reported this year as compared to the first six months of 1963. Shigellosis, a form of dysentery, also showed a marked increase, almost three times that of last year's figure.

Other communicable diseases showing an increase were influenza - up 21%; scarlet fever and strep throat - up 26%; infectious syphilis - up 59%; staphylococal infectioins (impetigo and hospitalacquired staph) - up 20%; and tuberculosis - up 5%. Many of the diseases showing an increase this year are still below the normal five-year level.

Reported cases of whooping cough dropped sixty percent from last year. Infectious hepatitis showed a decrease of fifteen percent. Six other diseases showed downward trends and two showed no change.

Only one case of paralytic polio was reported in the state, the same as last year's figure at this time. The low incident of polio is attributed to the effectiveness of polio vaccine and increased awareness of the value of immunization.
