Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds

"I have actually gained twenty-five pounds and I too think Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world," said Mrs. Robert O. Reynolds, 127 North Denver St., Kansas City, Mo.

"For the four years I suffered from a very bad form of rheumatism, stomach and nervous troubles. My appetite was very poor. What little I did eat soured on my stomach and I suffered the most alarming pains in my back, legs and shoulders. My rheumatism was so bad that I could not raise my hands to comb my hair and my kidneys bothered me to my sorrow, too. I became so weak and run down that I lost all my energy and fell and become almost a burden. I tried many things but nothing helped me.

"I had only taken my first bottle of Tanlac, when I noticed my appetite was improving and I could sleep better at night. I have taken three bottles and the way it has helped me and built me up is really astonishing. I can eat anything and everything without the slightest disagreeable after-effects. I sleep fine as a child and am in better health than I have been for years. I am glad to give this testimonial, hoping that any who are suffering as I did may experience the same wonderful results, which I believe they will if they give Tanlac a fair trial."

Tanlac is sold in Medford by West Side Pharmacy, in Jacksonville by J. W. Robinson, in Rogue River by W. S. Gray, and by leading druggists in every town. Adv.

POLICE FORCE IN EASTER BONNETS STARTLE MAYOR

The first annual review of the Medford police department by the mayor took place late Saturday afternoon, and unexpectedly so. The department, all three of them in their uniforms of brand new police caps, which had just arrived in the city, shined shoes and pleasant anticipatory smiles, the kind you know a small boy wears with his first suit of long pants, piled into Chief Timothy's tin Lizzie in front of the central police station, and drove down to surprise the mayor in front of his garage.

Mayor Gates, and those two mainstay Southern Pacific men, Mark Montgomery and A. S. Rosenbaum, were engaged in an earnest discussion out on the street about the oil prospects when the Ford drew up, stopped and the police department piled out, formed in battalions and saluted.

The three city debaters stood gaping awe struck and bewildered.

"I vot not smoking such strong cigars from this minute. It is getting me," finally ejaculated the mayor as he rubbed his eyes.

"I will quit eating doughnuts too," gasped Rosie.

"And I am going to bed earlier," said Rosie.

As their eyes grew more familiar with the unaccustomed sight the three recognized the chief and Patrolmen Adams and Hempstreet, and they then showered congratulations on their fine appearance.

"It's great, boys," said the mayor. With the new caps worn by the force strangers and newcomers to the city can now tell a policeman on the street from an ordinary native.

BUSINESS TONE ON COAST IMPROVES

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 26.—Prospects for 1921 crops of all kinds in the twelfth federal reserve district are exceptionally favorable, said a statement issued by the federal reserve board here today.

Reviewing general conditions, the statement said lumber mills are resuming operations, although production generally is far in the rear of normal. The pack of canned fruit, it added, has been passed and resumption of lumber mill operations and beginning of seasonal agricultural work are rapidly removing congestion in the cities.

Business failures during February, this year, were 10 per cent more numerous than in January, but 40 per cent less than in December. Notes made in the district were more active in February than during the whole month a year ago.

Mrs. McCumber Avoided a Serious Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Time

Georgetown, Ill.—"After my first baby was born I suffered so with my left side that I could not walk across the floor unless I was all bumped over, holding to my side. I discussed with several doctors but found no relief, and they said I would have to have an operation. My mother insisted on my taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. Now I can do all my own work and it is the Vegetable Compound that has saved me from an operation. I cannot praise your medicine too highly and I tell all of my friends and neighbors what the Compound did for me." — Mrs. Margaret McCumber, R. 3, Prairie St., Georgetown, Illinois.

Mrs. McCumber is one of the innumerable thousands of housewives who struggle to keep about their daily tasks, while suffering from ailments peculiar to women with backaches, sidaches, headaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness,—and if your sick woman should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial she would get well.

FRIENDS OF LATE CZAR LIVING IN SQUALID MISERY

RAGUSA, Jugoslavia.—(By Associated Press.) Friends of the late Czar Nicholas, members of the upper crust of society of imperial Russia, princes, dukes, generals, and barons are living in squalor in camps infested with typhus and typhoid here and at Cattaro Bay, on the Dalmatian coast.

Altogether they constitute a group of about 1500 of the refugees brought out from the Crimea when General Wrangell's anti-Bolshevik army collapsed and who have since been scattered about the Balkans.

Vestiges of their former imperial grandeur peep out from their rags when costly jewels saved in their flight from the Bolshevists are brought out from the recesses of the old bundles composing their dirty, unkept baggage. Princes, princesses and generals sleep on hard cement floors and barely manage to exist on the meager allowance of food doled out to them. Their costly furs, once exuberant but now scant and worn almost hairless, show the former richness of their owners.

The Associated Press correspondent visited several barracks of old forts and airplane hangars where the Russians are quartered. Generals could be seen in tatters waiting their turns for rations and eating soup and stew out of mess tins and then filling up on black bread. Their uniforms carried the insignia of imperial Russia with strings of medals across their breasts. Cossacks stood around in threadbare regalia of the old regime, wearing dilapidated astrakhan hats and tunics intended for British soldiers, while their riding boots were torn and ragged from long use.

The clothing of the women consisted of relics of better days. Some wore riding boots, the last footwear left from what once had been an extensive wardrobe. Some carried in their baggage Persian rugs which they had been able to carry on their long pilgrimage. Once they become well enough acquainted with a visitor, they offer for sale such jewelry as they still possess, so as to tide themselves over this period of distress. Some of the women had been bearing the imperial names.

Prince Tchaikofsky, formerly owner of several immense estates in Russia considers himself the most lucky of the refugees for he has managed to obtain a job tending bees for which he receives the equivalent of 40c a day. The only clothing he owns is a sailor-sweetheart suit, shoes and underwear issued to the American Red Cross.

Baron von Doenhoff, who says he was Imperial Wrangell's adjutant in the Crimean campaign, has at Cattaro $5,000,000 worth of continental silver weighing several tons but can do nothing with it as the Jugoslav government refuses to admit silver without paying a large duty which the baron is not able to do. So the silver remains at the custom house.

Baroness Nina Von Stackelberg, in addition to keeping an apothecary shop, sews and knits for the American Red Cross for which she receives 50 cents a day, enabling her to rent a small room in a hotel.

Maria Stanislaff, daughter of the former president of the Russian duma, has an executive position with the American Red Cross at 60 cents a day as she speaks English. Princess Sayhoupeff, formerly commander of the czar's auxiliary school and wearer of 36 decorations, is an office man for the American Red Cross at 60 cents a day. He shows rare enterprise for he is saving money and buying tools to make doll's furniture and says that within two months he will have a factory employing 20 persons.

In the majority of cases, however, the former noblemen are drilling for much coarser, unskilled work. The women are well fitted to become teachers and nurses, but the possibility exists in Jugoslavia is not such as to allow so large a number to be absorbed. Many of the Russian officers have volunteered to join the Jugoslav army.

Witnesses among the refugees are fighting to save the lives of their children. Miss Kuchinff, daughter of one of the czar's ministers and wife of a colonel in the imperial guards who was murdered by the Bolsheviks, is making surreptitious trips in an effort to keep her appearance and save herself and children from starvation. The American Red Cross is aiding her by giving an allowance of milk, shoes, etc., to her children.

Many of the Russians who are artists or dancers have organized an opera ballet to travel in Jugoslavia. The correspondent saw one performance and it was well done the work of professionals. Some of the opera singers among the refugees are making a living by singing the small coins handouts.

To the correspondent, who was riding in a small automobile, one of the Russians said: "Your machine is not worth riding in. Some years back we had 300 such cars in our stables. Now we have not a single one, for the Bolsheviks have got them all."

None of the 1500 refugees seemed to mind the rubbish although there was the same among them and another for the ill fit. Instead, American dancers have brought to the Russians such instruments and medicines as United States aid, which is there neither much space nor the American Red Cross has generously supplied them with drugs.

MODEST DRESS REFORM STRIKES SMITH COLLEGE

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Mar.—Desire for more modest and more becoming clothes expressed by the sophmore class of Smith College took shape in a fashion show held in the students' building, at which 112 young women of the college entered their favorite gowns.

The competition was limited to gowns for afternoon and evening occasions, but many girls came with clothes that were held to be more nearly appropriate for street wear and were ruled out. A prize was offered by Dr. Joel E. Goldthwait of Boston.

The student-competitors were their own mannequins, wearing the gowns that they had entered for the prize, walking across the stage before a numerous and critical audience, and turning this way and that on a low platform for better display, then seating themselves in an arm-chair and repeating the moves before passing out.

Marking for lines, color, modesty, suitability and becomingness, the judges, of whom three were undergraduates, found their choice difficult to make. After several re-exhibits, the first award was given to a girl of the east, Carolyn Hinman, of East Orange, N. J., a senior, with honorable mention for a representative of the middle west in Dorothy Hickman of Lafayette, Ind., another senior.

Each wore an evening gown, the prize winner being a white lace dress with a jade green girdle and train. Miss Hickman wore a flowered white taffeta with a very full skirt and simple bodice.

AUTO LEGISLATION FORUM SUBJECT

A topic will be discussed at the forum next Wednesday upon which considerable comment has been made and even some suggestions have been offered to invoke the referendum thereon. It is the automobile and highway legislation adopted at the last legislative session. The highway legislation is most satisfactory, but licensing of automobiles under the system adopted has been criticed severely.

Before members of the Chamber of Commerce come to any conclusion as to legislation, it is desired that they hear Benj. C. Sheldon who will explain the same and give reasons why the method of automobile taxation was adopted.

The forum will be held at the Medford Hotel.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO AID CHARITY HOME

The Christian church was handsomely decorated with flowers Sunday and all services were greeted by large crowds. The attendance at Sunday school was 356, and collection $22.61. It was decided to send $125 to furnish a room in the new home for aged and infirm people being established by the Christian church near Jacksonville, Florida. The anthems by the choir, solos by George Tom Wilson and Mrs. James Hayes and the congregational singing made up a musical program of exceptional merit. Both sermons by the pastor, D. E. Millard were highly appreciated. There were a number of additions to the church and the day was a fitting close to a successful week's meetings.

Professor Says: "Internal Baths Give Best Results"

Horace T. Dodge, M. D., Professor of Materia Medica, 24 Jacobson Bldg., Denver writes Burrell's Rectonic to patients in New York as follows:

"I can truthfully say that I have had the very best results in my experience with the "J. B. L. Cascade." You certainly have struck the keynote of colon diseases."

By means of the "J. B. L. Cascade" simple warm water cleanses the lower intestine the entire length, removes all the poisonous waste therein and keeps it clean and pure, as Nature demands it shall be for perfect health.

You will be astonished at your feelings the morning after taking an internal bath with the "J. B. L. Cascade." You will feel bright, brisk, confident and as though everything is working right—and it is.

It absolutely removes constipation, and prevents auto-intoxication.

West Side Pharmacy, Main and Front streets, will show and explain the "J. B. L. Cascade" to you and will also give you free a copy of a most interesting booklet, "Why Most of Sickness is Only Bad Bowels," by Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell, of New York, for 35 years a specialist on Intestinal Ailments. Ask for it today. Adv.

We wish to announce that our 1000 White Leghorn pullets have laid 130,000 eggs since September 1, 1920; are now laying 70 per cent and in all probability will pass a 220 a year average. In next year's breeding pens we will use 600 of the best of these layers, mated to cockrels with a high trapnest pedigree.

Our stock is the HANSEN STRAIN of Utility White Leghorns. The strain is of Tancred and O. A. C. origin.

A big demand for chicks and eggs from this stock is expected, so we will be glad to book your order now for 1922 delivery.
