FIANCEE GIVES TIP ON MOONSHINERS, INDICTED AS SUCH

Mangus Hall and his uncle, Florence Hall were arrested yesterday by Prohibition Officer S. B. Sandefer on charges of bootlegging and were taken to the county jail in Jacksonville. The grand jury which is now in session returned indictments against them and each is held on $1000 bail. Mangus Hall is a local man and Florence Hall, his uncle, is a resident of the Applegate district.

Mangus and a confederate were in Central Point last Tuesday night and at a dance that was in progress there it is alleged that they sold a quantity of moonshine. One of the men who drank some of the poisonous liquid became painfully ill. The man's fiancee called Special Agent Sandefer and when he arrived enough information was gained to cause the arrest of the two men. The victim of the poison is in a state of convalescence but for a while grave doubts were entertained as to his possible recovery.

The moonshine, which nearly caused the death of one of the indulging persons who partook of it, and caused several others a good deal of discomfort, is alleged to have been made by Florence Hall, the uncle, at his place on the Sterling mine road. The offenders maintain that they were not selling the stuff but were giving it away.

An additional quantity of the moonshine was found buried in Central Point when Sandefer made a search following the arrest of the alleged bootleggers. A gallon and a quarter was found buried beneath the floor of the barn.

O. O. Alenderfer is one of the latest flu victims, and is confined to his home with that ailment.

WOLGAMOTT AGAIN INDICTED UPON BOOTLEG CHARGE

Ernest S. "Dud" Wolgamott, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury now in session at Jacksonville, on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor. The indictment charges that the crime was committed on Feb. 4, 1922.

The last arrest and conviction of S. L. McClenden on a bootlegging charge, for which McClenden was fined $250 and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, came as a result of a sale on February 4th, and it was at the time alleged that he procured the liquor which he sold, from Wolgamott. It is supposed that this last indictment returned against Wolgamott is a result of the last McClenden case.

This is Wolgamott's fourth arrest on a bootlegging charge. He is under $1000 bail on this last indictment and was in Medford this morning endeavoring to raise the required amount. This puts his total bail, on all three cases pending, at the $3,000 mark.

EASTER VACATION IN SCHOOLS CUT DOWN BY BOARD

The Easter vacation of the Medford public schools will be a short one. This was decided by the board of education at its meeting last night. It was thought best not to give a full week to this vacation as usual, as Easter comes late this year, on April 16th, and if a week were given it would mean the closing of the schools for the year too late in June for those teachers who desire to attend the opening of the various summer schools.

Therefore it was decided to have the Easter vacation consist of Thursday, April 13th and Friday, April 14th, with of course the Saturday and Sunday non-school days added, and that the school year will come to a close on June 10th.

The schools have only been slightly hit by the flu, only 10 per cent of the pupils having been confined at home by all classes of sickness, and a few of the teachers, during the recent so-called flu epidemic. Many of this ten per cent have returned and more are coming back daily until but a small per cent are still out. There are now a small number of cases of chicken pox among school pupils.

As a general rule this has been the healthiest winter for years past with the pupils of the public schools and the public generally, outside of the flu situation, and this desirable state of affairs is attributed largely to the activities of Miss Van Scoyoc, the public school nurse, who divides her time between the schools of Medford and Ashland.

The new class room in the Lincoln school building was put in operation last Wednesday, relieving the congestion that has existed at several of the school buildings, although there are still several school rooms with more than 40 pupils each.

HEIGHT OF THIEVERY

TACOMA, Feb. 17.—J. Pratt told the police today thieves had dug up and removed a 50 foot flag pole from his front yard. The pole was so heavy that it is believed a truck was necessary to efect its removal, which occurred last night.

HUSBAND MEDFORD WOMAN FROZEN TO DEATH, NEVADA

RENO, Nev., Feb. 16.—On the night that he was lying exhausted near the railroad tracks, slowly freezing to death, his wife, Mrs. Viola Stokes, formerly of Medford, Ore., whom he deserted more than a year ago, dreamed that her husband was in great peril, and that he was somewhere in the vicinity of Reno. Her dream apparently has come true.

An unidentified man was found Sunday dying from exposure in the desert near Derby, 40 miles east of Reno. He died soon after he was found and had nothing in his pockets to identify him. He was dressed in a soldier's uniform, and a local paper printed a story to the effect that an ex-soldier was found dead near Derby and gave a meagre description.

Mrs. Viola Stokes, working as a domestic in Reno, related her dream to her employer, Mrs. Bert Edwards, who noted the connection with the story in the paper and the description fitted that of Mrs. Stokes' husband.

Mrs. Stokes got in touch with the coroner at Denby, and the description furnished by the coroner fitted that of her husband, even to tatoo marks on the arm and the dental work. She will go to Derby tomorrow to view the remains.

Her husband, Sergeant Henry A. Stokes, was a recruiting officer in Oregon and left Mrs. Stokes four days after the wedding, which took place in Medford, more than a year ago. She has been in Reno about six months.

There is no record in the county books of the wedding noted above. Stokes, according to acquaintances, was with the aviation service and only stationed here for a few days.

PIRATE BALL HEAD INVITED TO HANGING

PITTSBURG, Feb. 17.—An invitation to attend a hanging at Missoula, Mont., today was declined by Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburg National league baseball club.

Out in the western city, Joe Vukovitch, was to go to the gallows following his conviction of murder. Frank Jones, a Pirate scout and a resident of Missoula, recently secured the hanging invitation for his boss.
