SUNNYSIDE CHURCH BANQUET -- A SUO cossful men's banquet was held last night by the Sunnyside Methodist Episcopal Church, and was attended by 70, including cembers with their invited guests. The affair was for the purpose of getting the men together for a social time and to drengthen the "bonds of protherhood and cllowship with each other, as well as to make the guests feel at home. Until shortly after 9 o'clock the company remained at the church, where there was a musical programme by the Sunny-Young Women's Choir and Professur Insley. Good humor prevailed, and Dr. Ford bubbled over with mirth, which was infectious. Secretary William G. Lutz paired off the company for the march to the banquet in the Boys Brind. Hall or the company for the march to the banquet in the Boys Brinds. Hall, so that each guest marched a member. The tables were arwith a member. Work of the House of The Good Shepherd and Juvenile Court in Starting Juvenile Unfortunates on the Upward Path

"HE conduct of the House of the Good ; tions when they become sufficiently trust-THE conduct of the House of that order Shepherd by the Sisters of that order is deserving of the highest commendation. There are at present & girls in the institution, and they are the happiest, bestbehaved lot of girls one could find in all the country. They are allowed reasonable privileges by the Sisters, and on St. Patrick's day they put their work aside and enjoyed a little entertainment. Officer Hawley and Mrs. Daggett went out, accompanied by Miss Hawley and Miss Keneday, who gave the girls a little treat in the way of vocal music, and were in turn entertained by the singing of the music class. Club-swinging and other accomplishments were exhibited, and the afternoon was one of much pleasure for the Officer Hawley knew every girl in the Home, and it is significant of his great success as a special probation officer that children all love him, even after he has arrested and confined them in institutions. The Sisters were much pleased with the enthusiastic reception given him by the young girls, and the courteous deportment of the latter reflected great credit on the training they are receiving. This training is not confined to deportment, however, for all branches of housework are taught and when a girl leaves the House of the Good Shepherd she is fitted for service as a domestic in the most exacting fam-

Sister Rose, whose management has made the Home so successful, intends in-stalling a thorough domestic science department in the near future, so that the girls may have a course in practical and scientific cookery, including every branch of the culinary art. At present the in-struction is confined mostly to general housework, sewing and laundry work. Beautiful needle work is done by the girls under the supervision of a Sister who is an expert in this line, and much of the work which was shown the visitors yes-terday was exquisitely done. While reg-ular dressmaking is not done for outside orders, the girls are taught to make their own clothes. Embroidery and delicate lin-gerie is made to order for customers. The laundry conducted in connection with this institution is well known throughout the city on account of the excellent work it turns out, and girls who receive a training there by the Sisters are capable of doing the highest-class work on their re-lease from the Home. The plant is a very large one and the extensive grounds permit of drying clothes outdoors, which

A girl of 14 was pointed out by the Sisters as being a remarkably fine laundry worker and capable of earning the best wages paid, while another little girl or 12 is said to be able to cut and make all her own clothes. Such training as this for wayward girls is beyond a commercial valuation, for it not only occupies their minds and hands during their residence at the Home but fits them for good posl-said Mr. Hawley after the visit, "but every time I go to the House of the Good Shepherd I am more and more astonished to see what the Sisters accomplish with those girls. If you could see the differ-ence between some of them when I take them there and after a few weeks' residence, you would not believe it possible to make such changes in them."

One of the most peculiar cases which the Juvenile Court has ever handled came up last week. There was no charge of delinquency against the four children, who was hard to determine just how to record the matter. "It is the greatest mixture of colossal ignorance and affection I ever saw," said Mrs. Daggett, after she had left the little ones in care of Mrs. Nisley, at the Detention Home. "and while my heart fairly bleeds for the father of these children. I am happy to say that they are under Mrs. Nisley's care."

This father and his family of children arrived in Portland from the mountain districts of Arkansas one day last week and took up their abode in a room in the North End. Officer Hawley heard that the four children were living apparently alone next door to a saloon and dance-hall and that conditions in the so-called home were bad, so he and Mrs. Daggett investigated. The story which they got in full after several visits was to effect that the mother has been dead sev-eral years, and the father has taken entire charge of his little brood. While in their mountain home he kept them co stantly with him even in the fields while he was at work. One might say they have been raised under the trees. His affection for them is unusual, but his igthem in a terrible condition. They speak the language of the mountain folks, know not a letter or figure, and had never experienced a bath, Although the father has regular work and makes sufficient to care for them regularly, they have lived on cold food purchased at stands, the father not seeming to realize that he could employ a cook or board at a restaurant.

They all had their first hot, well-cooked meal in four years yesterday, and it was pitiful to see their eager enjoyment of the food. The first bath and clean clothes were also on the day's programme, but it took much assurance on the part of Mrs. Nisley and Mrs. Daggett to persuade the smaller children that it would not burt "I ain't never been away from them air

"I have been an officer for many years," emotion, but it was hard for this father to go back to the little room alone. The children will be put in school at once.

Investigation of four cases of diphtheris last week brought to light a case of the terrible devastation which women and drink can bring to a family. A little over a year ago the family in question was living happily, owned a splendid home, and the father had a good business and several thousand dollars in the bank. Tostreets, and the wife and her four bedridden children are living in a shed which used to be their chicken-house during their prosperity. The home is occupied by strangers, and the heart-broken mother sees them come and go from the window of her miserable abode. The father does absolutely nothing toward their support, and it became necessary for her to receive public charity. The children are reported as being out of danger, but still very ill.

Some tailor will be asked to cut the gar-ments, and it is probable that Mrs. Daggett will arrange for the making of the uniforms by some of the many public-spirited women who are taking deep interest in juvenile work. That it possesses pleasing qualities is evidenced by the fact that it ran for an entire season there and also for one in London. Miss Gallatin's work as an emotional actress is well known here and lovers of all that in good in plays are assured that in the comedy role of "Cousin Kate." When well selected food has helped the honest physician place his patient in sturdy health and free from the "doctor habit" it is a source of satisfaction to all parties. A Chicago woman says:

"We have not had a doctor in the house during all the 5 years that we have been using Grape-Nuts food. Before we began, however, we had "the doctor habit" and scarcely a week went by without a call on our physician.

"When our youngest boy arrived, 5 years ago, I was very much run down and nervous, suffering from indigestion, and almost continuous headaches. I was not able to attend to my ordinary domestic duties and was so nervous that I could scarcely control myself. Under advice I took to Grape-Nuts.
