Oregon News in Brief

BEND, Ore., Sept. 21.—Prospects loomed this week-end that the Eugene Bend stage line will be operated continuously all winter long.

Plans are being made to keep McKenzie pass open during the snow season, according to owners and operators of the line.

M. A. Reed and M. C. Hickman, owners of the line, plan to confer with representatives of the bureau of roads at Portland, asking permission to operate a power snow packer to be driven ahead of the stages. They will go on to Rainier national park to inspect the snow packer and equipment used in the park last year to keep the roads open.
