RICHFIELD TO INSTALL BEACON TOP SISKIYOU

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Norris, proprietors of the Summit ranch lodge and service station, on the Pacific highway on the summit of the Siskiyou mountains, have leased the service station and garage to the Richfield Oil company of California. They will install improvements at once. A steel tower, 125 feet high, will be erected, electrically lighted and display a huge beacon on its top, and illuminations on the sides, advertising the company.

The old service station and garage will be torn down, and in their stead attractive up-to-date buildings will be erected. The new station will be one of the finest and best equipped on the Pacific highway between Canada and Mexico.

Across the highway from the station Mr. Norris will operate a confectionary store, lunch counter and tea-room for the accommodation of tourists.

MAKE IMPROVEMENTS OWEN-OREGON PLANT

Construction work on the 200-foot addition to the shipping shed of the Owen-Oregon Lumber company is proceeding rapidly, and it will be ready for operation shortly. The six dry kilns are about half finished, and 2000 feet of trams and rails are being laid.

In connection with the improvements now underway, the 50-year-ago column of the American Lumberman, in a recent issue, shows that history is repeating itself. The item is:

J. G. Owen, East Saginaw, is building 1,000 feet of new deck and 1,000 feet of tramway. A two-story frame barn has been erected on his mill premises.

J. G. Owen is the father of James H. Owen, general manager of the local plant.
