Kiss War Delays Opening School Chicago Suburb

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Union Ridge school failed to open for the fall term Tuesday, and while 500 elementary students in suburban Norwood township enjoyed an extended vacation, their parents battled over the subject of "kissing teachers."

The conflict was over the reappointment of Principal Charles O'Hearn, accused in a "poison pen" letter of becoming too affectionate with his teaching staff of three young women.

Noble J. Puffer, Cook (Chicago) county superintendent of schools, declined to certify O'Hearn as principal, whereupon Herman Reussow, head of the township school board, refused to certify the three teachers, Mary Hammond, Clarabelle Lindsay and Larinda Cleary.

PORTLAND'S SCHOOL POPULATION LOWER

PORTLAND, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Portland's school population fell another notch Tuesday when 43,813 pupils, 809 less than last year, reported for the opening day.

For the tenth successive year, grade school enrollment showed a decrease. The high school total was up 242 however.

About 150 of the 1,051 slump in grade school attendance was attributed to refusal of former Brooklyn school pupils to attend other schools. All but the first three grades of Brooklyn were discontinued to make room for a six-year high school.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Additional public works administration projects, totaling 140 and involving 45 per cent grants aggregating $4,855,142, were approved today by President Roosevelt.

Indicating that the president had modified his previous requirement that relief labor be used exclusively, PWA officials said 70 per cent of the workmen would be taken from relief rolls.

Today's allotments were made from PWA's share of last year's $4,000,000 relief appropriation.

Put in jelly bag and press out all the juice with a potato masher. Put juice on stove and boil until thick enough for jelly, then add 2 cups sugar to 3 cups of juice. Boil until it boils up like jelly, then bottle.

Bing Crosby Coming to Craterian

Proclaimed by critics and public alike as being the best film Bing Crosby has appeared in for a long time, "Rhythm on the Range," comes tomorrow to the Craterian theater for a three-day run.

The film introduces the bazooka-playing Bob Burns, radio's latest sensation, to motion picture audiences, besides featuring Frances Farmer, Martha Raye, Warren Hymer, George E. Stone and Lucille Gleason.

Crosby and Burns are cowboys in the picture, which opens with the pair appearing in a Madison Square Garden rodeo. The story's plot revolves around their return trip to Arizona, taking with them a prize bull Crosby has purchased, with Taurus adding to the livelihood.

Louis Prima's famous swing band furnishes the music to Crosby's crooning. There are seven new song numbers in the film.

On the same program with "Rhythm on the Range," the Craterian will show the official round-by-round pictures of the recent Joe Louis-Jack Sharkey heavyweight fight in which the dusky battler from Detroit starts the comeback trail with a smashing four-round knockout of the former champion.
