GIVE THEM THE PLEDGE

Should a boy of 15½ begin smoking? At what age it is not harmful to learn to smoke? What number of cigarettes can a boy of that age smoke daily without harm? If a boy of 15½ should not smoke, please give scientific reasons why not. I am a teacher. This information will be helpful to me in dealing with my own boys and the boys with whom I must discuss this problem each year.

Dr Brady

(Signed Mrs. L.F.M.)

Our youth, our parents, our teachers, our clergy and our doctors have come to a sorry pass if it is now necessary to cite scientific reasons why a child should not smoke.

But, come to think of it, the children in America are subjected to a thorough and strongly sustained educational propaganda which is so seldom questioned or even deplored by parents, teachers, clergy or doctors, that the children naturally assume it is sound and true—just as children in Germany in the past generation have been taught to believe whatever Hitler wanted them to believe. Every cigarette smoker contributes to the American propaganda every time he or she buys a package of cigarettes. It is pretty expensive, but then, we want out children to have the most expensive everything—that is the American way.

I believe there is still a reasonable amount of parental and filial love and devotion left in the world, and even if the doctors, the teachers and clergy preserve their safe dignified silence about cigarette smoking in childhood and youth, if a child isn't devoid of such devotion he or she will take a solemn pledge and keep the pledge, if the father or mother or both will ask the child to do so, say at the age of 10 or not later than 12 years, a pledge not to smoke before he or she is old enough to vote and be self-supporting. And with that, a pledge against taking any alcoholic beverage or liquor. This pledge once taken by the child, should be renewed on a suitable occasion as an anniversary reminder of the bond between parent and child.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Hollywood Hokum

In a radio interview a Hollywood beauty expert claimed that a woman should have a shampoo daily in order to keep her hair in perfect condition. (L. H.)

Answer—Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet "Care of the Hair." It includes advice on dandruff, superfluous hair, falling hair, prematurely graying hair, etc. You must ask for it—a clipping will not suffice.

Takes Some Forgetting

I'm a great believer in what I read in your column some years ago, that the best cure for most ailments is to forget them. (D. L. A.)

Answer—I'm the forgettingest person in this neck of the woods, and I'd like to forget I ever said that. I can think of plenty of ailments right now that would take some forgetting. Especially ivy poisoning. Man, had you suggested forgetting it when I had that, I hate to think what would have happened to you. It still rankles in my bosom that the present effective treatment with ivy extract injections was developed only after I had itched enough to last a lifetime. Readers may have on request a pamphlet on Ivy Poisoning — inclose stamped self-addressed envelope.

Poor Complexion

Please tell the girl who complained of poor complexion the very great relief we have had in our family by taking large doses of natural vitamin A, as directed in your pamphlet on Acne. It cleared my daughter's skin after much treatment by the doctors had proved unavailing. I do so wish all girls suffering from a poor skin could get the same benefit. (Mrs E. F. F.)

Answer—Any reader who asks for it (no clipping, please) and incloses stamped self-adrdessed envelope, may have the pamphlet on Acne—blackheads and Pimples.

Pocket First Aid Kit

Planning a camping trip, I'd like to know what I should take in a first aid kit. (C. L. H.)

Answer — Send stamped envelope bearing your address, for pamphlet instructing how to make up a pocket first aid kit and how to use it. If the trip is to take you into snake country you should carry a package of anti-venom—druggists have it, for rental charge if the package is not opened. Anyone can follow directions on package to administer the anti-venom in cases of snakebite.

LOCAL RATIONING BOARD ANSWERS SOME OPA CRITICS

In an effort to answer critics who from time to time complain over some regulation of OPA, local ration board officials today reminded residents that rationing has to solve an over-all problem and that the "greatest good for the greatest number of people" is the criteria for regulations, rather than the consideration of individuals or small groups.

"Many of the rules and regulations of OPA seem to be harsh," the statement reads, "but every single one of them is based on the idea that every man, woman and child in the United States is entitled to his or her share of every rationed product. In gas and food rationing, a certain stock pile is divided up amongst us all according to the coupons we are allowed. In tires, the OPA tries to keep all wheels moving but it recognizes the essentiality of police and firemen, doctors and upkeep and repair men.

"In price and rent control, OPA tries to insure a fair distribution without making it possible for those with money to get everything away from those with little money. If you look at OPA in this light, and if you consider its regulations on this basis, you will be surprised to find how logical and fair the operation is."
