Solenberger Says Farm Colonies Are Small, City Lodging-Houses Inferior-Finances Should

Be Published.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10 .- The first business session of the 22d National Conference of Charities and Correc-tions opened today in Horticultural Hall. In a paper on relief work of the Salvation Army, Edwin D. Solenberger, Salvation Army, Edwin D. Solenberger, general manager of the Associated Charities of Minneapolls, declared that the social relief work of the Salvation Army, as carried on through its homes, lodging-houses and other agencies, is peorly organized and poorly administered and that the "so-called charitable work of the army is largely subservient to financial interests."

Continuing, the speaker said: Farm Colonies Are Small.

Most people have gained the impression that the army has a large number of farm rotonies, and that thousands of poor people from the slums have been transferred to them. There are at present but three colonies, ones each in Ohio, Colorade and California, having a total of but 530 people.

The Salvation Army maintains at present The Salvation Army maintains at present about 74 lodging-houses in our various cities, furnishing beds at the rate of 16 and 15 cents a night. In its appeal for funds, the army speaks of "lodging thousands of homeless," and most people gain the impression that such lodging-houses are in part at least a charity, and that the accommodations furnished are much superior to those of the ordinary cheap lodging-house, run for profit.

Lodging-Houses Not Healthy.

Reliable information from a large number of typical American cities indicates that the system of cheap lodginghouses conducted by the army has all the defects of the poorest of the privately owned lodging-houses, and few, if any, advantages over them. Recently, in an Eastern city, a Salvation Army lodging-house was closed when the local Board of Health began to enforce the sanitary ordinances, while from widnly separated cities come accounts of specific glaring wills.

t is exceedingly difficult to secure satis factory information about the financial af-fairs of the Salvation Army. The business affairs of the Salvation Army are rapidly attaining large proportions, and those who give financial support to the organization certainly have a right to expect clear financial statements.

Brigadier Harper and Brigadier Lan-nan, leader of the Salvation Army forces in this city, replied to the criticisms of Mr. Solenberger.

The company was conducted on mutual lines, and by its means the policyholders, who paid a small sum monthly, received, upon birth of a living child, a cash benefit of from 300 to $500, depending upon the class of policy and the number of payments before the time of bircs.

The directors of the company say that the actual birth rate has proved so much greater than the estimated rate that they have found it impossible to do business profitably. At the present time there is said to be outstanding between $50,000 and $50,000 of insurance. No statement is made of the company's assets, but it is stated that the concern is solvent. that the concern is solvent.

GORKY DENOUNCES DOUMA

Appeals to Authors of America to Aid in Struggle.

NEW YORK, May 10.-The Douma, which was inaugurated at St. Petersburg today was denounced by M. Gorky, the Russian author, in an epistle which he issued today addressed to "Brothers in Arms, the authors of free America." it Gorky declares that the Russian people knew they must have a revolution it Gorky declares that the Russian people knew they must have a revolution in order to be free. Gorky's appeal is "an open letter to the authors of free America," and follows:

Brothers in arms: Why do I make my appeal to you?
Because in Russia the literary men are everywhere the first, they are the foremost to enter into the struggle for free-dom and the foremost to go down into the dungeons. Men of art, men of intellect, aristocrats of the spirit, these are the only true kings of the earth.
They first, before all others, ought to understand, feel, the misery of a people thirsting for freedom. You knights of the spirit, cannot regard with indifference the fate of my country: you cannot look unmoved upon the sufferings of my people. They are fighting for freedom; they are thirsting to drink from the cup of human thought, which you, too, have filled with the wine of your art.

The Russian government has for centuries kept the people chained, their bodies in the fetters of force, their minds in the dark bondage of prejudice; for centuries it has debauched the soul of the nation. But the people are alive; their soul lives. They arose. The government became frightened and yielded to their demands, they believed its promises. But the government has again deceived them. It promised them freedom, it has given them a constitution; it has given them a burlesque imitation of one.

The Russian people now at last under-

It has given them a burlesque imitation of one.

The Russian people now at last understand that they will get nothing except what they take with their own hands.

The Douma has destroyed all their illusions, all their hopes: it has filled the heart of the people with still greater hatred toward the government. They know now that they must have a revolution in order that they at least shall be free, that at last they shall enter the family of free nations of the world, that they may join hands with their comrades all over the world for the glory of mankind and the triumph of the human soul. Knights of the spirit, free people of a great and free country, remember the time when your forefathers fought for the liberty of America. That was but yesterday, and since then you have astounded the world with your power. That power was given you by liberty.

I should like to believe that all of you, both the veteran soldier of liberty and its new recruits, will respond to my appeal with one unanimous accord of a great and mighty heart.
