Your Health and It's Care

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Readers should address inquiries to: Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino, Beverly Hills, Calif.

THE LITTLE GIRL ACROSS THE WAY

For the first two or three years after the little girl across the way had learned how to walk, run and play we kept on cordial terms and I began to think that maybe I had made a friend — but it became evident that her parents didn't take any stock in my teachings — especially about cold, dampness and clothing.

All through the rainy season the poor kid was kept cooped up in the house and it irked me so that I felt some resentment and probably betrayed my feelings in passing the time of day with her parents. I suppose they resented my attitude some too. Anyway, they queered my pitch by telling my little friend that Dr. Brady says little boys and girls must not drink pop, especially kinds of pop that contain caffeine or caffeine-like drug.

I do say so, indeed—but why make me the goat? Doesn't every doctor or health advisor who is competent to have an opinion about it say the same thing? I feel bad about this because, in spite of the little girl's parents' cryophobia (morbid or irrational fear of cold) and hygrophobia (morbid or irrational fear of dampness) we were in a fair way to build a great friendship, this delightful child and I. The whole thing was wrecked when the benighted parents, having trained the child to drink pop, one kind containing caffeine-like stimulent, now made a sorry apology for their error by telling the child that "Dr. Brady says it is not good for little girls." That was more than our budding friendship could stand. Thereafter the young lady's greeting, formerly so cordial, became a jeer or a taunt to the effect that she had just had a glass of pop and she was going to have some more pretty soon, so there.

Seriously, though, I do feel sorry for that child. The more pop, pap and lollypops, cheat-food she receives the poorer her nutrition will be, and inevitably as she grows (or fails to grow) into girlhood and young womanhood her health, vite and good looks will suffer.

After all it is just as easy to train a child to drink milk, lemonade, orangeade, tomato juice, when any beverage other than water is needed, and these drinks not only refresh but supply minerals and vitamins which every child needs to keep him healthy and happy.

Mind, now, I do not believe or teach that children and youths may not indulge in candy, ice cream, sugar, syrup or sweets in general. On the contrary I assure you that children, youths or adults who play hard or work hard (muscular work) can take extra amounts of sweets with advantage, and indeed it is a fundamental principle of physiology that the child who plays hard actually needs more of such things—sugar, candy, ice cream, cake etc.—than his sedentary parents can advantageously metabolize or utilize. The child burns it up, whereas the comparatively inactive adult just stores the excess intake as fat.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Eggs

Son, 4½ years old, loves eggs, eats two or three a day. Is this too many? (Mrs. L. D.)

Answer—No. Excellent food for child or adult, and there are too many imaginary reasons for eating or not eating, cooking or not cooking eggs. Child or adult may eat eggs as he or she likes—raw, soft boiled, hard-boiled, fried—all same food; as often as he likes; as many as he likes.

Cold Sores

I spent two years in a flying school on the desert. There all pilots and other personnel regularly took salt tablets, during the summer, and there were few cold sores (fever blisters, herpes). But many pilots thought they could omit the salt tablets in the winter time, not realizing that the air was still extremely dry and took much water from their bodies even in the winter. I continued taking the salt tablets the year around and had no cold sores. The pilots and others who stopped taking salt in the winter had many cold sores. There it is, for what it is worth. (Mrs. A. B. J.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. There may be a good deal in your interesting observation. Herpes is probably a virus infection. When the fluid from a herpetic vesicle is inoculated in a rabbit it will produce keratitis (corneal inflammation). In some cases of herpes (cold sores) on the face, there is very serious corneal (eye) involvement (inflammation, ulcer) and damage to eyesight (corneal opacities) when the ulcer finally heals. One of the most effective remedies is iodine—applied by the doctor, of course after application of a local anesthetic.
