Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood —(U.P.)— "Personality differences" ruined his marriage, Edmund Purdom decided today. Hollywood success wasn't the cause, "because I'm not a success yet."

Aline Mosby

The dark, brash, English actor in an interview summed up his feelings toward the break with his wife, Tita—the noisiest marital todo in Hollywood in months.

Purdom since has dated exotic Linda Christian, separated from Tyrone Power, and Mrs. Purdom has lashed that Purdom was carried away by the "mink and ermine" of the Cinema city.

Sniff at Snuff

Young Purdom also has been sniped at by gossip columnists for introducing snuff at Hollywood parties. Newshens further awarded him the 1954 "Sour Apple" for being the most uncooperative actor of the year.

The object of this controversy declares he doesn't think he has tasted success yet to turn his head.

"Success can affect people, but I certainly haven't seen any evidence of success yet," said the actor as he adjusted the sword of his costume on the "King's Thief" set at MGM and offered me some snuff from a glass jar (I sneezed).

"The pictures I've done haven't reflected my personal success. Incompatability ended my marriage. I think it's a pity Tita had to blame it on Hollywood.

"And for her to blame another woman! I don't understand why a woman would try to tell everybody she lost out to someone else. But then there's no accounting for women's behavior.

Wasn't Stolen

"Women," he added slowly, "do not steal husbands from wives.

"I can say nothing further to justify myself except at Tita's expense, and I do not think husbands should blast their wives in public. Our relationship was just ont ideal. Our marriage, ever since the beginning, has been, not violent, but eventful."

His recent publicity, he admitted, has been "distressing."

"Some people always come out white as the driven snow, and others, no matter what they do, wind up the heavy," he grinned. "I hope the divorce (which he filed) will be the solution. And I hope the children get a new father soon."

As to the snuff, Purdom explained he met an actor 10 years ago at Stratford-On-Avon who snuffed. Purdom took up the habit because "it clears the head, especially after drinking wine. And I don't like to smoke at the dinner table," he said, and took another pinch.

Texas has 15 oil fields that produced more than 10,000,000 barrels each in 1953, and 184 fields producing more than 1,000,000 barrels yearly.

Your Health and Its Care

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Readers should address inquiries to: William Brady, 263 El Camino, Beverly Hills, Calif.

THE SELF-STYLED MEDICAL AUTHORITIES DO NOT CHOOSE TO ANSWER

Avowedly I am no great shakes as an authority on anything.

Nevertheless a good many people, are apt to think there must be some truth in my teachings if I keep repeating things here that no qualified physician openly denies.

Dr. Brady

There are good reasons why real doctors nesitate to answer in print teachings of mine which they believe are wrong. In the first place it imperils a physician's standing in the profession and in the community to break into print even to chastise a so-and-so. In the next place, there is, after all, some foundation in fact for what I teach—say about the treatment of hernia—and every doctor knows it.

Not more than 25 years ago I repeatedly asserted in this column that radical surgery was the only cure for hernia (otherwise called rupture or breach). That was what I had been taught in medical school, indeed it was taught in all medical schools.

But, as every honest doctor must admit, not everything taught in medical schools 25 or 50 years ago were so. The "vast strides" of medicine were not made by marking time.

First I learned from numerous readers that a mid-western physician of good professional standing was successfully treating hernia in his office, without hospitalization and without detaining the patient from his regular work, play or social activities for more than a few minutes at each seance.

Unhesitatingly I branded the doctor as a charlatan and assured the readers who described their experience that cure of hernia by such treatment was utter humbug. Why, I oraculated, it had been tried by various old timers and discarded as worthless or dangerous. "Maybe so," said some of my readers. "All I know is that my hernia is cured."

This is exasperating. When a doctor pronounces something so or not so, the least a mere layman can do is to take the doctor's verdict as final.

While I was mulling the situation in my uneasy mind I learned of some experimental investigation a young doctor an hour from home was conducting, pertaining to the effects of various chemical solutions on animal tissues. I followed his work until he determined precisely what formula to use for injection (ambulatory) treatment of hernia.

I watched him and later other doctors administering the treatment, and observed the effects on their patients.

Ultimately I plunked for ambulatory, office, injection treatment of hernia.

For doing so I was branded by my good colleagues — the poor geeks can't think for themselves —a "radical," "dangerous" "a menace" etc.

But ask these plaster minds one question:

How come the best textbook on hernia (according to the AMA's expert), Watson's HERNIA, 3rd ed., Mosby, St. Louis, '48, devotes five of its 43 chapters to injection treatment?

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
Basketball for Girls

The authorities have asked the schools in our district not to schedule any more basketball games for girls. Do you think that this pastime will do any harm to a high school girl's health? My sister played for four years, and I think she is all the better for it. I think the physical directors and physicians at that meeting had old-fashioned ideas. Please give me your opinion and I'll tell the other girls and maybe we can convince our superintendent we need our athletics. (M. M. R.)

Answer—I think basketball is a fine game for girls, but I agree with the authorities who would prevent competitive basketball contests between teams of school girls. Another evil in the high schools which the authorities ought to prohibit is football, which might well be superseded in high school by boxing. Boxing is an art which every high school boy should be compelled to study. I do not think boxing is advisable for girls, however, and for the same reason that I do not think interscholastic basketball is advisable for girls.

MUCH READING

Is there such a thing as hurting one's eyes by reading too much I am a home girl and read until late into the night every night and almost all day on Sunday and holidays. Mother is always telling me I will hurt my eyes. I never have any trouble, only sometimes my eyes burn, and feel queer after long reading, and I bathe them with boric cid solution and then they feel all right. (L. W.)

Answer—No harm in it if the lighting is right. But your love of reading should not interfere with getting sufficient daily exercise.

Newsman Discusses Police and Press

Grants Pass — Eric Allen Jr., city editor of the Mail Tribune, was the speaker Monday evening at a meeting of the Southern Oregon Peace Officers association. The meeting was held at the Grants Pass Elks club.

In a discussion of the relationship between law enforcement agencies and the press, Allen told members of the association that impartial enforcement is the most important of all police functions. The police and the press have a common service to the citizenry, he said.

Allen outlined freedom of the press guarantees in the national and state constitutions and discussed policies on news about juvenille delinquency.

The speaker listed suggestions for police concerning press releases, accuracy, and friendly relations between news gathering medias and law enforcement agencies.

Max McMillin, association president, presided at the meeting.

Farm Land Prices Show Slight Gain

Washington—(U.P.)—Farm land prices last November showed a two per cent gain over November, 1953, the Agriculture department has reported.

A report on farm real estate values said price gains registered in the Midwestern farm belt offset moderate declines in most other states.

Indiana and Illinois showed the largest increases with land values in each up six per cent from November, 1953.

Largest declines from a year ago were reported in the mountain and Pacific Coast regions, where the November land prices average 15 per cent lower than the post-Korea boom.

Chicago—(U.P.)—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, is in Passavant hospital for treatment of what was described as a minor ailment.

A terribly rich hermit, who hadn't heard that the bank had moved, walked into the old location yesterday only to be confronted with a scene of utter destruction.

And promptly fainted.
