'Talk to Yourself' Say Driving Safety Experts

Detroit —(U.P.)— Motorists who take long trips by themselves would be smart if they talked to themselves.

Safety experts say that talking to yourself when on a long trip is the best way to relieve the fatigue and boredom that often cause traffic accidents. New turnpikes and expressways make monotony an ever-increasing highway problem.

Other ways to combat boredom is to drive with the radio blaring, vary the driving speed, stop frequently to eat, and make plenty of stops to stretch muscles.
