pose. It is on the understanding I have with the Prosecuting Attorney's office that no inquest will be held. "Deputy Prosecutor Winstad declared to me that there was no doubt as to the cause of the wreck. He said it was caused by the train going at high speed around a curve and over a bad roadbed. "Prosecuting Attorney Kirkpatrick was in the woods on a camping trip, and Mr. Winstad went to see him. It was after his return with the prosecutor that I de-rided no inquest would be held but that I would let them take the matter into the Superior Court. I understand that they have been gathering considerable evidence and will be prepared to act when the proper time comes."

Driving Out Disorderly Women.

Driving Out Disorderly Women. CENTRALIA, Wash, July 26.—(Spe-cial.)—The negro women of the red light district in Centralia got drunk this week and were arrested and fines of 450 and costs each were levied. Sentence was suspended on condition that the women should pay the costs and leave town. Three of the four ac-cepted the situation. Grace Patterson, the "landlady," decided to stand trial. The Patterson woman's attorney has stated that if she is driven out of town, he will cause all the other women to leave town and cause a general clean up. This seems to be what the city ad-ministration wanta and all the assist-ance possible will be given.

ditures would be almost the same as apportionment according, to assessed valuations at the present time, so that the plan to go into force in 1910 will do substantial justice. But against the practical workings of this law stands the proposition that it is not in compliance with the consti-tutional requirement that the Legisla-ture shall provide by law for uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxa-tion. And it is upon this proposition that W. J. Lachner based his minority report. He contends that the appor-tionment must be made according to report. He contains that, the appor-tionment must be made according to property valuations and not according to the amount of money a county ex-pends. The fact that the variation may be slight he considers of little importance If the plan of apportionment violates the fundamental principle of equal rate of assessment and taxation, Lachner contends that it cannot stand the test of the Supreme Court, And since the Supreme Court has knocked out an supreme Court has knocked out an exemption law which has been recog-nized as valid for half a century, the question is presented with particular force whether the apportionment plan to go into operation in 1910 would meet the same fats the same fate. the same fait. The question is one that must be de-cided by the next Legislature, for there will not be another session until 1909 and if a change is to be made in the law it should be made not later than 1907 in order that the new system, if one he deviced may become become of nor be devised, may become known and understood before it becomes operative. While it would be possible to enact a law in 1969 governing the apportion-ment to be made in 1916, there would be more likelihood of confusion than Chief Wappenstein Forbids Acceptance of Work at The Meadows When Off Duty.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 25.--(Special.)--Chief of Police Wappenstein tonight post-od an order forbidding police officers from accepting any work outside the city lin-its while off duty, and warning his men against attending the races. This order is directed at half a dozen men who have been employed while off duty as peace officers at The Meadows. These men have been paid 24 an afternoon for stand-ing about in uniform. There has been no occasion for their interference. The Meadows is located outside the city limits, and police officers have no author-tiy to do anything but inspire awe. The officers who have lost their soft berths are indignant tonight. Chief Wappen-stein's orders against prizefighters, while affording protection to the racetrack, has excited adverse comment that led to to-night's drastic order. Clackamas Farmers Are Happy.

Clackamas Farmers Are Happy. OREGON CITY, Or., July 26.-(Special.) -There is an abundant yield of all hay and grain crops in Clackamas County this year that surpass the average in quality. Early fruits and vegetables yielded heavily, while the vineyard, field and orchard with maturing crops give the producer every assurance of increased prosperity with the harvest. In celebration of the large and satis-factory crops, a number of harvest festi-vals have been held and others are being arranged. It has been years since Clacka-mas County farmers were as prosperous and contented as this year's favorable conditions find them.
