PLANS ARE READY

Capacity of Terminal Yards to Be Doubled.

WAITING ON KRUTTSCHNITT

Orders to Go Ahead Will Be Given as Soon as Harriman, Director of Maintenance, Gives His Assent.

The extension of the Northern Pacific Terminal Company's yards to avoid the congestion of traffic that now obtains awaits the coming of Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance and operation of the Harriman system. Mr. Kruttschnitt is now on his way to Portland from San Francisco, and will probably arrive here this week. He will look over the plans and his approval will hasten the scheme of extension.

In a general way, the plans already prepared for the enlargement of the terminal yards include the doubling of the present trackage and the building of additional freight-houses to care for the increased traffic handled in the yards. It was expected to have these improvements completed this season, but delays were experienced in putting the plans into effect.

There has been an improvement in the dispatch given cars in the terminal yards, as a system of switching has been arranged that does away with so much shunting of cars to and fro. Northern Pacific freight trains are using the tracks near Linton for making up short trains of cars having a common siding, and the group of cars is then pulled to the yards and shunted on a switch. Formerly the cars were sorted out in the terminal yards. The same system is being followed by the O. R. & N. and Southern Pacific, by switching by these roads being done for the most part in East Portland and Albina.

Work on the new Hill terminals in North Portland, lying west of the terminal yards, will be commenced in earnest in the Spring. The filling of the low grounds in the tract is now in progress and will be continued throughout the Winter.

What use the Guild Lake tracts recently acquired by the O. R. & N. Co. will be put to is not yet given out, but it is supposed they will be turned over to the Northern Pacific Terminal Company, in which the Harriman interests own the controlling interest.

BIG RABBIT DRIVE

Portland Sportsmen Invited to Blalock Island.

PESTS TO BE SLAUGHTERED

Dr. N. G. Blalock Plans Great Gathering to Shoot All the Jack-rabbits or Drive Them Into the Columbia River.

WANTED—THREE HUNDRED MEN TO take part in a rabbit drive; meals will be furnished by the management. Apply to Dr. M. G. Blalock, Walla Walla, Wash.

Portland people are to be treated to a genuine Australian rabbit hunt some time during the month of October. The scene of the sport is to be Blalock Island in the Columbia River, near Coycote, on the O. R. & N.

Dr. N. G. Blalock, president of the Fruitgrowers' Association of Washington, and owner of Blalock Island, formerly known as Long Island, was in Portland yesterday for the purpose of interesting sportsmen here in the big hunt. An effort will be made to secure reduced rates on the railroad for the occasion, and it is probable that a large number of enthusiastic huntersmen will go from this city to take part.

Mr. Blalock promises to meet those who go from Portland at Coyote Station, and transfer them to the island and furnish the meals for the small army of rabbit hunters. A number of Tacoma and Walla Walla people will also take part in the drive, as well as a number of Indians who reside in that vicinity.

On the morning of the great drive the men will be organized army style and a gun, a double-barrel shotgun or a repeater preferred. The drive will be six miles in length, the distance from one end of the island to the other. As the march proceeds, the line extending from one side of the island to the other, the game, or rather pests, will be slaughtered. The little animals that are wise and continue ahead of the shooters will be cornered at the end. They will have to choose between drowning and being riddled with fire shot.

It is expected that now and then during the chase a coyote or fox will be encountered. This will relieve the monotony of just shooting rabbits, and help to make the day a grand one in every particular. A number have already interested themselves in Dr. Blalock's rabbit drive, and are looking forward to the big hunt. Last spring a drive was held on the island and 1000 rabbits met their death as a result. The little animals have multiplied to such an extent that there are thousands on the island and more than ever before.

Blalock Island is devoted to farming, and is six miles long and from a mile to two miles in width. It contains 4000 acres of land owned by the Blalock Company, of which Dr. Blalock is the president. Altogether, the company has 12,000 acres under cultivation in that vicinity. Dr. Blalock owned the island years ago, but during the panic in 1888 was compelled to give up the land. Recently he again secured possession of the tract, and is now carrying out his idea in life—to have a model farm in every particular. This year 12,000 apricot and plum trees were planted. Nearly 100 people are employed by the Blalock Company. About 50 of these live on the island, where modern and comfortable houses have been erected for their benefit. Each laborer who has a family is provided with a home free. Dr. Blalock's residence is also on the island.

Nine immense buildings for the storage of hay are being erected. There will be sheds for the different kinds of machines, stables for the horses, buildings for the protection of stock, and everything constructed to make the place perfect in every detail.

Roads will be laid out about the different sections, the irrigation ditches constructed as the doctor thinks they should be, and everything done to make the immense farm a model one in every way. In addition to the cultivation of fruit and hay, the company will also pay particular attention to the raising of stock.

Dr. Blalock left last evening for Seattle on business connected with the model farm. While in Portland he was a guest at the Perkins Hotel.

Newsstand Man Has Trouble.

J. W. Handley, a Portland cigar man, thought he saw an opportunity to do business in St. Johns, and went there last week to establish a newsstand. He set up a big shelf and stand on Philadelphia street, taking up two and one-half feet of the sidewalk. There is an ordinance against obstructing the sidewalk, and Chief of Police Fredson took him before Recorder Thordyke, who imposed a fine of $5. He allowed the stand to remain until yesterday, when he undertook to remove it, but was stopped by the Chief of Police. Handley had agreed to move the obstruction by last Monday, but failed to do so. For a second offense the fine is $10.

Picnic at Hawthorne Park.

Hawthorne Park was filled with boys and girls all day long yesterday. This time it was the annual festival of the young people of St. Paul's German Lutheran Church, East Twelfth and Clinton streets. Rev. August Krause, the pastor, was in charge, and he was assisted by members of the church. In the forenoon a brief programme of music and recitations was rendered on the platform under the direction of Rev. Krause. This was followed by a picnic luncheon under the shade of the trees and along the clear lake formed by the flow from Hawthorne Springs. In the afternoon games were played and songs sung. Shoes and stockings were discarded and a frolic was had wading in the shallow waters of the lake, or playing in the springs. The children voted that the city of Portland should buy the park. Almost every day some East Side organization spends the day in Hawthorne Park.

Tacoma Objects to Rates.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 8.—President William Jones, of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce, is to name a committee of that body to investigate and report on the new insurance rates which have become effective in Tacoma.

The food you eat costs three times as much as it did a few years ago—thanks to the trusts. But the heat you eat—when you eat Smith's meat—costs you no more than hard-boiled prices. Smith is
