Medical Expense Deductions Doubled

Washington —(UPI)— The Senate Thursday voted to double the amount of deductions taxpayers could take for medical expenses.

The compromise tax measure worked out by House-Senate conferees was passed by voice vote and sent to the House. It would increase from $2,500 to $5,000 the limit on tax deductible medical expenses for individuals, and raise the $10,000 limit on married couples filing joint returns to $20,000.

It would not change the current provision limiting total deductible medical expenses for persons under 65 to that amount which exceeds 3 per cent of their gross income.
