AUTOS HELD UP; SUSPECTS CAUGHT

Highwaymen Place Log Across Linnton Road and Stop Touring Cars.

FIRE SHOT AT CHAUFFEUR

Occupants of Machines Are Made to Stand and Deliver-Men Caught

Answer Description of Road Agents.

Two automobiles filled with passengers were boldly held up on the Linnton road about 9 o'clock last night, about one mile about 9 o'clock last mgnt, about one lines this side of Claremont Tavera, and less than three hours afterward two men supposed to be the robbers were captured in the city by Captain of Detectives Bruin and Patrolman Price.

The large automobile owned by Estes Dethers accounted by four persons was

The large automobile owned by Escess Brothers, occupied by four persons, was coming toward the city from Claremont Tavern and a short distance from the Cliff Inn the chauffeur, Arthur Smith, saw a log across the road just ahead. The machine was traveling very fast and Smith had no time to stop it. It shot over the log and stopped about 20 feet farther on. Smith did not suspect anything wrons, and knowing that another automobile was following some distance behind, etepped out of the car to remove the obstruction. He had just thrown it to one side of the road and was about to re-enter the car when a gruff voice com-manded him to threw up his hands. Smith paid no heed, as he did not see any one in the darkness, and jumped into the car. He was preparing to throw the throttle ide open and give the car full speed hen from one side came the report of shot and Smith's hand was grazed by the bullet. At that time the two robbers, both masked, one short and dressed in overalls and a slouch hat with a Mauser automatic pistol, and the other tailer and without a gun, commanded the pas-sengers, two men and two women, to get out of the car and throw up their hands.

Passengers Lined Up'on Road.

With the gun pointed at them and having heard the shot the passengers got out of the car and were lined up on one side. While the smaller man covgot out of the car and were lined up on one side. While the smaller man cov-ered the passengers with the gun the tall highwayman was searching them. The man with the gun seemed nervous and constantly shifted from one posi-tion to another. The tall man was very careless in his search and simply felt the pockets from the outside. Alto-gether the robbers obtained only $14 from the occupants of the automobile, and a watch and chain. They did not and a watch and chain. They did not search Smith, the chauffeur, who had about $60 on his person, and over-looked large amounts of money in the inside pockets of one of the passen-gers. One of the occupants had about $300 which he dropped into the bottom of the car and this was also overlooked by the robbers.

Just about that time the second ma-chine which was a short distance be-

Just about that time the second machine, which was a short distance behind, came up. At that the robbers allowed the first car to proceed and shot twice at the second machine, a White steamer belonging to Dr. Stevens, and driven by Chaufeur Luders. Luders stopped and the two men in the machine were ordered out. They were L. V. Pence and Walter Luch a surveyor. V. Pence and Walter Inch, a surveyor. After searching the occupants of the second car and obtaining only a small amount of change, about $4, they ran way in the darkness, reached the CMff Inn, and Smith tele-phoned the occurrence to the police sta-Soon after he drove down and described the whole hold-up to Captain of Detectives Bruin, and gave a fairly good description of the two highwaymen.

Immediately all detectives who had already gone home were called to the station and detailed on the case. Men were sent along both sides of the river to search for the two robbers. A report came in the mayor, Harry Lane, a franchise which has been granted by the Council to the O, R. whose descriptions closely agreed with that of the two who held up the automobile had crossed the river below.

Suspects Are Caught.

Suspects Are Caught.

While the sleuths were searching both sides of the river and running down clews as to the probable whereabouts of the highwaymen, Captain Bruin, with Patrolman John Price, went out to search for the two in this city. Their search for several hours met with no success. Shortly after midnight Bruin and Price, were walking on First street, and, nearing Clay, saw two men, who appeared to act suspiciously, and when they saw the detectives, tried to hide in the dark side street. With a flash both officers pulled their revolvers, and, running up to the support the Mayor in the action we desire. taller of the two threw his hands up, but the other one reached toward his hip pocket. Bruin struck him on his hands and while Price was holding one man. Captain Bruin overpowered the other, who made a violent struggle.

Both men were finally handcuffed and taken to the station. Here a Mauser automatic pistor with a number of cartridges was found on the short man. He wore solled overalls, slouch hat and car-ried a black handkerchief. Over 100 cart-ridges were found in a belt he wore ridges were found in a belt he wore around his body. The other man also wore a slouch hat and in his pockets were found a mask and a sum of money.

The short man gave his name as Jeff Howell and said he just came from Corvallis. The taller of the two said his name is Tim Bernard.

Both Deny Charge. Both denied their gullt and stoutly maintained that they were in their room the whole evening. Up to a late hour this morning none of the occupants of the cars could be found to identify the men, but the evidence found on them leaves no doubt in the minds of the police authorities that the men are those who robbed the automobile occupants. About $11 was found on each of the two highwaymen, supposedly the spoils of the hold-up. supposedly the spoils of the hold-up.

In addition to the gun, which is believed to be the same one with which the automobiles were held up, the overalls and the masks, the men bore eigns of a long tramp. Their shoess were wet and covered with mud, and the description of the robbers agrees perfectly with the two arrested last night.

DALARTO DEPILACHO HITS HIS COMPANION IN SHOULDER.

Enraged Over Quarrel in Game for Cigars. He Fires Three Shots at Carlo Sclico.

Carlo Selico was shot but not fatally wounded last night during a drunken brawl which terminated a cigar game in an Italian saloon at Fifth and Sher-idan streets. Dalarto Depilacho, an-other Italian, was arrested a short time later, charged with being the assailant. When news of the shooting reached When news of the shooting reached the police station, Sergeant Cole and Officer Price were dispatched to the scene and found Sclico badly wounded lying on the floor in a poel of blood. At first it was thought he would die, but he was sent to the Good Samaritan Hospital, where his wound was dressed by Dr. Glenn Wheeler, and it was said the man was out of danger. The shot had entered the shoulder and splintered the shoulder blade.

From statements of residents in the vicinity the officers located Depliacho in hiding in the house at Fifth and Baker streets, a short distance away. While Patrolmen Stewart and Ogg guarded the doors, Cole and Price entered and soon found their man. pilacho started to draw a gun and put up a fight, but was soon uparmed and taken in custody.

When Sclico had sufficiently recovered to talk of his injuries, he discussed the affair with the police. He said that a quarrel broke up a card game and that Depliacho attacked him, shooting at him three times. Only one of the shots took affect.

More Testimony in Oregon-Washington Dispute.

OREGON PROSPECT BETTER

New Evidence Has Developed Which May Swing to Beaver State Ownership of Grounds Worth About Half Million.

Members of the Oregon and Washington Interstate Boundary Commission were in session all yesterday at the Hotel Portnd taking testimony relative to the dis pute between the two states as to the proper boundaries from the mouth of the Columbia River to the head of navigation, and will probably finish with the work sometime today.

Last July the same commission took Astoria, Or., and Ilwaco, Wash., and the case was then pronounced closed. It was reopened, however, at the request of residents of Oregon who owned some of the seining grounds and who employed A. M. Smith, an attorney of Astoria, to do so and he has since assisted State Atso, and he has since assisted State At-torney-General Crawford, of Oregon, in the conduct of the hearing.

A mass of important evidence has been introduced at this hearing, calculated to introduced at this hearing, calculated to sustain the Oregon contention, covering the period from 1862 to the present date, and consisting of the testimony of steamboat men and river pilots, who have been familiar with the situation during that period. At the previous hearing there was no evidence whatever introduced in healif of this state to systain the theory. behalf of this state to sustain the theory that Oregon was entitled to any of this valuable property, the holders of which have for many years been paying state taxes and fishing licenses in both Oregon and Washington on account of the quandary.

Rival Route Claims.

The contention of Oregon is that the original ship channel ran from the mouth of the Columbia River around the north side of Sand Island; thence in a direct course to Smith's Point at Astoria; thence along the Astoria water-front to Tongue Point; thence in a northeasterly direction to Harrington Point on the Washington shore; thence following the Washington shore up to what is known as Bay View, or Three Tree Point.

The Washington contention is that starting from the mouth of the Columbia River, the boundary line follows the present ship channel on the south of Sand Island; thence along the center of said channel to Fort Stevens, and along what is known as the South Channel (which is now the regular ship channel) to Tongue Point, thence up what is known as the middle or Woody Island Channel to Three-Tree Point, or Bay View. No testimony has been taken pertain-ing to the dispute any further up the river than Three-Tree Point, or Bay View, it being generally conceded that there is only one main channel from there up to the head of navigation.

Half-Million at Stake.

Upon the decision of the Commission will hinge the ownership of the valuable seining grounds along the river, various-

At the session of yesterday John W. Welch, of Astoria, a pilot, testified as to the direction of the water in the Woody Island and Cordell Channels. George Kaboth, who owns Snag Island, gave important testimony showing the the channel used by the large abits is identical nel used by the large ships is identical with the one claimed by Oregon at the time of the charter grant.
