REGISTRATION IS A DUTY

Until we citizens of Oregon come to consider the franchise as a duty instead of a privilege, we are going to make a muddle of liberal, popular, legislative machinery. When one studies Oregon elections of recent years, and notes how measures for governance of the commonwealth's individuals and their activities have so often been placed upon the statute books by a minority of the electors, it is not cheering. We have been led to believe that the initiative and referendum were a necessity for escape from the machinations of the few who would prey upon the government and their fellow citizens. But whence have our reforms taken us? We still permit a few to pass the laws. Unless we awaken to our duty at the polls we might better have allowed our lawmaking machinery to remain in the hands of a few chosen legislators.

Our system of initiating laws is now fraught with dangers because of the indifference of electors. An Oregon ballot has come to be a formidable blanket of paper, and the timid man or woman can hardly be blamed for standing aloof. Engrossed with private affairs, the average citizen considers that he hasn't time to study measures on the ballot. The campaigns of supporters and attackers of certain measures when issues are drawn are too often confusing. The comparatively small percentage of the voters who do turn out on election day pass upon the majority of the measures without knowing just what they are voting for or why. The results of voters' decisions are often inexplainable or comic.

At a former Oregon election, a measure appeared on the ballot for the purpose of removing from the constitution that old phraseology, refusing negroes the right to vote, which was abrogated by the 14th amendment to the federal constitution. The voters of the state, however, decided that Oregon's constitution, although that part which the measure proposed to eliminate was purely superfluous, should not be thus mended.

The dangers of our system at present, with voters indifferent and apathetic, comes from vicious legislation, proposed through the initiative. We have been alarmed recently over the proposed law that would limit the Oregon interest rate to four and five per cent. The proposed legislation, it is generally conceded, is vicious and would serve no good purpose to any one. The newspapers have discussed it, and public speakers have talked about it, yet we have recently talked with reputable citizens who hadn't heard that such a law had been proposed. The proposed interest law has, apparently, fallen by the wayside before reaching the ballot, but had it come before the people, Oregon might have been burdened with its vicious regulations by a minority vote.

The biennial primary election, with its customary attendant measures, fast approaches. Registration will close on April 21, and yet scores and scores of Hood River citizens have failed to register. Unless you would have the pendulum swing back to some system whereby the powers of law-making are placed in the hands of a chosen few, we would urge that you perform the duties that existing systems attach to you as citizens. Register and visit the polls.

GEORGE SHEPPARD

We welcome the announcement that George Sheppard, of the Odell section, has decided to run for the county commissionership. Mr. Sheppard has been reared in the county and knows the needs of the rural sections. Mr. Sheppard is a progressive citizen, withal a conservative one. He will, we believe, serve as county commissioner, bringing honor and respect to himself and general good to the county.

An old saying goes: "What you don't know won't hurt you." That may be all right if the "what" you are talking about is not a colon bacillus. The proximity of those cesspools to the old city reservoir causes us to look forward to summer drinks of water with displeasure. We do not know that the water will be contaminated, but we do know that filth is too close for comfort.

Now that March has passed like a lion, you may get your garden in. Exchange some of your favorite seeds for some of your neighbor's favorites. Get up with the robins, and soon, when the peas begin to grow and you see your potatoes slipping up through the soil, the hardships of the past winter will have been forgotten.

It has been said that every knock is a boost. Backers of Herbert Hoover must have had a hand in the Johnson-for-President Club's activities in sending out triplicate copies of scurrilous articles on the former food administrator. Johnson certainly has an asinine campaign manager.

Hood River county had a hand in launching the American Legion, an organization that is nationwide today and which has over 1,000,000 members. Jack Anderson, who grew to manhood here, and who, now that fighting days are over, may be found engaged in fitting out refrigerator cars down in the railroad yards, was a member of the original caucus of American soldiers in Paris, when the patriotic organization was launched. A number of other Oregon men were present. They attended the historic meeting as delegates from several of the combat divisions and service of supply sections and took active part in the birth deliberations of the legion. The name "American Legion" was adopted, temporarily, at that meeting, and was ratified in subsequent gatherings.

We certainly do not care for the Non-Partisan League, under whatever name it might be foisted on us, here in Hood River. Indeed, we do not look for any cheer to go forth to Non-Partisan headquarters from Hood River. We have too much faith in the intelligence of the people of the valley. But it is well to be on the alert and not permit ourselves to be fooled.

Hood River made a notable record in financial circles for March. The city forged to 16th place in amount of deposits, and it was the only city showing an increase. After all the tribulations of the past winter the year is going to close most gratifyingly.

We are getting weekly reports from those who have spent the winter in southern California as to the lack of Oregon publicity in the south. Again we say, why not let Frank Branch Riley spend next winter in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego?

The day's news recently has told of many new hotels in various cities of the Northwest. News of the coming summer is going to note the serious needs of such accommodations in Hood River.

Will ceaseless drives continue to harass the heads of families, whose pocketbooks are already showing a paucity of contents? The numerous campaigns for money are all worthy, but are burdensome to many.

Whether we call them rival clean-up weeks or supplementary ones, we hope that enough of them are proclaimed to result in real furbishing up of premises.

If the snow extended to eastern Oregon it may well be called a million dollar precipitation. It was worth thousands to Hood River valley.

The recent weather, no doubt, has been good for the fruit, but it was disastrous for the dwindling fuel pile.

Somebody will report a strawberry blossom now in about a double dangle of a lamb's tail.

The last call for candidates!

Register immediately.

Horses Killed by Lead Poisoning

Lead poisoning, resulting from spray applications on cover crops, has been fatal to a number of horses this winter. The horses have received fatal doses from eating hay cured in orchards. Growers have been warned to use care in spraying orchards from which they expect to harvest hay.

Victor Beauregard has lost two valuable horses from poisoned hay.

MATERIALISM OR CHRISTIANITY

In common with the Orient, said speakers at the county conference, North Africa is copying the West. The Interchurch survey finds her awake, and voicing her aspirations most audibly. She is taking on a form of Western civilization, and it depends on the evangelical churches whether this form shall be Christian or materialistic in character.

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends for their kind assistance and expressions of sympathy and floral offerings during the recent illness and death of our dear mother.

Mrs. J. A. Walter and Family.

THAT GOOD OLD RAIL FENCE

Ancient and Honorable and Convenient Institution That Held Honored Place on the Farm.

Among the once necessaries of farm life that reflected prodigality in the use of valuable timber was the old rail fence, observes the Columbus Dispatch. Like many other almost bygones of rural life, its place in farm wastefulness now is well established and yet it had its uses for which the present straight line wire fencing cannot qualify.

The old rail fence's serrated stretches were the homes of small animal life that now are rapidly disappearing. Around its timbers there grew the uncultivated blackberry, with its sister, the raspberry, and among its recesses there thrived the elder whose fruit once was coveted pie material and whose blossoms were the foundation for elderberry wine that matrons served of a winter evening when the neighbors gathered.

The rail fence, with its invariable undergrowth, was the favorite protection for Bob White in winter, and from its top he sang in the warmer seasons. Beneath, the little ground squirrel burrowed. From safe retreat he chattered if some intruder came near to annoy him as he was busily engaged in gathering his store of food for the snow time.

To the harvest hand it afforded protection at the end of the long row for a brief respite and its corners formed shaded nooks under which the water jug might be kept.

And from what royal timber was this old fence constructed! Black walnut logs, chestnut logs and the smooth lengths of the ash tree were cleft by numerous rail splitters for the "seven high" fence that stood the storms of decades. There was many a black walnut rail whose timber would make the manufacturer of gun stocks chortle with satisfaction had he such a present supply of wood at his command.

Note These Essex Advantages

The ESSEX is easy to operate. Driving does not fatigue. Its smooth, restful comfort in motion, no less than handling ease, accounts for this.

That is another reason why so many women are counted among ESSEX owners. They appreciate its safety, too. Its controls are simple and instantaneous. It makes fast time, with security, even in difficult traffic conditions.

ESSEX won its recognition on the issue of finest quality, without useless weight or size.

That issue is uppermost today. For nimbleness, convenience in crowded traffic and economy of upkeep and operation are more important now than ever.

With the ESSEX you sacrifice no pleasure, comfort or performance ability that the large, high-priced car can give. Match its speed, power and riding ease with any.

Judge if ESSEX lacks any essential, either of comfort, fineness of finish, structural care, or distinction in performance, that the big cars of higher price range can give.

It is comparable to no other light car. And for a car that might give you the speed, power and endurance of the ESSEX, you must pay far more. Nor would you, even then, get the ESSEX advantages of low upkeep, tire and gasoline economy, which result from its light weight.

You will take pride in your ESSEX from the first. Its good looks, its completeness of detail and finish, its quiet luxury, give it distinction everywhere. And time and use will increase your esteem and respect for it. You will come to count on its dependability with the confidence that has never been dissappointed. It requires little attention. You are not repeatedly deprived of its use. You learn to expect the ESSEX to be on duty, ready for any demands you may make.
