What Are We Coming To?

If American girls with money must buy foreign husbands, they should at least have the good sense to conduct the purchase with some pretext of propriety. At the present rate of progress in the opposite direction it will be in order very soon for an American heiress after buying and marrying a foreign pauper with a title, to label him in this way:

This is Prince Morse.

I have bought him for a husband, at an outlay of one million dollars.

He will be a valuable acquisition to my reception room. Mrs. Jakob's Bill.

Story of the Wild West and Frontier Chats.

By Hon. W. F. Cody, (Buffalo Bill.)

Buffalo Bill is the Napoleon of American scouts and Indian fighters. He is one of the greatest and most versatile characters that this or any other country has ever produced. He has been brilliant success and renown in all his undertakings. He is not only the greatest American frontiersman, but he is also an educated man. He is familiar with the entire history of our country, and has made a special study of the lives and grand achievements of the great pioneers, whose deeds of daring have won the admiration and applause of the whole world. He is better qualified than his fellow man to write the great standard history of American pioneer life, for he is about to make that history, and his adventures constitute the most brilliant and startling portions of it. His peculiar fitness for the work that he has so successfully accomplished was justly recognized by the Prince of Wales, Hon. Wm. E. Gladstone, Hon. John Bright, and other distinguished Englishmen, when they strongly requested him to write the "Story of the Wild West." In this request they were joined by nearly every distinguished general in the American army, the knowing Buffalo Bill intimately knows that he was the man to write this grand history. It is a book that every American can feel proud of. He not only tells of his own marvelous achievements, but also those of his comrades and other great frontiersmen, including the thrilling story of the Custer Massacre, General Crook's campaign and a thousand of other exciting incidents, and lastly, a description of his wonderful career and success in exhibiting his "Wild West Show" among the crown heads of all Europe. Buffalo Bill's pen is as vigorous as his rifle was unerring, and that book will remain forever the great popular history of pioneer life in America. It would be a ghad welcome in the home of every true and patriotic American. This great historical book contains over seven hundred pages and over eight hundred magnificent engravings. It is well known publishers, The History Co., 723 Market St., San Francisco, are authorized general agents. Agents throughout the United States can address the publishers as above for agency and liberal terms, mentioning the History Company and attention this paper. 44

How They Test in Russia.

Mr. Walter Winans, who has a regard for American trotter, has a contribution to make to the discussion of the matter of racing in Russia, in Blackwood's high periodical, that is of interest to American readers. Mr. Winans says, in his article:

"At Moscow and St. Petersburg a horse to be considered a trotter, must do three verets (about two miles) not slower than at the rate of twenty miles an hour. In fact that pace is too much for two-year horses, where the time taken for the three verets is often five minutes or more. That is at the rate of one mile and a half per minute. Twenty-seven miles an hour is very good for three-year-olds, and a good deal more than half the time say in two minutes, twenty-seven or eight seconds.

"In Russia horse racing already is low and fashionable—at least, it is not the American sulky, and the tracks are at least three seconds slower than ours. So in comparing the trotters of the two nations, a Russian horse which trots two miles in five minutes, is almost equal to an American one that trots a mile in two minutes and twenty seconds.

"As three verets is the minimum in the matter of a horse can go to be called a trotter in Russia, the speed of a horse is a problem of time by the number of seconds less six minutes he takes to trot the distance in. For instance, if he can trot in 5:40 his speed is called with six seconds; that is, twenty seconds on the six minutes. In the same way, a horse which could trot in five minutes would be spoken of as "without a minute" time. The price of a horse keep increases more and more as he can trot in less seconds almost double his price.

The Russians have taken to using American sulkies, and are discarding the native harness with a yoke, using instead the 'Dutch collar.'

The horses in their races have each a track to themselves, and if there are more than three horses in a race it has to be trotted in heats. If a driver carries a whip he has to carry extra weight. Three officials, besides the judge, watch each race, one for each horse, and if the horse he has to watch breaks more than three times in a race, or gallops more than a certain number of strides in a break, a mounted man is sent to order the driver to leave the track. The feature of the Russian system of racing might be adopted in this country with good effect."

The Westinghouse Electric Company will in future take pay for coppper, having purchased valuable mines in Arizona.

In a recent article in the Youth's Companion, on "How to cure a cold," the writer says a hot lemonade to be taken on at bed time. It is a dangerous treatment, especially during the severe cold weather of the inclement season, as it opens the pores of the skin and leaves the system in such condition that another and much more severe cold is almost certain to be contracted. Many years constant use and the experience of thousands of persons of all ages, has fully demonstrated that there is nothing better for a severe cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It acts in perfect harmony with nature, relieves the lungs, liquefies the tough tenacious mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and restores the system to a strong and healthy condition. Got Eggs Every Day Last Winter.

Mr. Editor: I see in your issue of the 15th a statement that some one got eggs in December, and I feel bound to let the public know that I got eggs every day last winter, and I only lay for the following reasons. Now, for my method, not theoretically given, but as a practical experience. I got eggs every day last winter, and expect to this winter. My houses are not artificially heated, nor are they so warm as to keep water from freezing in them; but they are tight enough to turn all draughts and the windows are supplied with tight shutters. The apartments are eight feet square, and are intended to hold no more than eight hens. The floor is of dry dirt, covered about a foot with clean, dry straw. This should be forked over every two or three days and changed for fresh as often as necessary. In the morning I give a warm feed consisting of bran middlings, very small portion of oatmeal, and the refuse scraps from the table, stirred up in hot milk. I feed only what they will eat up clean; then about ten o'clock, two or three good handfuls of wheat, oats or barley are thrown into the straw; this keeps them busy scratching for the rest of the day. A bam must be given plenty of exercise; she is sure to become too fat to lay if she has nothing to do but to stand around and eat. "Oh, well," some people would say, "all this is too much trouble; it won't pay." All right, then, if it don't pay to sell eggs at thirty-five and forty cents per dozen, there is no money in poultry at all. But there is money in it, as hundreds of successful poultrymen will amply prove.—Kansas Farmer.

There is nothing better over a cut than powdered resin. Pound it until fine and put in an empty clean pepper box with perforated top, then you can easily sift it out on the cut, and put a soft cloth around the injured member; dampen it with cold water once now and then. It will prevent inflammation and soreness.

Some one estimates that getting born costs the people of the United States $200,000,000 annually; getting married, $200,000; getting buried, $4,000,000.

A Tax That Kills.

To illustrate how the mortgage tax limitically works in this state, and how it retards development by rendering optimism the use of money, we have cited an instance that came under the writer's observation in this city last week. A man who had borrowed $600 and gave his note, secured by a mortgage, paid the note and interest, and had the mortgage released. The rate was 8 per cent. The time, two months and seven days; hence the interest was $27.20; the borrower, of course, paid the tax on the mortgage, $10.85. Thus the total cost was $38.05, which the man who wanted $600 for ten months had to pay, or a rate of 11 1-5 per cent. per annum, paid by the borrower. For a shorter time, the rates would of course been the same, and the cost, proportionately higher. In Washington, the total cost to the borrower would not have been over 8 per cent. Here it is virtually 1 per cent. per month in such cases as the one cited, both is a fair illustration of how the law works.—Astorian.

Dipsomania, or Thirst-Madness.

The periodical desire for strong drink which sometimes lasts individuals, otherwise moral and exemplary, is a species of paroxysmal mania beyond the control of the patient. It is quite certain that there are thousands of cases of remittent drunkenness, which present the specific symptoms of disease. The periodical drunkard is not an habitual dram-drinker. But at particular times he appears to be attacked with a thirst madness which deprives him of the power of volition, and hurries him into the most terrible excesses. During the intervals between the paroxysms he may be a perfectly sober man.

For many weeks, or even months, he may have steadily refused to taste a drop of liquor; may, indeed, have felt no inclination for it, but on the contrary have regarded it with disgust. And yet, when the fit comes on the raging thirst for alcohol utterly paralyzes his conscience and his will. A man in this condition is a monomaniac, and should be treated as one. If put under proper restraint at the commencement of this furor tipsomanus in nine cases out of ten, might be tided over his difficulty to the course of a week, and a perseverance in the course at the recurrence of the hallucination would probably eventuate in a complete cure. It is not easy to persuade the world that all drunkenness is not voluntary. The law does not recognize dipsomania. It treats all inebriates alike. This seems to be unjust, though it is hard to say where the line should be drawn between free-will excess and that which proceeds from an uncontrollable mania.—Manifest's Magazine.

The Chamber of Torture.

In the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined, the chief object of pride is the well-tried, tried first preparative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is averted. Kidney complaints and nervousness, while having none of a specific effect, are yet very decidedly benefited. Yet one they produce no healthy effect upon rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters alone, that, checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a final tendency from its presence to attack the heart, and then—Death. Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Kidney Complaint, malaria and nervousness are cured by it. 45

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jas. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and cause near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food disagreed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could eat all in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence.—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Welling, C. A. Wallis, Druggist.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of nerve or life fear. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Ticksbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attwell, Sparkes Lake, Ontario.
