GUM SHOE MEN ARE WITH WEST

NAMES AND ADDRESSES OF MANY PLACES IN PORTLAND WITH FEDERAL LICENSES ARE TO BE PROSECUTED

SALEM, Oct. 31.—Governor West has made public the names of fifteen persons who hold federal liquor licenses, but have no city licenses. These names, most of which are of women who are apparently landladies of lodging houses, have been checked up by the special investigator employed in the governor's vice crusade in Portland. In addition this investigator reports nineteen Chinese stores that are selling some form of liquor to Chinese without a license, and five Japanese restaurants and two Italian restaurants that are selling liquor.

The fifteen places and names which appear on the list as holding federal licenses are: 104½ First street, Grace Parker; 150 First street; New Occidental, Mrs. M. J. Parker; 46½ North Fourth street, K. Honda; 8½ Front street, Mumm Champagne & Emp. Co.; 312 Oak street, Anna Borglund; 169 Park street, Ida King; 85½ North Second street, Louise Olsens; 66 North Seventh street, Marjorie Newton; 26 North Seventh street, Belle Carter; 520 Spalding building, Clark & Co.; 190½ Third street, Etta Wilber; 270½ Third street, N. J. Wade; 271½ Third street, May Wynecoop; 26½ Third street, "over Erickson's cafe," Mrs. J. W. Dunn; 247½ Taylor street, Lillian Hanna.

If it's worth having, it's worth insuring. See Chiloote at 628 Main street, or phone 661.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shaw arrived in the city last night from their honeymoon trip.

A Safe Investment

Well located Main street property is probably the safest investment in the Klamath Basin. Just now I have the exclusive sale of a 50-ft. strip on Main street, with new solid concrete building. It gives a nice income, is near the center of business and getting better every day. If interested come in and ask the price and terms. Also ask me about some vacant Main street property.

CONFESSES CRIME OF 15 YEARS AGO

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION OF EMPLOYER LEADS MAN TO MAKE KNOWN HIS PAST—IS TAKEN TO PRISON

REDDING, Calif., Oct. 31.—Remorse for a murder committed 12 years ago hunted Edward Howard with such unremitting ferocity that he broke down and completely poured out his desire to make full confession and be at peace.

Howard was arrested last night at Fern, 35 miles east of here, where he has been employed for the last six years as caretaker for a ranch owned by C. H. Hahn of Oakland. Hahn is a deeply religious man, and obtained great ascendency over the mind of Howard, who confessed to him the killing of Frank Greenberg, in Fort Worth, Texas, on December 27, 1900. Hahn wired to the Fort Worth police for confirmation, and the reply was a request for Howard's arrest. In jail Howard said:

"Yes, I killed Greenberg. He owed me money and wouldn't pay it. When I asked him for it he threatened to shoot me with a shotgun he was carrying. I got my own shotgun and fired. Not until afterward did I know I had killed him."

Remorse, terror and brooding have so preyed on Howard that his mind seems weakened.

RISKS LIBERTY TO SEE MOTHER

CONVICT HEARS OF ILLNESS AND MAKES DESPERATE EFFORT TO GO TO BEDSIDE—IS ARRESTED ON HIS WAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—An escaped convict's efforts to get to see his mother, who was reported to be dying, led to his capture at Worth, Ills.

Tony Landers, one of the trio who broke jail at Joliet Penitentiary Sunday was the man captured. He told his captors he had left his companions not more than ten minutes before, and the posse which took Landers went on to seek the others, William Dunne and Frank Thompson.

Landers was overtaken in a cornfield after a farmer had notified the police.

"I had been told that my mother was dying, and I didn't want to lose any time. I wanted to see her before she went, even if it costs me my liberty, so I came. Ten minutes later I was ordered to surrender."

If Landers' story about his mother is found to be true, he will be allowed to visit her before being returned to Joliet, the police say.

HIKERS' CLUB IS ORGANIZED

CHIEF JUSTICE WHITE OF THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT IS CHIEF HIKER—OTHER JUDGES BELONG

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—The "Pedestrians Club" of the United States supreme court has reorganized for the winter. "Chief Hiker" of the club is Chief Justice White. "Privates" in the walking squad of eminent jurists are Associate Justices Holmes, Hughes, Lamar, and occasionally other members.

Between 4:30 and 5:30 every fair afternoon the distinguished pedestrians "perform" on Pennsylvania avenue. They walk from the Capitol to the Treasury—a good mile— and then scatter to waiting vehicles or the plebian street car. Theirs is a fairly brisk gait, too, considering their years. They walk along in earnest, sometimes almost agitated, conversation, oblivious to the remarks of passersby by whom they are recognized. They are a favorite "feature" of the Capitol sightseeing guides to point out to tourists.

Chief Justice White is the most ardent advocate of pedestrianism as an exercise. He is a pupil in "hiking" of former Justice John M. Harlan, who was an inveterate pedestrian until his death.

SEAWEED FOR HATS, A PLAN

IN ORDER TO FIGHT AGAINST HIGH COST OF LIVING, UNCLE SAM SUGGESTS UNIQUE DECORATIONS FOR MILLINERY.

United Press Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—Seaweed as a substitute for millinery decorations on women's hats is the "high cost of living" reform suggested by Uncle Sam. American consular officers in Great Britain report that "seaweed hats" are the latest feminine fashion hints from the other side of the pond.

Along the Kentish coast white seaweed, washed up by the tides, is being collected and marketed at a comparatively high price. It composes a profitably industry during the winter months. So popular has the seaweed become in the millinery trade, and so great the demand, that the establishment of a "closed season" for the gathering of the material is being considered, because of the ravages of growing weed plants by the fishermen.

B. C. Bullock and wife of Portland are in the city on a visit, having arrived Wednesday.
