"MOVIES" SCORE ANOTHER TRIUMPH

ACCORDING TO CORNELL PROFESSOR, FILMS TEND TO ADD TO THE SOBRIETY OF STUDENTS AT UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Moving pictures are helping to keep Cornell students sober, according to the report of Theodore Tuseton, proctor at the university. Evenings now spent at the "movies," he says, formerly were more generally taken up by carousals. Tuseton also reported that undergraduates were no longer allowing a false college spirit to overcome their good sense, and realize that an intoxicated student is a disgrace to the university.

PROSECUTION CONTINUES QUESTIONING PROSPECTIVE TALESMEN WHO ARE TEMPORARILY PASSED BY DEFENSE

United Press Service

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—The jury box was filled this morning with jurors who have been subpoenaed for the trial of Clarence Darrow, charged with attempting to bribe a juror, and the defense has temporarily passed the jurors.

The state continues the work of examining the talesmen. From the questions propounded by Special Prosecutor Gray, it appears that the state expects to secure a conviction on circumstantial evidence.

DEMURRER LOST IN SCHOOL CASE

ACTION INVOLVED THE ATTACHING OF NEW SCHOOL HOUSE IN DISTRICT 23 IS AGAIN BEFORE THE COURT

Further history of the building of a new school house in Lower Swan Lake, District No. 23, was brought in court this morning, when Circuit Judge Benson overruled the demurrer to the answer in the action of P. E. Stiles against E. J. Evans.

Evans was awarded the contract to build the school by the directors, and during the time he and his assistants were at work they boarded with Stiles. When the school was finished the directors of the district refused to accept the building, holding that the contract was not lived up to, and they refused to pay Evans.

Stiles then brought action against Evans to recover the amount due for board. To secure payment he attached the new school building.

In his answer, Evans held that he had agreed to pay for the board when he received his money from the district, and that Stiles had understood this.

THE WOMEN OF WOODCRAFT

ENJOY A BANQUET AND INVITE MEMBERS OF ROWENA ENCAMPMENT TO PARTICIPATE IN PRIVATE OCCASION

At last night's regular session of the Women of Woodcraft the ladies of the Circle had arranged for a banquet to follow the regular order of business, and the committee in charge had certainly proven their ability as providers, for the spread prepared by them was one calculated arouse the gastronomic desires of the most confirmed dyspeptic. Observation, however, failed to discover any of that unfortunate class, and ample justice was done by all present to the ample spread.

It so happens that Rowena Encampment meets in the adjoining hall in I. O. O. F. Temple, and that lodge was dismissed just as their neighbors were entering the banquet room, and in a true neighborly manner they were invited to participate in the good things prepared for the inner man. Those who know the fraternal of Rowena members will readily understand that it was not necessary to do any unusual stunning arm nor take any clubbing in order to get them to accept, and the two orders spent a most enjoyable hour.

MAIL CARRIED ON HORSEBACK

SNOW ON PLAINS FRANKS IS 30 INCHES DEEP—TRAIL BETWEEN BLY AND BONANZA GOES BY NEW RECORD

For the first time in the history of mail transportation between Bly and Bonanza, the mail was carried on horseback Tuesday. This is on account of the heavy fall snow this year, which in that section exceeds all previous records, and makes it practically impossible to use the mountain roads.

Flagg prairie, which averages two to ten in the inches of snow, is now under a fifty-foot mantle. This is one of the favorite ranges for wintering sheep, on account of the usual scarcity of snow.
