Averill Harriman Listening to Yale's British Rowing Expert

Averill Harriman G. S. McLagoon
Harcourt Gold, English coach

NEW LONDAN, Conn., June 19.—If Yale doesn't win the annual race with Harvard, for which the crews of the two universities are now training on the Thames River here, it will not be for lack of coaches. With Averill Harriman, son of the great railroad operator, in executive charge, a host of advisers are teaching the Elis how to row.

Young Harriman, who will this this month be graduated from his university, has been given complete control of the rowing policy of Yale. The Blue oarsmen have been quartered at Gales Ferry on the Thames River for weeks, and are now putting on the finishing touches for their annual race with Harvard, which will be fought out tomorrow.

Up to five years ago Yale was in the habit of defeating Harvard regularly each June, but since then the Blue has not had a smell at a victory. Harriman rowed on his freshman eight, but his health was not good enough to continue the 'varsity pace, so he took up coaching. The Yale authorities thought so much of his executive ability that last year he was put in complete charge. Harriman, in the course of trips abroad, reached the conclusion that the English method of rowing was superior to the American style, and promptly made arrangements with Harcourt Gold, a famous Oxford University coach, to come to this country and develop the Yale eight, bringing Kirby and G. S. McLagoon, two other English experts to assist him.

It has always been contended by American rowing critics that the English method, which puts a terrific strain on the abdominal muscles, is not practical for this country, where the sliding seat has been used to take up much of the strain of the stroke.

If Harriman and Gold succeed in defeating Harvard, which this year has but a mediocre crew, it will mean that the English system will be firmly established at New Haven for years to come. Harcourt Gold, a noted English rowing coach, is shown in the illustration making clear the principle of the knee drive. Young Harriman is pondering over the subject, and absorbed in the idea. In the background G. S. McLagoon, another Oxford expert, is deliberating the point.

◆◆◆ LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE ◆◆◆

[Communications sent to the Herald for publication in this department should not exceed 300 words in length and must be accompanied by the name and address of the sender.]

Editor Herald:

In answer to the complaint against the Comstock employment bureau, because of its methods in securing employment for workmen, made by Councilman O. D. Matthews, as to exorbitant charges for employment, I beg to inform the readers of this paper that Mr. Mathews has been misinformed as to exorbitant charges. My fee as a rule is $1, and I guarantee the job or refund the money, and in no case have I refused to refund the money when the man went to the job and it was already filled, or given another job in place thereof.

In some cases I have had the order cancelled after the party was sent for, and I paid their fare both ways, as well as all other expenses. If Mr. Mathews or any other councilman wants to do this business for less than $1 apiece, he has my consent. I tried free employment, and I could not satisfy the employer, as most of the time the party would not go to the job. Then I tried 25 cents and 50 cents, and that did not pay for the trouble, so now I charge 50 cents and $1, usually $1. In a few cases, for an extra good job, $2 and $2.50, but they are scarce.

Now, if I should have to pay a license I would have to charge more to pay that license, and the working man would have to pay it, and that would be worse than it is now. It is more trouble than you think to run this business. I have tried it in many ways, and I am the only man who has made a success of it. Five or six different people have tried the employment business here since I have been in the business, and they have failed to make good. Now I believe an employment bureau is a good thing for employe as well as the employer. It is only a central place of exchange, and it is worth about so much to run the business, and it takes time to get established.

I have run this business to the best of my ability, and once a customer always a customer, nine times out of ten. The only man that kicks on me is the man that never comes the first time. I have sent many a man out on a job after he has paid for a week's board and room, and returned his money for board and room at a loss to me, but to give the man a job and satisfy my customers as far as possible. I have always tried to build up my business, and not to misrepresent at any time. It is impossible to please everyone, as everybody knows.

Please go to headquarters to investigate before you accuse of exorbitant charges. L. G. COMSTOCK.

AMERICAN AUTOS CROWDING FRENCH

EVEN IN FRANCE, THANKS TO THE U. S. A. IS IMPORTING MORE THAN THE WHOLE OUTPUT

United Press Service

PARIS, June 19.—According to a statement issued here today by the government statistical officials, American automobiles are pushing the French product off the market in France. In 1911 Americans sold to the number of 168 were imported; in 1912, 243; up to May, 1913, 612 had been imported from America and several hundred others were on their way.

It is the lower priced American car which seems to be finding great favor with French motorists, according to the report. Nothing in France but twice the price, even counting in the freight charges and the duty, compares in quality or appearance to the American makes, it is declared. In many instances, it is said, the very costly French cars have failed to give the service given by the yearly cheaper American cars.

DON'T STAY GRAY! SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFULLY

A Mixture of Sage and Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. It is also splendid to remove dandruff, cure itching scalp and stop falling hair.

Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a messy and troublesome task. For about 50 cents a bottle you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use toilet article called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Some druggists put this mixture up themselves, but make it too thick; brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw a moistened comb through taking one small strand at a time. In this way gray hair disappears after the other applications, and your hair looks natural and beautiful. We suggest that you buy a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, which is recognized as the best preparation of its kind.
