GOOD INTENTIONS OF ALLIES MISTRUSTED

VLADIVOSTOK.—Distrust of the good intentions of the Allies in seeking control of the Trans-Siberian railway is voiced by the organ here of the Social Democrats. It says:

"The Allies have decided to improve our transportation system. They are taking the railways into their hands, the English as far as Chita, the Japanese, the Transbaikal railway and the Americans the line from Irkutsk to the front. We cannot tell what this friendly assistance is going to cost Russia.

"The Allies are making agreements among themselves; we are out of the deal. As long as we continue our internal carnage and amuse ourselves with 'recognitions' and 'coup d' etats' of governments the Allies will be masters in our own house."

At the Theaters

William S. Hart, the popular actor of wild west roles, makes a novel appearance as a Westerner who dons evening clothes and is quite at his ease in metropolitan society in the Triangle play, "Between Men," to be seen at the Temple Theatre tonight. To make the contrast more vivid Hart is first seen wearing the wide sombrero, the buckskin shirt and corduroy trousers of a mining man. Then he comes to New York to the rescue of a friend who is in the toils of a Wall Street operator.

Hart then changes to the attire of society when he appears at the home of his friend and meets his charming daughter, played by Enid Markey. Hart seems as much at ease with his dress suit and patent leathers as he did when he was in leather and more unconventional garb. He is still the cool Westerner, ready for anything and everything that may happen.

Alice Brady, Select Star, will appear at the Star Theatre tonight in "The Knife," a picturization of Eugene Walter's successful play of the same name. The photodrama was adapted by Charles Maigne and directed by Robert G. Vignola.

Miss Brady creates the role of Kate Tarleton, a young Southern girl whose memories of her old Mammy's tea-leaf prognostications lead her, while on a visit to New York, into a trap masked as a fortune teller's establishment. There she is drugged and kept a prisoner. Her fiance and guardian, Dr. Robert Manning, famous for his surgical researches, locates her with the aid of detectives and rescues her. He avenges her treatment at the hands of her captors in a unique but adequate fashion, and later returns to Kate, who has gone back home, where kindly hands have brought about her physical and mental recovery. In the sunny Southland, far from the treacherous quicksands of the metropolis, they settle down to a life of unalloyed happiness. Also two reels of fun in "The Tell Tale Shirt."

HUN STRENGTH WAS MATCHED LAST JULY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 6.—The total strength of the United States army on November, 11th was 3,703,273 including the marine corps.

The war department table shows that on July, first the Allied "rifle strength" exceeded that of the Germans for the first time. Rifle strength means standing in the trenches ready to go over the top with a bayonet. The Allied total was 1,556,000 and the Germans 1,412,000.

On November first when the enemy's reserve was gone, the Allies had a rifle strength of 1,485,000 or over two to one.

LEGAL NOTICES

Notice to Operators of Automobile on the Streets of the City

The city has an ordinance fixing the speed at which motor vehicles may be operated on the streets and at intersections. The same ordinance regulates the manner of turning in intersections, prohibits the turning in the streets except at intersections and otherwise regulate their operation. These regulations are designed for the protection not alone for the pedestrians, but for the safety of persons riding in and operating motor vehicles.

The mayor is charged with the enforcement of the ordinances of the city, and I propose to see that they are enforced. Therefore, on and after the 10th day of February, without fear or favor, violators of the traffic regulations will be hailed into the police court just as fast and as often as they are caught. From now on it will be squarely up to you, Mr. and Mrs. Automobile Operator, as to whether you get into police court or not.

R. I. STREUBLE, Mayor.
