MICKIE SAYS—

HALL FOR GOVERNOR

There is no conceivable happening that would do more to weld the different sections of the state together in firmer union than the election of Charles Hall as Oregon's next governor.

Familiar with the resources and needs of all portions of Oregon, and in close touch with influential men in its scattered communities through his work in the state chamber of commerce, he would make an ideal leader for all the commonwealth. Youthful and vigorous, intelligent and sincere, a paradoxical combination of fighter and diplomat par excellence, he is a man that men naturally turn to for direction.

The Herald has no more knowledge of Mr. Hall's ideas on the governorship than any other of his neighbors—may have less, in fact—but sentiment for Hall is growing, and The Herald can see that his election would be the most desirable outcome for all Oregon that has happened in Oregon politics in years.

Sportsmen Urge Many Improvements

this district was entitled to, and would receive, attention and improvements, but pointed out that the game section of the commission, under the reorganization plans, is attempting to be self-supporting—that is, to exist without state appropriation from the revenue derived from the sale of eggs and fry, etc.—and it will take time to bring to fruition all the contemplated improvements:

Following is a list of recommendations presented to the commission by the local sportsmens' association:

The need of another permanent game warden in this county is urgent, as the district can not be properly covered by one man; in fact, during the winter months there are trips that should be made into the mountains through the snow that it is not safe for one man to attempt, and again, there are several months each year under the present conditions when we have no game protection at all, as from the time that the fish start to run in Spencer Creek in the month of March until the eggs are brought out of Diamond lake in July almost all of the time of the present warden is taken up with the propagation of fish.

Some arrangements should be made with the state of California and the American Railway Express company so that it would be possible for a game warden to ship game from one state to the other during the closed season, said game being taken as evidence of a game violation. Last winter Deputy Game Warden Stout caught violators at the head of Topsy grade, and owing to the deep snows was forced to take his man out through Dorris, California, in order to reach Klamath Falls. The agent of the express company, knowing Mr. Stout, took the shipment under protest, and upon his own responsibility, as the company rules prohibit it. California wardens have this same trouble in the Siskiyous, when in the winter time they must pass through Medford or Ashland in order to reach Yreka, California.

Permits to ship fish and game during the open season should be issued locally, as the present system, where it is necessary to wait from three to five days to get such a permit, is irksome to the sportsmen.

That the commission should recommend a law similar to the one now in force in California, making all streams in which fish are planted by the state a public highway, and an angler on foot be allowed free passage along its banks for the purpose of fishing.

If the sportsmen of the state desire more Rainbow trout eggs from the waters of Klamath county than they are now receiving, then it is necessary that the following improvements in egg-taking and hatchery facilities be made:

1st—Increase the water supply at the Crooked Creek hatchery, which we believe is possible by going into the hill above the present springs after it.

2nd—Put up another building at Crooked Creek, so that the combined capacity of the two buildings will be 100 troughs. (There are 40 troughs at present.)

3rd—Build several rearing ponds near the hatchery with concrete walls and floors, so that they may be easily cleaned and kept free of fungus.

4th—Put in foundations for permanent racks in Wood river and Seven Mile creek.

5th—Proper inspection by the fish department of all egg-taking stations to see that the fish and eggs are being properly handled, such stations to be in charge of a trout man and not a salmon man. We believe that such stations should be inspected at least once a week by a state official, and if it is not possible for the state superintendent to cover the entire state that often, that some subordinate should be delegated to make the trip.

6th—We want at least 25 per cent of the eggs taken from the waters of this county planted here, believing that by so doing it will not only increase our fish, but give us a greater number of eggs to supply the state.

7th—In the accounting of the moneys received and spent in this county, to credit us with the market value of the eggs taken out of the county. At the present time we are charged with the maintenance of stations and hatcheries for the benefit of the state at large.

8th—Provide 30 troughs and storm-proof shelter over them and the men at work, at Diamond Lake. Move the present station from its location on Two Bear creek to the outlet (or Lake creek), as the temperature of the water at the outlet is higher than at the present station, where the water is too cold to properly mature the eggs.

9th—To facilitate the run of fish up Lake creek into the lake the falls in the creek should be blown out. These falls are about 75 feet in height, and the fish pass over them going down, but are unable to return. It is estimated that there are at present time about 2,000 fish below, and that those that do not kill themselves fighting the falls will fall an easy prey to the angler.

10th—Fishing should be prohibited from the head of the falls in Lake creek to the lower point of the island, which is about 400 yards below the falls.

11th—There shall be no closed fishing in the waters of Klamath county except as follows: Spencer creek at all times, and the Klamath river as at present above and below its mouth. Seven Mile and Wood river closed from February 15th to June 1st. The waters of Klamath county should not be closed during the winter months, as at that time the fish are at their best.

12th—It is necessary that more fish be planted in Lake Odell, Crescent and Fish lakes. At Lake Odell during the past five years eggs have been taken as follows: 1917, 800,000; 1918, 650,000; 1919, 780,000, 1920, 860,000; 1921, 830,000, making a total of 3,890,000, and during that time but 60,000 fingerlings, including 4,000 Eastern Brook trout, have been planted. We believe that all eggs taken from this lake should be planted in the above named lakes for at least the next three years.

13th—Owing to the construction of the Copco dam shutting off our run of steelheads and salmon, the state of California should give us eggs enough from their catch at Fall creek to pay us for our loss.

EDITOR NAMED GOVERNOR, T. H.

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June 24.—(By Mail)—The recent nomination of Wallace Rider Farrington, general business manager of The Honolulu Star-Bulletin, as governor will bring into very close relationship the territorial government and the Press congress of the world which will hold its sessions here next October.

Mr. Farrington, for many years an active editor and newspaperman, is chairman of the Hawaiian Islands executive committee which is in charge of the local plans for the congress, and returned to Honolulu recently from the mainland, where he conferred with Dr. Walter Williams of the University of Missouri, president of the congress, and attended to numerous details in connection with the October meeting.

When it was learned that the 1921 congress would not be held at Sydney, N. S. W., Mr. Farrington was one of three local men who invited the executive committee to hold the congress sessions at Honolulu. Since that time he has taken an active interest in the congress plans, and was instrumental in obtaining from the last Hawaiian legislature an appropriation of $25,000 to assist in financing the entertainment of the dele-

Announcement was made here recently that a reduction of approximately 20 per cent in steamship and railroad fares, applicable to delegates to the congress, had been obtained. The local executive committee is planning to charter a special steamer in which the delegates will visit all of the principal islands of the Hawaiian group, and this tour promises to be the outstanding feature of the entertainment program.

At the Theaters

THE STAR

After many pictures of society intrigues it is with a sense of relief that one sees 'The Jucklins," George Melford's new Paramount picture, which opens at the Star theatre tonight.

This is a good, big clean picture. It deals with good, old-fashioned people tells a good old-fashioned love story, and contains a million and one little bits of great human interest. Monte Blue plays the role of Bill Hawes, the lanky school teacher. Charles Ogle is Lim Jucklin. Mabel Julienne Scott is Guinea Jucklin, his daughter and the big cast includes Fannie Midgley, Zell Covington, Winter Hall, J. M. Dumont, Clarence Burton and a long list of favorites.

STRAND THEATER

Tonight will see the close of the great educational feature, the Carpentier-Dempsey training camp scenes, taken on the actual grounds near where the big battle was staged by these two supermen. The ordinary person does not consider that a picture of this nature could convey so much accurate information as it does relative to the condition on the system when a "knockout" blow is delivered. This evening is your last chance to see it at popular prices.

Included in this treat, Sylvia Breamer and an all-star cast will show the thrilling yet human interest, "Moonshine Trail,' for the last time, as well as the laughable funny Snub Pollard in a Hawaiian comedy and one of those wonderful Pathe Color Weekly, showing Portugal at its best. The public can get more than their moneys worth here on this run alone.

MAKING PROGRESS

The California Oregon Power company's work of reclaiming lands on the Upper Lake, under contract with the Klamath Indians, is progressing, says P. E. Crawford, chief engineer of the company. The dredger is working steadily, and it is expected to have 2,500 acres diked by the beginning of winter.
