WHEAT

CHICAGO, June 4 (AP)—Corn was bid at the $1.18⅛ ceiling today but other July grain futures were barely steady to weak under the pressure of commission house sales made against purchases of new crop contracts.

July wheat frequently was off as much as a cent and there was hedging pressure against the September delivery. Heaviest sales were by brokers who frequently act for milling and elevator interests.

Shortly after noon wheat rallied to new highs for the day, then dropped back quickly when the demand had been satisfied.

Rye rallied sharply after slipping during the first hour. Professionals who have been prominent on the long side sold on the advance but the offerings were taken quickly and the deferred contracts held important gains.

New crop corn deliveries sold at new highs for the season. Short covering in the deferred options was stimulated by strength of the July and September contracts, both of which were at the ceiling.

At the finish wheat was ⅛ to 1⅛c lower than Saturday's close, July $1.68⅛-1.68. Corn was off ⅛c to up 1⅜c, July $1.18⅛ bid. Oats were down ⅛ to ⅜c, July 63⅞-64c. Rye was off 1c to up ⅛c, July $1.14⅝-½. Barley was unchanged to 1⅛c higher, July $1.08.
