KILBY CITES URGENT NEED FOR NURSES

The urgent need for nurses now cannot be overlooked, Patrick Kilby, manager of the veterans' contact office, stated today.

Chambers of commerce and state organizations are pushing bills in congress to obtain veterans hospitals for Oregon, and hospitals now are understaffed to the danger point. Graduate registered nurses are vitally needed to fill civil service positions, and those qualified may contact Kilby in the Klamath courthouse basement office.

Two thousand nurses are needed immediately in veterans administration hospitals where young veterans of World War 2 are streaming in daily to be treated for mental and physical disorders. The best nursing care available is required in every instance.

Nurses will not be left indefinitely at out-of-the-way places, as there will be automatic rotation from isolated stations after a period of service.

Anyone interested in civil service nursing positions may contact Kilby for further information regarding housing, transfers, pay rates and so forth.
