WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market put on a fast post-election rise Wednesday and held tightly to substantial advances.

The initial forward rush swamped the ticker with prices boiling higher. That didn't last very long, and prices backed down from their best for most of the remainder of the session.

Gains at one time run up to around 5 points at the outside, but they simmered down into a range of 2 points lower to between 2 and 3 points higher with most of the changes on the upside.

Volume came to an estimated two million shares.

Germans To Study OTI

Two German educators are to arrive on the Oregon Technical Institute campus tomorrow to study facets of the school's educational program.

They are Ruth Reisen, a supervisor of trade and other vocational studies in a German district, and Heinrich Bruns, a director of practical education in a German township.

The arrival of the pair here is a follow-up of last year's visit to OTI of two other German educators, according to Director Winston Purvine. The earlier visit ended with OTI being recommended for further study.

The two educators visiting now have been in Oregon about 10 days, Purvine said, going over the state vocational system.

Local GOP Statements

Leaders of the Klamath County Republican party today expressed appreciation for the unfailing efforts of party workers prior to yesterday's election, for the trust placed in the future president of the United States and acknowledged the grave tasks that lie ahead.

Mrs. Olive Cornett, National Republican Committeewoman from Oregon said: "The victory that is won today is overwhelmingly by the Republican party, is conclusive evidence that "right is might" and it is with humble gratitude that we acknowledge the work done by everyone who believed in that predominant principle.

We look to the future with anticipation, because we now have a leader whom we can trust. We are faced with serious problems and out of his great experience as a leader in battle our President-elect, Dwight D. Eisenhower, will lead us onward, outward, upward toward everlasting peace."

As Chairman of the Klamath County Republican Central Committee, Wyatt Padgett stated: "I want to congratulate all of those people of both parties who contributed their time, effort and their money to the work of getting out the largest vote in the history of Klamath County, for our party and for the results.

"And I especially wish to congratulate those who organized their precinct work under the fine leadership of Mrs. Willard Duncan, for their obvious success in the huge turnout of voters and for a successful campaign."

Mrs. Willard Duncan, vice chairman of the Central Committee said: "As vice chairman in charge of pre-organization, the appreciation of the Republican Central Committee is given to the many persons throughout the county who did all they could in this election. It is impossible to point to any one. All of us worked as a tremendous team.

"We realize the responsibility and trust placed in the Republican party and must continue to work for our elected officers and justify the trust the people have given us.

LIQUOR

The Liquor-by-the-drink margin was 3-2.

Klamath voters also favored mandatory standard time by 2-1; favored the act enabling reorganization and unification of school districts for the use of the state's legislature in its weight-mile tax on trucks for the use of he stae's highways; favored repeal of milk control laws; okayed a proposition whereby taxing districts may ask for a new tax base.

The county voters downed the cigaret tax 2-1, voted to limit the state's collection of a property tax, and upheld other non-vital pieces of legislation on the ballot.

The vote was so heavy that many counting boards worked all night and far into today tallying the results.

FORT KLAMATH

By MYRTLE WIMER

Word was received here recently telling friends that another young bachelor had joined the ranks of the benedicts Oct. 19. Howard Luderman, well-known here and a resident of Chiloquin, and Patricia Ward, Klamath Falls, were married in a civil service at Reno. The bridegroom is employed as truckdriver by R. A. Briggs and Son, Myrtle Creek, in their Diamond Lake logging operations, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Luderman, Roseburg, former residents of Chiloquin, where for many years they were in the wood business and also operated frozen food lockers, the family being well known hereabouts. The new bride is a niece of Denver Parks, Beaver Marsh, who is also well known here. Details of the wedding were very meager, the news coming as a surprise to Luderman's friends here, and since their marriage, the young couple has not yet called in Fort Klamath, so this is all the information available at this time.

Houseguests last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Page were friends from Stockton, Mr. and Mrs. Al Summers and the latter's sister, Mrs. Norman Van Iderstine. They made the trip here by car, Mr. and Mrs. Summers returning via the same mode of transportation Monday, while Mrs. Van Iderstine left Saturday by train from Klamath Falls for Stockton.

Here for a few days from Creswell, were George and Arthur Streeter, who visited their brother, Lorin M. Streeter, at his Wood River ranch home. While here, the two Streeter brothers (who are building contractors) made themselves useful by completely re-roofing the Streeter residence with aluminum sheeting.

After having specialized in raising and breeding purebred Shorthorn cattle at his ranch here for 42 years, Streeter has gone out of this branch of stock raising, having last month sold his herd of 270 fine registered beef cattle to a Shasta, Calif., stockman.

All the motels in this vicinity as well as the Fort Klamath Hotel were filled to capacity for the first weekend of duck and goose hunting, with hunters reporting fine luck in this territory, easily getting their bag limits each day. This in spite of the fact that the weather had continued fine and clear, without the storm which some nimrods declared was necessary for good duck hunting . . .

Charles J. Bricco, well known owner and operator of the Crater Lake Cafe and Tavern here, has been a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital since Oct. 26, where he was taken by his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bricco, Klamath Falls, who with their little son Terry had come here to visit Bricco and found him quite ill. According to latest information, he was released to his son's home on Oct. 31, but must stay in Klamath Falls for medical care until he is in condition to undergo major surgery. He is the father of Mrs. Marvin Roeder of the Crater Lake Grocery, and during his absence, Mrs. Myron Hampton is in charge of his business here.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Smith and children, Dunsmuir, were last weekend visitors with his parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Smith and Leonard.

Many from here journeyed to Chiloquin last Sunday evening and enjoyed a wonderful Italian dinner given by ladies of the Altar Society of Mt. Carmel Church.

Leaving Thursday for a week's elk hunting trip to La Grand, were Mr. and Mrs. James Van Wormer, who will be guests at the home of State Police Officer and Mrs. Huck Snyder during their stay. While they are out trying to bag an elk, their son Douglas, is continuing his school studies here while staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Halford and sons.

Gene Marker, technical expert of the West Coast Telephone Company, Everett, has been busy this past week installing the all new, modern dial system switchboard in the recently completed building which will house the telephone company dial equipment. He is being assisted in the work by W. T. Oates Jr., Chiloquin, who is the telephone company lineman for this district. Local telephone numbers will have four digits instead of three as heretofore, and it is expected that the new switchboard will be cut over on Nov. 15. Operators at the Chiloquin telephone office handle all outgoing calls, while local residents use the dial system to call numbers here.

Nov. 1, the Shell Oil Company resumed operation of its depot at Chiloquin, point of supply for a wide surrounding territory including Fort Klamath. Manager of the plant is Calvin Lamb, who has worked for ten years as truckdriver for the company in Klamath Falls.

For the past 8 years, well known and popular Earl Hall has been wholesale distributer of the company for this district from the Chiloquin depot, and he plans to devote his entire time now to managing Melita's motel and restaurant, located on highway 97 south of Fort Klamath. The motel is named for Hall's wife, Melita, and the business is comparatively young yet but has proven very successful, and their many friends in this vicinity wish Mr. and Mrs. Hall continued success in their venture. Dealers here who have for the past eight years enjoyed fine delivery service of gas, oil, etc., by Hall from the Chiloquin Shell depot will miss his friendly, cheery business visits, but he has promised to look in on us from time to time, even though he is no longer connected with the Shell Oil Co.

The Modoc Lumber Company, Klamath Falls, shut down its logging operations for the season on Oct. 1, after a good season at the 7-mile division of timber west of here. However, a crew of five sets of fallers (10 men) will continue to work cutting timber and snags on the right of way at the site of woods operations of the company, and will be busy for a month (weather permitting, of course).

TOASTMASTERS

The Modoc Toastmasters' Club is to meet tonight in regular session at 6:30 p.m. in the Willard Hotel.

Ike Receives First Present

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Wednesday got the first of a stream of presents he will receive as president: A broom which bore the message "To Clean Up the Mess."

A Secret Service agent took the wrapped broom at the front door of Eisenhower's Columbia University residence. It was sent by a Brooklyn wholesale brush firm.
