EAST SIDE FIRE LIMITS.-An ordinance has been prepared fixing the fire limits on the East Side in the warehouse district with the following boundary lines: Ninety feet west of Grand avenue; East Washington street; 100 feet west of East Water street, and 100 feet south of Hawthorne avenue. It was intended to carry the boundaries out to the wharf line on the river front, but this was changed to 100 feet east of Days Water streets as not feet east of East Water street so as not to interfere with erection of docks. These lines are nearly the same as those of the district which was defeated some tim ago on the ground that it would preven building in that district, but it is not maintained that the fills that have bee made, and those to be made, will make possible to put up fire proof structures hereafter. Notices have been received by the two East Portland clubs that the new fire limits will be considered Monday by the committee to which the matter has been referred.

CLAMOR FOR NEW BRIDGE

County Court Convinced That Madison-Street Structure Is Unsafe.

That the Madison-street bridge should be replaced at an early date by a new steel bridge is the belief of County Judge Webster and Commissioners Lightner and Barnes. Judge Webster stated yester-day that the matter is one which should be taken up by the present Legislature. He fears with Mr. Lightner that the old structure cannot stand the buffetings of many more years. Unless a new structure is provided for it may become nec essary to close it to traffic.

Judge Webeter states that the bridge is totally inadequate for the traffic new forced upon it. Inspections of recent forced upon it. Inspections of recent date have shown this. Robert Wakefield, the builder, has been instructed to make an inspection and report on the bridge at once. The county authorities probably will not take the matter up with the Legislature, feeling it is the province of some of the East Side push clubs to

"IF. I WERE KING" AGAIN Baker Theater Company Will Repeat

Popular Sothern Play.

The Baker management has indefinitely decided to hold the production "If I Were King" for another full week. This will be a new departure for Portland, and marks an epoch in the growth of the city. T WAS part of a liberal education to have seen William H. Crane and Miss Ellis Jeffreys, supported by a company of artists such as rarely appear here, in their flawless performance of Goldsmith's nmortal comedy, "She Stoops to Con-uer," at the Heilig last night. To one who loves the mother language, and rejoices in the achievements of the gentle glants, who, in the elder days gave gentie giants, who, in the elder days gave it worthily song, story and drama, Oliver Goldsmith still inspires reverential gratitude, deepest and most enduring, perhaps because he wrote, "She Stoops to Conquer." To see the great old comedy given proper expression is such a seldom privelege in this day, that it is an event of the intelligent theatergoer's lifetime. So scholarly an actor as William H. Crane, and such a distinguished international actress as Ellis Jefferys, appear as co-stars in a play that marks an epoch in the building of English dramatic literature.

There are few of us who have not read the play and have not seen it inread the play and have not seen it in-differently acted, but the full realization of how it should be done has been re-served until the Crane-Jeffreys perform-ance has been enjoyed and analyzed. It restores ones faith in the present and future of the American stage.

The box-office theory is that the pub-lic doesn't want the classics, and we owe a positive debt of gratitude to Mr. Crane, and his management that, in spits of commercialized art tendencies, such a production is given us.

production is given us.

Every schoolboy and girl, who is reading the play as a part of his course, has an apportunity to see it performed as Goldsmith would have had it. Every person who loves good writing, and the finest of artistic acting is doubly favored because of this production.

Mr. Crane has passed the point in his career where personal exploitation is taken into account, else he would not have elected to play Hardcastle which is the fourth part in the piece.

Tony Lumpkin is the real star character, and no better for a low comedian was ever written; Kate Hardcastle in preeminently a brilliant choice for the best of women stars, and young Marlowe was ever a favorite with romantic actors. Therefore in playing the old man Hard-castle, much as he makes of the char-acter, modestly gives way before his associates in order that the cast may be evenly balanced and that he may stand sponsor for the most notable revival of "She Stoops to Conquer" ever made in this country.

Crane has visited Portland fre Mr. quently in the past, and his fame among local patrons of the theater is as high as it is everywhere else in the land. It is ncelvable that he ever gave a better

In Ellis Jeffreys we have, however, found a new stage idol. She has never before favored the Coast, and came as semething of an unknown quantity, in that few in last night's audience had seen her before, however much they might be informed as to her importance in the profession. As Kate Hardcastle she last night moved her audience to the most sincere and unreserved commendation, w actresses who have appeared here

Well met indeed, also for the first time, weil met inneed, also for the first time, was George Geddens, who as Tony Lumpkin fully justified his reputation of being England's foremost low comedian. Having seen him play Tony, I shall forever after boast of it.

Walter Hale, an admirable combination Walter Hale, an admirable combination of dashing Adonis and excellent actor, was the Young Marlowe, and a very beau ideal of the Georgian gentleman. Margaret Dale, winsome, fascinating little minx that she is, must needs turn all our susceptible heads as the coquettish little Miss Neville. Herbert Sleath was at ease as Hastings, and did creditably, while Fred Thorne in the bit, Diggory, was a factor of importance far out of proportion to the scope of the part proportion to the scope of the part.

The settings were sufficient to all needs.

E. B. WATSON DISCUSSES LAND-FRAUD VICTIMS' STANDING.

Says They Should Be Protected When They Purchase Ill-Gotten School Tracts in Good Faith.

Portland, Feb. 8 .- (To the Editor.)-In Fortland. Feb. 8.—(To the Editor.)—In view of some recent expressions in your columns, editorial and otherwise, as to the rights of holders of certificates of sale of school lands issued on fraudulent applications, and the relief they are entitled to at the hands of the Legislature, I deem it proper to suggest the facts which seem to me to require a different conclusion.

I represent John De Laittre and others, holding altogether IT of those certificates covering about 22,000 acres of such lands, by purchase and assignment from A. T. Kelliher, in good faith and without any notice of fraud or illegality in the applications on which they were issued. Those parties bought the certificates from Mr. Kelliher at an advance of about 75 cents per acre above the price to be paid the state, and paid their money at the time of taking the assignments. They afterward made the second and third payments of 20 per cent on the principal and kept the interest paid up on the balance, as required by law and the rules of the State Land Board, until the Marion County grand jury reported to the board on April 23, 1905, that some 1686 certificates of sale of school lands, including these, had been obtained on fraudulent applications, since which date the board has refused to accept any fur-on fraudulent applications, since which date the board has refused to accept any furon fraudulent applications, since which date the board has refused to accept any further payments.

This grand jury report to the board declared that this list of 1688 certificates of sale of school lands attached thereto, included about 500,000 acres of lands, but did not include all the certificates issued on fraudulent applications, and that "many of the signatures to these applications have been forged, and many are the signatures of irresponsible persons who for a consideration have been induced to perjure themselves in order to assist certain persons in acquiring, unlawfully, large bodies of school lands." For convenience I will hereafter refer to the former as "forged" and the latter as "dummy" applications, as they are commonly styled.

Some 1378 of the certificates in this grand jury list were issued on applications filed before Governor Chamberiain's first term began on January 12, 1908, and the remaining 808 on applications filed during the first two years of his first term.

Board Violates Rule.

Board Violates Rule. The board on May 6, 1905, noted the receipt of this grand jury report in its journal and ordered that no further certificates or deeds issue until applications should be investigated by the State Land Agent and Clerk of the Board and reported free from fraud. The board did not, however, adhere to the rule, and prior to December 2, 1905, had begun to order deeds on the certificates included in the grand jury list without any report that the applications on which they were issued were free from fraud, as shown by Oswald West, State Land Agent's report to Governor Chamberlain, of that date, printed in his report of more recent date, on pages 9-11, where he says: "Others not reported on by us have been taken up recently and passed to deed by the board, but over your protest." The board kept on until they hed "passed to deed" 1283 of the certificates of sale included in the grand jury list, which they found had been issued on the "dummy" applications, and Governor Chamberlain, although protesting in board meeting and voting "no," on the ground of such applications being fraudulent, always joined with the other two members of the board in executing the deeds, which without his sig-the other two members of the board in executing the deeds, which without his sig-nature would have been wholly inoperative. Deeds have been so ordered on all the certificates, issued upon the "dummy" ap-plications, aggregating about 389,533.78 of the 500,000 acres of school lands reported by the Marion County grand jury, as in-cluded in certificates of sale obtained on the 500,000 acres of school lands reported by the Marion County srand jury, as included in certificates of sale obtained on fraudulent applications, and deeds have been executed for all of such lands by Governor Chamberlain, Secretary Dunbar and Treasurer Moore, except about 10,000 acres claimed by a Mr. Bidde, of Vancouver, Wash., under the same kind of certificates, and the only reason be has not received his deeds is that he has not called for thom. The board found, or rather assumed, the remainder of the 1685 cartificates of sale reported in the grand jury list, numbering 403, and covering 110,466.22 acres of school lands, were issued on forged applications made and filed by H. H. Turner, and refused to order deeds upon them. Most of these certificates were delivered to A. T. Heiliher, and the 71 now held by John DeLaittre and the other parties I represent are among the number. After a hearing on July 13, 1905, the board took the matter under advisement, and on 'February 27, 1906, ordered these certificates, less three held by W. J. Pinney, of Willmar, Minn., cancelled, and at the same time ordered 30 certificates held by F. W. Jewett, that had been issued on "dummy" applications, passed to deed. The order of cancellation rocites that "the applications upon which" the certificates held by John DeLaittre were issued "were each and all of them forged, fraudulent, and therefore vold:" and though John DeLaittre himself was not a party to the fraud, that "said applications because of the fraudulent character thereof, and the certificates is without authority, and ought not to receive the payments tendered by mid John DeLaittre. It is isem void, and the board is without authority, and ought not to receive the payments tendered by said John DeLaittre. It is therefore ordered by the board that said tender be, and the same is, hereby refused, and the said certificates and each and all of them, and the applications upon which they were issued, be, and the same are, each and all of them hereby cancelled and held for naught."

Orders Certificates Held.

After entering like orders in the case of each of the other parties I represent, except W. J. Pinnet, whose certificates were not involved in the proceeding, the board proceeded to order 30 of the 34 certificates held by F. W. Jewett, and issued on "dummy" applications, to deed by majority vote, Governor Chamberlain voting "no," on the ground of such applications being fraudulent, but promptly executing the deeds, with Secretary Dunhar and Treasurer Moore, as in all other cases of the same character. Jewett was under indictment for subcreation of perjury as to some or all of the remaining four certificates, and no deeds were allowed on these. The entire board, in its report of October 1, 1906, to the present Legislature, on pass 7, may of such action: "Where the certificates submitted were included in the grand jury list above referred to, and were not graphy list above referred to, and were not approved by the Clerk and the State Land Agent, but were issued upon applications of genuine persons, and were not torgeries, it has been the custom of the board, by a mahas been the custom of the board, by a maity vote, one member dissenting, to issue deeds to innocent nonders of said certificates, except on those certificates on which indictment was found against F. W. Jewett."

Of the 403 certificates found by the board to have been issued on the applications and by H. H. Turner, the board have since passed five to deed, and 51 more were aince passed five to deed, and 51 more were flied by Turner before November 1, 1900, while he testified on the trial of State vs. Kelliher that he did not begin to force anything until after a conversation with Kelliher "in November or December, 1900." There is no reason why the 15, acres included in these itificates should not be credited to the tificates should not be credited to the "dummy" side of account, and "passed to deed" under the established "custom" of the board, in the property of the country of the board, in the reducing the amount on the forged side to about $5,000 acres. Thus we find about $00,000 acres of school lands covered by certificates issued on "dummy" applications ordered to deed by a mojority of the board, and actually deeded by every member of the board, including Governor Chamberlain, who protested so much against it on the ground of fraud in the dummy applications, and less than 109,000 acres of the same kind of land, covered by certificates issued on forged applications, held by the board, and unlimited discretion for further juggling with this remnant sought from the present Legislature.

Both Classes Identical.

· Both Classes Identical.

Both Classes Identical.

There never was any difference between the two classes of application with reference to their theing fraudulent, or as to the rights of innocent holders of the certificates issued upon either kind of applications. In point of criminality, the "dummy" applications are way shead. They involved both perjury and subornation of perjury. The forged applications were not "forged" in the sense of the criminal law, as Judge Burnett held, and as every lawyer must concede, and therefore involved the commission of no crime. But, aside from this there are no degrees in fraud affecting the rights of innocent holders of such certificates. The action of the board in ordering the deeds for 400,000 acres of school lands on the certificates issued on the "dummy" applications, and of Governor Chamberlain in signing them and making them operative to pass the title to innocent holders, was right. It was just what the present Legislature ought to direct, if it had not already been done. But there is no justification for the board's discrimination against the innocent holders of certificates issued on forged applications for the remainder of these lands not exceeding 100,000 acres, nor for Governor Chamberlain's effort to perpetuate it by legislative enactment. And the State of Oregon cannot afford to do it. The profit on such a transaction cannot be large; the injury to the credit and bonor of the state can hardly be overestimated. The holders of the good fath or genuineness of the applications. It was the duty of the board to pass on the applications before issuing the certificates. The issuance of 1656 certificates for an aggregate of 500,000 acres of school lands, on fraudulent applications, renders it difficult to imagine a due performance of duty by the board, or that the board was even imposed on in facil in every case.

Others Not Genulne.

Others Not Genuine. The parties I represent also purchased eight certificates covering about 2560 acres from W. F. Brown, which turned out not to be genuine certificates, but part of the Puter and McKinley forgeries. They were withdrawn as soon as I had the opportunity to compare them with the genuine certificates, and are not included in the 77 above referred to, nor in the order of cancellation.

cates, and are not included in the 77 above referred to, nor in the order of cancellation.

House bill No. 233 merely provides that in such cases the board may "in its discretion" refund the money paid on the purchase price, both as principal and interest, and the general revision bill makes the same provision in section 35. There is no provision in either bill applicable to the case of an original applicant or holder of a certificate with notice of the fraud. This provision is aimed at purchasers of such certificates in good faith and without notice of any fraud or illegality in the applications, but the efforts of such innocent holders to protect themselves against unjust legislation is constantly held up before the public as designed to benefit the parties participating in or cognizant of the fraud in the original applications, and therefore entitled to no consideration. What the new board, with the old head, purposes to do, or will do, to my clients "in its discretion," If this provision is enacted, I do not know, but they will have the power to do anything they like, or do nothing at all, as it places the innocent holders of such certificates absolutely at their mercy.

It is plain that if the innocent holders of such certificates absolutely at their mercy.

It is plain that if the innocent holders of such certificates absolutely at their mercy.

It is plain that if the innocent holders of such certificates issued on these alleged forged applications, which the Legislature deems worthy of consideration, they should be defined and protected by any act of legislation in their behalf, and not left to the discretion of the board.
