Pelton Dam Meeting Set

SALEM (AP) — The House State and Federal Affairs Committee will hold meetings next Tuesday afternoon on the Pelton Dam and civil rights bills.

The meeting on the Pelton bill, which would allow court appeals from decisions by the Hydroelectric Commission, will be held at 1 p.m. The bill was defeated by the House, and then reconsidered.

The committee will invite representatives of the Portland General Electric Company, Fish and Game Commissions, and the Izaak Walton League to appear.

At 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, it will hear limited testimony on the Senate-approved civil rights bill, which would make it illegal for public eating, lodging and amusement places to discriminate against minority groups.

Revenue Unit Defense Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Tobey (R-NH) of the Senate Commerce Committee began a personal inquiry Friday into Dr. Allen V. Astin's ouster as $15,000-a-year director of the National Bureau of Standards.

Astin was forced to resign after a conflict in views with Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Assistant Secretary Craig R. Sheaffer over the bureau's testing methods, particularly of a substance which, its makers claim, will prolong the life of storage batteries.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) agreed with Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) that a Senate committee should make a thorough investigation to determine whether "political pressure" was involved. Astin, a Republican, has been in the bureau since 1932.

"I think we should have the facts," Sparkman said.

Tobey declined to discuss the possibility of an investigation by his committee, which passes on nominations for the Commerce Department, but said, "I am going to talk to Dr. Astin about the matter." Astin has said he would cooperate in any investigation.

Work Is Still The Best Answer

PORTLAND (AP) — J. D. Morris, who says he is 92 and still looking for new worlds to conquer, opened a real estate business here Thursday.

He said he decided to go into business for himself after working some 20 years for a real estate firm.

Before that, he said, he kept himself busy with one job after another.

"I'll still be working even if I live to be 200. I think I'd die in two or three hours if I didn't work," he said.

Tule Church Slates Rite

TULELAKE—The dramatic presentation of the events of Holy Week leading to the Crucifixion will be presented tonight in the Tulelake Community Presbyterian Church, 8 p.m. in observance of Good Friday.

Three announcers, Harry Galloway, Burton Hoyle and James W. Barrett will interview the principals who participated in the historical Christian drama. Tiefo i tonight's interpretation will be "You Were There."

Members of the cast are Ross Ragland who will play Pontius Pilate, Walter Johnson will play Peter, William Weitkamp, President of Sanhiedren, John Bowen, Saducee, George Smith Jr., King Herod, Tommy Slaughter will appear as the Ordinary Citizen and Robert Anderson as The Soldier.

The presentation will be followed by the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Residents of the Federal Prison at Newell saw the play this week and response of the inmates of the prison was excellent, according to the Rev. Marvis Keyser, pastor of the Tulelake Community Church who has been conducting services there.

Anyone interested is invited to the service tonight.

Swim Program Over Top

Advance registration for the Red Cross "Learn to Swim" classes, sponsored by the Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, YMCA, public schools, 4-H, Boy Scouts and the city recreation department has been so heavy that adjustments are being made in the schedule to accommodate more "would-be" swimmers according to Bob Bonney, recreation director.

A total of 340 boys and girls in the boys' four section swimming each Monday night, the girls' division Tuesday night and the boys and girls advanced and intermediate Red Cross courses Wednesday night is near capacity.

In order to leave no one out, Bonney said, the Wednesday night advanced course will be limited to 30 minutes to accommodate an additional 80 swimmers in the "non-float" and beginner's division. The shift should take care of all those registered.

Boys will report at the time their registration forms indicate, girls Tuesday. Tests will be given to classify all for the proper division where instruction will do the most good.

The water safety instructor's course attracted 27 senior life savers. Those meeting qualifications in the course that ends Friday will be certified to the highest swimming achievement available to lay entrants by the Red Cross.

All swimming and life saving classes in these courses are conducted by the Red Cross accredited personnel to the exacting standards of the First Aid and Water Safety Division of the American Red Cross, generally accepted as the international standard for aquatics.

Many of those now taking the water safety instructor's course will volunteer their services to the "Learn To Swim" campaign.

Planes To Aid In Salvage Logging

PORTLAND (AP) — Airplanes will speed the salvaging of timber in Western Oregon and Western Washington forests this year.

An air survey by the Northwest Forest Pest Action Committee between May 15 and July 1 will determine the areas where trees have been toppled by winter storms or damaged by the Douglas fir beetle.

Foresters say speed is vital in salvaging such timber.

Fishermen Get Aid Pledge

SEATTLE (AP) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash) has promised to help Pacific Northwest and Alaska fishermen in their efforts to halt falling prices.

In a meeting with the senator here Thursday fishermen complained that imports from other countries are lowering the price of fish while most other prices have been rising.

One Puget Sound fisherman, Carl Serwold, expressed belief that fish imports by the United States are no longer needed to help some other countries build up their industry.

"On fillets," Serwold said, "we import 51 per cent from Canada. We don't think Canada needs our dollars. They're not as much in debt as we are, and their dollar is worth more than ours."

George Johansen, secretary of the Alaska Fishermen's Union, said: "We should not have to cut our own throats to help other nations. We have to live, also."

One of the fishing industry's problems, Magnuson said he believed, is that the State Department never sends top-flight fisheries experts into international negotiations on trade problems. Instead, he said, the department treats the industry "as a stepchild."

No decision was reached on what type of relief should be sought. That will come after further study and consultation with fishermen elsewhere, Magnuson explained.

Alaska's territorial Senate petitioned federal authorities last week to impose import quotas based on yearly averages between 1940-50.

Bonneville Power Hits New Record

PORTLAND (AP) — Power from Bonneville Dam hit a record high level in March, Army Engineers announced Friday.

They said the total was 424,547,000 kilowatt hours, an average of 570,628 kilowatts an hour. The ten generators at the dam have a rated capacity of 518,400 and a maximum capacity of 574,000.

Engineers said the demand was so heavy that generation would have reached the maximum if time off for maintenance were not necessary.

The previous high month was January, 1952, with 407,554,000 kilowatt hours.
