Pupils to Write Essays.—The pupils of the public schools of Oregon have been offered primes for essays by the Oregon Society Sons of the American Revolution. These primes range from 20 to 20. The exsays must not be longer than 2000 words, written on one side of the paper in the student's own handwriting, and must be accompanied by a certificate from the pupil's teacher stating that the author of the essay is a pupil to the pupil's teacher stating that the author of the essay is a pupil in a designated class, and that to the belief of the teacher the essay is the unaided work of the pupil. The subjects are "Public Schools as a Means of Americanizing Foreigners," "Joseph Brant and the Indians of the Revolution," and the "Separation of Church and State in America." Any one of the subjects may be selected. May 25 is the intest date at which essays must reach A. M. Smith, Fenton building, Portland, Or., to whom they should be sent.

ARRESTED FOR CARRYING GUN.—Sam
Amatto, an Italian, was arrested by Patrolman Stuart yesterday afternoon, charged with carrying a gun. There was trouble in the Italian colony and Amatto was reported to have flushed the weapon on a number of his countrymen. Stuart located him at the corner of Fourth and Lincoln and selled for Lincoln and called for the patrol wagon.
Patrolmen Humphries and Endecott and Detectives Jones and Tichnor answered and after the beliggerent Italian was and after the belligerent Italian was picked up the officers went to the Italian saloon at the corner of Fourth and Sheridan and searched all the Italians there. At that time of the day the saloon was full of the sons of Italy and no less than 100 men were in the place. No weapons were found and Amatto was taken to the corner of the place. taken to the station. He was released on

COMES FROM NEW YORK FOR PRISONER. A D. Glester, sergeant in the New York Police Department, arrived in the city yesterday morning, and will leave Wednesday with W. Van Cleve, who is wanted in New York for grand larceny. Van Cleve is the man, who, under the name of H. H. Wilson, created a sensation a month ago, by eloping with the wife of Tom Taylor, ex-sergeant in the Portland Police Department. He was subsequently arrested but when charges placed against him by his wife were dismissed, he was held for the New York authorities. Sergeant Gloster will leave for Salem tomorrow and have requisi-tion papers signed by the Governor. Van Cleve is now in the County Jall and is under indictment in New York.

FUNERAL OF JOHN W. BROCK.—The funeral of John W. Brock, a pioneer school teacher, was held yesterday afternoon from the Evangelical Church at Lents. Rev. H. O. Henderson, assisted by Rev. G. W. Bennett, conducted the service. Evening Star Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, conducted the services at of Husbandry, conducted the services at the grave in Multnomah cemetery. Mem-bers of the Grand Army of the Republic, furnished the honorary pall bearers.

POLICE RAID DIVE.—A notorious dive at 244 Flanders street was raided last night, and four colored women taken to the police station. The raid was caused by the complaint of two young men, George Thomas and F. Kimball, residing at 31½ First street. Thomas complained that he had been robbed of $30 in the dive. Patrolmen Thorpe and Annundson were sent

March 5, at which time the general objects of the federation were set forth by the temporary chairman, Whitney L. Boise, and these were heartly indorsed by the representatives. It was decided to ask all clubs to send five delegates to the meeting tomorrow night to complete the organization by the adoption of constitution, election of permanent officers and appointment of such committees as may be provided for in the constitution.

As far as heard from, the clubs have been appointing their representatives to the federation, and there promises to be a large attendance. The idea of federation came from the suburban push clubs mainly, as they desired to get into closer touch with the larger organizations.

According to the plan adopted at the preliminary meeting, every club will be on the same level so far as representation is concerned. No matter how large or small the membership a club may have, it will Rival Candidates for Mayor of St. Johns Declare Themselves.

Between Councilman S. C. Norton and K. C. Couch, candidates for Mayor of St. Johns, the voters will have difficulty to make a choice at the polls. Coun-cilman Norton has been a member of the Council for two years, and the storm center of that body on most all questions that have come up. Mr. Couch is n well-known and successful business man, who has been a resident Couch is a well-known and successful business man, who has been a resident for the past three years. In speaking of his candidacy, Mr. Couch said:

"My platform is very short: Economy, the honest administration of the city government, and the enforcement of the laws, are my principles."

Councilman Norton's platform is very much the same as that of his opponent, only, as he has been in the Council for the past year, he will be somewhat on the defensive. He said:

"I am a firm believer in the present high license, and the enforcement of the city, as they have been passed by the Council, or embodied in the charter, he need have no fear of interference from me. If elected, I shall take action to have the City Hall, which nas been dragging, completed at the least expense to the city. I have been attacked on account of the tax levy. Well, as chairman of the finance committee. I had that matter in my hands, and with the committee, fixed the levy at 7 mills. After a most careful study of the financia situation, we made the levy as low as possible. I considered it better to pay off our city debts now than to carry them to a time when the city might not be so prosperous as now."

C. W. Potter, who was nominated for the conditions in the Far East. The central figure is an Irishman, who, through his personal courage and devotion to duty, rises to a place of honor in the army, much to the desistation of his brother officers, who resent the idea of a man comist up from the ranks. The young Irishman is accused by a jealous rival in love of robbing a native temple of a diamond of fabulous value and vast religious significance. Creumstantial evidence is all against Shannon and for a time his against Shannon and for a time he is a refugee in the hills, a thing despised of men. Eventually, as is so often the case on the stage, but so seldom in fact, the truth comes out and the young officer is placed right with the army and the woman he is foolish over.

DORTLAND again enters the limelight as a producing center through the preentation by the Baker Theater Company Coast and, in fact, to all the country, excepting the Atlantic seaboard, where it was seen for a brief season last Summer. It is "Shannon of the Sixth," a British military drama, dealing with incidents of the Sepoy mutiny of 1887, when Britain's native Indian troops revolted and raised merry Hades with the remote army sta-tions in the Far East. The central figure of the play that one will remember. Edgar Haume, as Shannon, works hard, but has little opportunity to distinguish himself, and the same may also be said of Lillian Lawrence. Among the others, William Gleason is technically and temperamentally correct as the old colonel. Maribel Seymour gets all the laughs that she's entitled to as the English debutante, and Donald Bowles does beyond a part entirely unwitted to him. bravely a part entirely unsuited to him. As for the rest, nobody is positively bad, and nobody so good that the fireworks need be set off. The stage settings are first-class. "Shannon of the Sixth" will run all week,

'The King of Tramps" at Empire. Just why the genus hobo should prove such an unfalling source of ecstatic deligh to a certain important element of the great American public I've never been able to determine; but notwithstanding, able to determine; but notwithstanding, and also nevertheless, he is. The tramp play has had an unmistakable vogue among the lovers of melodrama for many years, and yesterday afternoon when I looked in on "The King of Tramps" at the Empire I was forced to concede that that tramp hero is neither rheumatic with age nor yet gone into senile decay. Patrons of low-priced theatrical entertainment like the drams, save the mark, served up to them blood rare. They want served up to them blood rare. They want it quivering with crude elemental emo-tion whether it be leaning toward the grave or gay. If there is a killing com-ing off they aren't satisfied to have the actors tell about it in more or less dispassionate narrative form, they insist on seeing the shot fired or the big knife

They don't care so much about illiner's or the haberdasher's but they milliner's or the haberdasher's but they pay the butcher's bill without asking embarrassing questions.

On the other hand, they dote on the aesthetic delights of swift kicks by way of comedy and go sound asleep over epigrams which the misguided high brows find highly amusing.

In view of this attitude of the masses "The King of Tramps" is a success. What it lacks in novelty and literary avoirdupois it more than makes up in slambang activity and primitive fun. Festerday's audiences were convinced that the show is a feast of pulse-quickening thrills and side-splitting merriment. And since and side-splitting merriment. And since that was the impression "The King of Tramps" made we must concede its suc-cess in serving the purpose for which it is intended. The company and scenery are all that the play requires. Same bill all week, with matinees Wednesday and

ERROR OF OVER $46,000

Through a typographical error in the account of the transfer of the big East Side department store known as the Em-Side department store known as the Emporlum to the Shafer-Whittier Company in Sunday's Oregonian and the announcement of the monster bankrupt sale of its stock about to be held to close out its stock, it was made to appear that the amount involved was only $10,000. The exact amount of stock really reaches exactly $56,800. (Fifty-six thousand eight hundred.) The sale opens next Saturday.

Excerpts from an address delivered Saturday evening before the Academy of Science by City Health Officer

Dr. C. H. Wheeler-The Doctor Tells Academy of Science What Confronts the City Health Department-Meat Inspection Is Vitally Needed. (From Sunday Journal).

Butchers, bakers, milkmen, street-sweepers and the springs in Hawthorne Park all suffered alike last night in an address by City Health Officer C. H. Wheeler, made before the Academy of Science, on the sanitation and public health of the City of Portland. All the problems that confront the Health Board were discussed and suggestions made for the improvement of the health service.

Many revelations were laid bare by the health officer. He told how DISHONEST tradesmen were striving to avoid the health laws, and how the health of the city was thereby greatly endangered. For the inspection of meats alone he said one man ought to be continually employed, and it takes all the efforts of the board to secure reports of the breaking out of epidemics. He said that the Health Department, with its present force, was unable to cope with dishonest tradesmen, but that they succeeded in keeping a great majority of them considerably perturbed most of the time.

The address was very interesting, and the members present enjoyed every word. Many amusing instances were cited where smallpox patients fought the quarantine and the pesthouse, only to be subdued finally by
