Work Group Holds Meet

The Oregon Unemployment Compensation Advisory Council was in regular meeting at Portland Wednesday as the attorney general's decision regarding the 14 million dollar federal loan was announced.

Mrs. Cecelia P. Galey, chairman of the Advisory Council and of the Unemployment Compensation Commission, said, "The council is deeply concerned with the results of the decision, and recommends that the commission immediately explore steps that should be taken to alleviate the situation. The council stands ready to assist."

"The fund is now at $26,106,881.12, without the 14 million dollars. If economic conditions do not improve substantially, the fund will be in precarious condition."

An immediate result of the attorney general's decision will be that all employers will pay a tax at the rate of 2.7 per cent, starting with payments due for the second quarter, payable in July, 1958.

Previous to announcement of the attorney general's decision, the Advisory Council heard reports from subcommittees on organization, coverage, benefits, employment service and farm labor. Discussion of the commission's economic forecasts, and of current congressional activities in unemployment insurance were also on the agenda.

This was the second of a number of meetings to be held by the Advisory Council prior to the 1959 session of the Legislature. The seventeen member council is made up of five people representing the public, six labor, and six industry. Members are selected by the governor to study all aspects of the unemployment compensation law and the employment service, and to form sound and constructive recommendations for the Legislature's consideration.
