Auto Industry Leaders Confer, Lay Plans For Possible Labor Deadline

DETROIT (AP)—This is showdown week as negotiations between the United Auto Workers and the auto industry's Big Three enter the final stage.

Contracts at Ford, Chrysler and General Motors covering hundreds of thousands of workers expire within seven days or less.

With expiration in mind, 250 Ford Motor Co. executives from across the nation assembled here to figure out steps to be taken in any eventuality. The Ford - UAW agreement runs out next Sunday.

"Because of the many uncertainties involved, the company is preparing to handle any situation that might arise," said John S. Bugas, Ford vice president for industrial relations and head of the company's bargaining team.

Bugas said possibilities run a wide range from a new contract to continuing operations without one. Ford and the UAW have not operated without a contract since 1941.

Chrysler's agreement also expires Sunday. General Motors' contract runs out Thursday night. Ford and GM resumed negotiating today with Chrysler waiting until tomorrow.

The Big Three legally could shut their plants to force a contract settlement. But there was no hint of what they would do if contract deadlines pass without agreements.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said a management lockout "would mean a deterioration in long-range collective bargaining."

The UAW previously ordered its members to work without contracts if agreements were not attained.

The UAW is standing firm on its demands for an annual wage boost of at least 10 cents an hour, increased supplemental unemployment benefits, and cost of living allowances for retired workers, Reuther said.

Bank Selects New Official

The new trust representative at the Klamath Falls branch of First National Bank of Portland, Wayne Blair, is an attorney and was formerly associated with the Klamath Indian information and education program for the State Department of Education.

Blair's appointment here became effective last week, according to an announcement by C. B. Stephenson, First National Bank president at Portland. He has assumed his duties in the bank's trust department located on the second floor of the First National Bank building.

Blair was graduated in law from Willamette University at Salem in 1954. He served as clerk for Supreme Court Justice Earl C. Latourette for a year and practiced law for a period before accepting a post with the State Department of Education. In the latter capacity, he was stationed at Chiloquin where he gained firsthand knowledge of the Klamath Indian situation under terms of the law which terminates federal jurisdiction of the reservation.

Blair joined First National about six months ago. He is married and the father of two children.

CHOCOLATE DROP proved to be the prize winning name for the young pony shown here being ridden by his proud new owners. Janis Mae Ross, 7, on the pony with her brother James, 9, submitted the winning name in a "Name The Pony" contest sponsored by H. O. Juckeland, right, Edsel dealer in Klamath Falls. Shown left, is Dave Sauvageau, Juckeland's sales manager. The youngsters are children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Ross, Old Midland Road.

Recognition Offered Youthful Artists

Budding art students in Oregon elementary and high schools, public and private, will have a chance to obtain statewide recognition by entering their works in the greatly enlarged school art section of the 1958 Oregon State Fair. Laneta King, art superintendent at the fair, has enlisted the cooperation of a special jury for school judging; members are Richard Trojan of the art department, Oregon State College, Miss Marion Ady, Southern Oregon College of Education and Rachael Griffin, Portland Art Museum.

Twelve blue ribbon awards of $5 each and 24 red ribbon awards of $2 each will be given. The best of the entries will be exhibited at the fair. The closing date for entries has been extended to June 20, and judging will take place June 24. Entries should be sent to the Oregon State Fair, Salem.

New Hormone Discovered

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale scientists say they have isolated a hormone from the pineal gland, a mysterious part of the brain that has puzzled researchers for hundreds of years.

The hormone lightens the skin shade of test animals, the scientists said. It may have some connection with the skin cancer known as melanoma.

The scientists, all members of the Yale Medical School's dermatology section, said they extracted less than a drop of the hormone from the brains of 250,000 beef cattle.

They still don't know the function of the pineal gland, once believed to be the "seat of the soul." But they hope that later experiments with the hormone will provide clues.

The doctors are Aaron N. Lerner, James D. Case, Yoshiyata Takahashi, Teh H. Lee and Wataru Mori. Their work was financed by grants from the U. S. Public Health Service and the American Cancer Society.

Group Plans August Show

Members of the Artifactors decided at their last meeting to hold an artifact show August 22, 23 and 24 at the Klamath County Museum. Eugene Favell and Lane Smith were named co-chairmen of arrangements and Mrs. Lane Smith will handle publicity for the event, the first of its kind in this area.

The exhibit will feature the choice collections of artifacts and arrowheads from this region.

At the May 19 meeting, Stanley Kendall, a Henley teacher, was guest speaker and showed a number of fossils which he had dug up on his property. He brought to the meeting several large teeth and six-inch toe bone, all thought to have come from a mammoth prehistoric beast.

Ray Mattson, president, announced that Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Gienger of Chiloquin will be host to the group at a Sunday potluck luncheon for the July meeting. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, June 2, at 8 p.m. in Klamath Falls.

Pantie Raid Broken Up

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A pantie raid which Florida State University officials claimed a disc jockey helped incite was broken up with tear gas.

Damage was light around Jennie Murphree Dormitory for Women. Loot included an assortment of wispy garments flung from upper windows by cooperative coeds.

The raid, involving 1,000 men students and some local residents, lasted about four hours.

No arrests were made and no injuries were reported.

Robert M. Strozier, president of the university, said a broadcast by Red Evans, disc jockey for Tallahassee station WTAL, contributed to the uproar.

Paul Meyers, Evans' supervisor, said Evans "innocently broadcast" a student request that said "big things tonight at Jennie Murphree."

A highway patrolman fired one tear gas shell when raiders broke a dormitory basement window. It helped disperse the group.

Italian Vote Near Record

ROME (AP) — A record turnout seemed in prospect today as late voters hurried to cast their ballots for deputies in Italy's third postwar Parliament.

The Interior Ministry said more than 77 per cent of the eligible voters—about 25 million—cast ballots yesterday.

At stake were five-year terms for all 596 seats in the Chamber of Deputies and six-year terms for the 246 Senate places. Voting is compulsory.

Two hundred thousand police and soldiers patrolled the booths but there were few incidents.

The generally apathetic, six-week campaign pitted a dozen major parties ranging from the Communists to the Fascists. In the center are the ruling Christian Democrats trying to retrieve the absolute majority they lost in 1953. They got 40 per cent of the vote then and had to form a coalition with other center parties.

The Reds and their fellow-traveling Socialists collected about 34 per cent of the popular vote in the last election five years ago.

Sgt. Arnold French of the Siskiyou County California Highway Patrol was assistant to Roscoe Savage, associate ranger and Herman Hammack and Howard LaPlant, assistant rangers, of the Division of Forestry in conducting the course, which is given periodically to Division of Forestry drivers.

The course is one used extensively by large fleet truck systems and government agencies, to check and improve the efficiency of their drivers.

Arsonist Tracked Down

CHICAGO (AP)—A former mental patient was seized yesterday when, police said, he was about to set fire to a church. He admitted setting recent fires in a church and five other buildings, all on the West Side.

Police said Isaac Wilson, 35, admitted he set fire early yesterday to the Christ Temple Church, which was destroyed at a loss estimated at $100,000. On Saturday, he said, he started a fire in a four-story former church building. Damage was $30,000. Wilson, a Negro, was seized as he bent over a pile of rags and papers against the door of the First Congregational Church.

He told police he set fire to the church buildings because he had been refused permission to bring his dog to church. He also told police he set fires in trash cans wherever he finds them because it "keeps rats away and destroys germs."

Bonanza Orders New Culverts

BONANZA — Culverts have been ordered for three Bonanza streets was the announcement at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Bonanza City Council at the library with Mayor Walter Casebeer presiding.

Other business disclosed that the city dump truck is being repaired. Also a resolution was read to close the streets by the Horsefly irrigation office.

The council is working on the town budget for the fiscal year of 1958-59.

The meeting adjourned until Wednesday night to enable Henry Perkins to advise the town of Bonanza in setting up a town hall sinking fund.
