Grant Given For Ducks

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Ducks Unlimited, a leading waterfowl conservation organization, has appropriated $600,000 for the development of "duck factories" on Canadian breeding grounds, it was announced Saturday.

The grant was made today at the 26th annual meeting of the DU organization, attended by delegates and state chairmen from 22 states and representatives from Canada.

The appropriation was the eighth consecutive annual grant exceeding $500,000 from DU for work on the more than 630 duck breeding areas in the prairie provinces of Canada where more than 65 per cent of the North American migratory waterfowl raise their young.

Alberg B. McKee Jr., of Pasadena was elected president to succeed Stirling S. Adams of New York, who was elevated to the chairman of the board. Carsten E. Tiedeman, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., was elected chairman of the Executive Committee.

Outgoing President Adams said in a report to the Board of Trustees that indications are that the waterfowl population has not decreased or may be slightly better than the last year.

Adams said duck hunters last year were placed under "unwarranted and unnecessary" restrictions and discouraged thousands of duck hunters from participating in their sport, "and more important, discouraged many clubs and individuals from maintaining private marshes which were used as migration resting and feeding areas as well as nesting habitat.

"How many of these private marshes have been drained for agricultural or other purposes, I would not know, but it is reasonable to expect serious consideration of their disposal will be made if regulations are not more realistic in the future."

Dark Says Giants Need Lefty

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Manager Alvin Dark said Saturday that the San Francisco Giants need a lef-handed relief pitcher badly.

He planned to confer with vice president Chub Feeney to see if one can be found in the system or obtained in a trade.

The man supposed to fill the bill, Billy Hoeft, is out for at least a month with an injured shoulder. Dark already has indicated that starters Billy Pierce and Billy O'Dell may be used briefly for relief until Hoeft comes around.

The Giants were rained out at Stockton Friday and were to resume their series with Cleveland here Saturday.

Dark planned to use Juan Marichal, O'Dell and Jack Fisher in his final two exhibition battles Saturday, and in Salt Lake City Sunday.

It was hoped that Friday's rains might have cooled off the tempers which flared to red hot in Thursday's bean-ball battle at Modesto between the Tribe and the Giants.

Meanwhile in San Francisco, plans were announced for a welcome home parade for the Giants April 15.

The Giants start the regular season at Houston and won't return to San Francisco until a week later.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Quarterback Terry Baker of Oregon State will lead John McKay's West team against Milt Bruhn's East squad in the third annual All-America football game June 29 in War Memorial Stadium, it was announced Saturday.

The 195-pound southpaw signal-caller, who won college football's Heisman and Maxwell trophies in 1962, heads the list of 30 seniors who will try to bring the West its second victory in the young series. The East defeated the West, 13-8, last June to avenge a 30-20 licking in the 1961 inaugural.

The East unit, announced a week ago by the co - sponsoring American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) and the Buffalo (N.Y.) Evening News, will have Wisconsin's Ron Vanderdelen, Mississippi's Glynn Griffing and Daryle Lamonica of Notre Dame as the quarterbacking trio.

Baker, a starter on the Oregon State basketball team, will be backed up by Bill Nelson of Southern California (McKay's national champions) and Jesse Branch of Arkansas.

The complete West squad:

Ends — Lionel Aldridge, Utah State; Conrad Hichler, Missouri; John Campbell, Minnesota; Hugh Campbell, Washington State; Gene Raesz, Rice.

Tackles — Tony Liscio, Tulsa; Roy Williams, Univ. of Pacific; Steve Barnett, Oregon; Ron Sidow, Oregon; Bobby Lee Bell, Minnesota.

Banks Claims Cubs Can Win Pennant

Editor's Note: This is the 18th of 20 dispatches on the prospects of major league teams.

By SCOTT BAILLIE
UPI Sports Writer

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Ernie Banks murmurs loyally, "the Chicago Cubs can win the pennant."

Athletic Director Robert Whitlow, the latest in a series of innovations by the Wrigley empire, bubbles, "barring injuries, we could take all the marbles."

Head coach Bob Kennedy, a former White Sox star, grunts, "I make no predictions."

And the ninth place Cubs lost eight of their first 10 exhibition games. So what else is new?

Mainly, the arrival of pitchers Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel from St. Louis. The pair were acquired in a six-man deal that sent slugger George Altman and pitcher Don Cardwell to the Cardinals. Cardwell then was dealt off to Pittsburgh.

"We gave up good players," Vice President Charley Grimm says of Altman and Cardwell. "But we weren't winning with them."

Sees Pitching Potential

The trade was designed to bring some much-needed leadership to a hurling staff that is long on potential but short on victories.

"I'll be disappointed if I don't win 15 games this year," says Jackson, who had a 16-11 mark at St. Louis and has only known one losing season in the eight he spent with the Redbirds.

In addition to Jackson, Kennedy has such other right - handed starters as Bob Buhl (12-14), Glen Hobbie (5-14), Cal Koonce (10-10) and lefty Dick Ellsworth (9-20).

McDaniel, one time star relief pitcher for the Cards, had a 3-10 mark in 1962 but expects to make a comeback as does Don Elston who had been one of the loop's best firemen until he had a 4-8 record for Chicago last season.

Pitching Seems Stronger

All told, the Cubs now figure to have a stronger pitching staff backed by last season's infield of first baseman Banks, second baseman Ken Hubbs, shortstop Andre Rodgers and Ron Santo or Steve Boros — a Detroit acquisition — at third.

The catching could also be better now that Dick Bertell is out —of the Army. The Cubs landed another backstop, Jimmy Schaffer, from St. Louis in the Jackson deal.

The outfield does not appear set aside from Billy Williams in left. Kennedy also has been using Boros in the outfield. Rookie Nelson Mathews, Kennedy says, has a "good shot" for the center field post but there also is Don Landrum, a proven .282 hitter, and Lou Brock. In right it could be Landrum, Brock or Boros.

Yankees' Terry In Form

Reliable Ralph Terry, chalking up an impressive spring record after a magnificent World Series outing, is set to top his major league victory high of 23 games.

Terry, who closed out the New York Yankees' 1962 World Series win over San Francisco with a 1-0 seventh game triumph, tuned up for a possible opening day assignment with his third straight spring victory Friday night.

The Oklahoma righthander allowed only one run and three hits during a five-inning mound chore against the Philadelphia Phillies as the Yankees swept to a 4-2 verdict.

Terry did not walk a man and has issued only one pass in 34 innings of Grapefruit League competition. That's the type of control pitching manager Ralph Houk would like from all his starters. In fact, it probably means Terry will get the nod against the Athletics in Kansas City Tuesday.

In the only other game, the Cincinnati Reds edged the Chicago White Sox, 3-2. Joey Jay, a 21-game winner, and ace relievers Bill Henry and Jim Brosnan combined in a six-hitter.

The Cleveland-San Francisco and Kansas City-Houston games were canceled by rain.

Warren Spahn's six-year-reign of opening day assignments was ended when Braves manager Bobby Bargan announced that Lew Burdette would pitch the season's first game against the Pirates at Pittsburgh Tuesday. Burdette's only previous curtain raiser resulted in a 6-0 win over Chicago in 1956.

Manager Billy Hitchcock named Steve Barber to hurl for the Baltimore Orioles in their inaugural against the Senators in Washington on Monday. Barber has a 3-1 lifetime record against the Nats and has been the Orioles' most effective pitcher this spring with eight earned runs in 34 innings.

Hamm's Beer Ties For 10th

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) Hamm's Beer of Chicago compiled 5963 Friday night to move into a tie for 10th place in the classic team division of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

It moved next to "Big E" of Buffalo, which totaled an identical score on March 31.

Lou Cioffi paced the Hamm's set with a 632 series. The team added 2983 Friday night to the 2980 bowled Thursday.

In other classic action, the Food Fair's team of Philadelphia, Pa., fired 3008 in its first three-game block. The team's most famous member, Jack Winters, who set an ABC classic all-events record last year of 2147, was not up to form. Winters managed a 597 series on games of 209, 188 and 200.

In the minor events Friday, Jim St. John of Chicago placed ninth in the classic all-events with 1930. He scored 704 in the team event, 632 in the doubles and 594 in the singles for his total.

In the booster division, reserved for teams averaging 850 and under, Joe and Mary's Restaurant of Oneonta, N.Y., moved into seventh place with 2736. There were no changes in the regular division.

Near-Extinct Cranes Making Long Journey

Sometime soon, probably early in April, a remnant population of a gallant species, the whooping crane, will leave wintering grounds at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge on the Gulf coast of Texas and head northward for a nesting area in Wood Buffalo Park near Great Slave Lake in Canada, 2,500 miles away.

The Department of the Interior said the whoopers usually leave the Texas refuge in small groups over a period of six or seven weeks. Last year the first five left on or about April 2.

Whooping cranes are white birds about five feet tall with red-crowned heads and black-tipped wings. In migration they fly high, sometimes out of sight, carried along on wings with a seven-foot spread. Their trumpet-like calls can be heard for great distances.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall has renewed a plea for safe passage of the giant birds on their northward flight. He asked especially that anyone seeing a whooping crane report it to the nearest state or federal fish and game official. This will help assure better protection for the birds on their long journey.

As far as can be determined, 28 whoopers will start from Texas, four less than the number which made the successful southward migration in the fall of 1962 and 10 fewer than started the northward migration last year.

Fish and Wildlife Service officials still hope that some or all of the 10 missing birds have survived and will rejoin the flock. They point out that in 1946 only 17 whoopers, including five young, were counted throughout the winter. Yet about 22 adult birds came south that fall. The five adults had either been missed in the surveys or were out of range when the counts were made. There is speculation that perhaps this year's "missing" birds only wandered beyond the scope of the observations.

Thirty-eight aerial counts were made in the Aransas area between Oct. 19, 1962, when the first whoopers landed from the north, and March 25, 1963. The build-up was gradual until a peak of 32 cranes was noted on Dec. 7 and again on Dec. 20, 1962. Since then the counts have fluctuated between 19 and 28.

Because six adult whooping cranes did not return to Aransas in the fall flight and because no young birds were produced during the year, refuge personnel increased vigilance over the numbers which did return. The number and range of the reconnaissance flights were increased to areas north and west of the refuge as well as to Texas points as far north as Galveston and as far south as Brownsville in an effort to locate the missing birds.

Many rumors have been received regarding the missing cranes. Some persons reported that the northern hunters had shot southbound cranes by mistake. Other reports heard in the United States were that the whooping cranes were shot by careless hunters seeking sandhill cranes. All such rumors were studied and none has been substantiated as factual. The only definite information is that 38 whoopers started north in 1962 and only 32 came back, none with young, and further that only 28 were sighted in the far-reaching air surveys made by the Fish and Wildlife Service and the Texas Game and Fish Commission in March, 1963.

The usual migration path crosses Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, eastern Montana and into Saskatchewan, and Alberta. Occasional sightings have been reported in Idaho and elsewhere, but not been verified. The nesting area in Wood Buffalo National Park was discovered in 1954 and the Canadian Government protects it from human disturbance.

KU Contests Cancelled

Old man weather dealt the winning hand again this weekend. Both the Klamath Union baseball games with Roseburg at Roseburg were cancelled along with the KU-Roseburg tennis matches.

The Klamath freshman track meet with Ashland, slated for Modoc Field, also was tabled. Virtually all sporting events in the area were cancelled because of the heavy rains.

The Rogue Relays in Medford were slated to go on as scheduled, however. The Pelican track team was to compete in that big meet.

Cook Says Details To Be Released

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said today that final documents in his investigation of an alleged Southeastern Conference football scandal will be released next week.

Cook said the entire report of more than 100 pages will be turned over to the Senate rackets sub - committee which is studying possible federal gambling violations in the case.

In testimony given to Cook's investigators so far:

—Wallace Butts, former athletic director at the University of Georgia, has denied giving information to a rival coach that would affect the outcome of a game and thereby help gamblers.

—One witness, John Carmichael, flatly disputed details of a story previously given to the investigators by George Burnett, the man who said he overheard a conversation between Butts and Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant.

—Milton Frack, in whose office Butts made the telephone call to Bryant, acknowledged that he received $500 from the Saturday Evening Post to keep quiet to other publications about Burnett's account of what happened.

The Post published in a recent issue an account by Burnett saying he overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant in which the former gave vital Georgia team secrets just before the 1962 opening game between Georgia and Alabama.

Cook opened an investigation at the request of Gov. Carl Sanders and gave the governor what he identified as a complete report last Tuesday. He said documents subsequently released would be made a part of the official report.

President's Arm In Shape

WASHINGTON (UPI) President Kennedy's pitching arm, thanks to Washington's recent spring-like weather, is in shape for tossing out the first ball of the baseball season Monday.

That's the word from American League President Joe Cronin, who went to the White House Friday to give Kennedy a gilt-edged season pass. The President will attend the season opener here between the Washington Senators and the Baltimore Orioles.

Cronin said the President "thinks his arm is in a little better shape than a year ago," when he said Kennedy "complained of a spring training shoulder" because of chilly, rainy weather.
