Sanders Captures Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Doug Sanders fired his worst round of the tournament Sunday but still won the Greater Greensboro Open going away with a 72-hole total of 270.

The tall Georgia boy who plays out of Ojai, Calif., shot a two under-par 69 over the par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course Sunday. This combined with three other sub-par rounds—68-65-68 — to put him four strokes ahead of second-place Jimmy Clark at 274.

Sanders took the lead after his brilliant 65 in the second round, but frankly admitted he felt the pressure all the way.

"So many freak things happen in golf, I don't think a man can count on anything until he is right down to the wire," said Sanders, who collected $5,500 for his work. He said he felt most pressure from veteran Sammy Snead, who has won this tournament seven times.

Snead, however, was even par 71 on his final round and finished in a three-way tie with Gary Player and Jack McGowan for seventh place with a 278.

Clark's second place finish was worth $3,500 and Australian Kel Nagle collected $2,400 for third place with a 275. Nagle missed a three-foot putt on the 18th hole which would have given him a second-place tie. The lapse cost him about $600.

Sanders picked up birdies on the fifth and ninth holes to make the turn two under par. He eagled the 14th, but took bogies on the 12th and 15th for a regulation 35 on the back nine.

On the par-five, 501-yard sixth hole, Sanders almost muffed it. His ball landed just next to a water hazard, but he calmly took out an iron, cracked it out in good position and parred the hole.

"The ball came flying and landed on a rock," Sanders said. "Along came a fish that looked like a pretty big one."

Bunched at fourth place at 277 were Bob Charles, Art Wall Jr., and Harold Kneece.

Mails Feels SF Pitchers Fare Better

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Walter (The Great) Mails, a fine left-handed pitcher himself from 1914 to 1939, is of the firm belief that if an older pitcher comes to San Francisco, he can prolong his playing career for as long as four or five years.

Mails spoke from personal experience. He was released from the St. Louis Cardinals in 1925 because of a bad arm but continued pitching on Pacific Coast League teams, mainly San Francisco, until 1939.

Mails, now head of the San Francisco Giants' speakers bureau was here with the Giants the past two springs.

Wants Pitching Tips

"Last year Billy Pierce convinced me one day and asked if I could give him any tips about pitching in Candlestick Park," said Mails. "He had heard reports of the wind, cold and fog and wanted advice.

"I told him to forget about the elements and just pitch."

Mails said spring training methods are a bit different and advised Pierce to do plenty of throwing and not to do too much running. He also told him to train down to about five pounds under his regular pitching weight.

"You'll notice the difference," Mails said, "when you make your first trip East and run into hot, muggy weather in St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati. You'll be stronger after working in San Francisco's cool conditions."

Apparently the tips worked wonders for Pierce last year. His record at Candlestick Park was 12-0.

Has Fingers Crossed

The same advice was given to Jack Fisher this spring and Mails had his fingers crossed that it would work as well for the new Giant hurler.

The Duster pointed out that the playing conditions at Candlestick Park provide a mental hazard for many players. However, the other team also has to play there and it's tougher on them," he said.

"Talk about fog, wind and cold," reminisced Mails, "I once pitched a game at Golden Gate Park when it seemed as though they had a fog horn at home plate and a lantern at second base. I've pitched in five parks in San Francisco. They all had wind, fog and cold, but I credit these conditions with giving me six or eight more good years of pitching."

In the major leagues, Mails played for Brooklyn, Cleveland and the Cardinals. In 1920 he won eight and lost none for the Indians, worked 6 2-3 innings of World Series and didn't allow a run. He also played in the 1916 series with Brooklyn.

"In 1929, I was with the Seals," Mails recalled. "I won 22 and lost 11 and the next year my contract called for a cut of $2,500. I sent Doc Strub, owner of the club, a letter saying, 'I think you overlooked the fact that I won 22 and lost 11 last season. I wonder if I had won 11 and lost 22 whether you would have sent me a bill.' "

The Hawaii Islanders have established a new season's record in the Pacific Coast League—and they haven't even been to bat yet.

The Islanders and the visiting Salt Lake City Bees have watched restlessly while their first three scheduled games were washed out by tropical downpours. Hawaii had only one game postponed by rain during its first two seasons in the PCL.

But the other eight teams in the wide-spread loop are swinging for the fences.

The Oklahoma City 89ers hammered out five homers Sunday to defeat Seattle, 9-5, and take over the lead in the Southern Division with two victories and no defeats.

Dallas-Ft. Worth and Portland split a doubleheader, with the Rangers taking the afternoon contest, 5-4, and the Beavers winning the night game, 9-5.

In another twinbill, Spokane edged Denver, 1-0, in the opener and lost to the Bears, 4-1, in the nightcap. Tacoma defeated San Diego, but the nightcap was postponed because of wet grounds.

The rained-out Hawaii-Salt Lake doubleheader was rescheduled for today. Other games on the schedule include Spokane at San Diego, Seattle at Oklahoma City, and Portland at Dallas.

Oklahoma City got off to a fast start against Seattle with four runs in the first inning on a walk and four hits, including a bases-empty homer by Al Heist. Von McDaniel smashed a two-run roundtripper, while John Weekly, Jim McDaniel and Jim Mahoney chipped in solo shots.

In the first game at Denver, Spokane scored one run in the fourth inning—and that's all the Indians needed, as pitcher Dick Scott blanked the Bears on just three hits. Spokane also got only one run in the nightcap, and that wasn't enough. The Bears scored three times in the fifth inning, and catcher Phil Roof rapped a homer in the sixth with none on.

Portland jumped out to a four-run lead in both of its games at Dallas, but had to struggle to earn a split. The Rangers rallied for five runs to take the opener and tied the nightcap with Ray Jablonski's homer in the eighth. But the Beavers bounced back with five runs in the top of the ninth to ice the contest.

Bob Garibaldi and Jimmy Hart combined forces to lead Tacoma to its victory over San Diego. Garibaldi went the distance for the Giants, allowing seven scattered hits. Hart smashed a three-run homer in the eighth.

Celtics Defeat Lakers In Poor Shooting Game

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics figured they were lucky—very, very lucky — to escape with a win. But the player it probably cost them will hurt.

The aging National Basketball Association champions, hunting their fifth successive playoff crown, copped a one-game lead on Los Angeles in the best-of-seven final playoffs, 117-114, Sunday night.

But when the game ended, rookie utilityman John Havlicek, Boston's third or fourth best player over the distance of the season, was in a hospital.

Havlicek suffered an injury to his left ankle when he dived over the Los Angeles bench while going for a loose ball in the second period. He was helped from the court but the ankle already was badly swollen when he was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital later.

Will Know Today

Celtics officials said they wouldn't know until noon today whether Havlicek will be back for Tuesday night's second game or at all in the long final playoffs.

Actually, the Celtics had a bad game and they were the first to admit it. But for a last-minute scoring spree by the veteran Tom Heinsohn, the Lakers would have been the series leader.

Guard Sam Jones, Boston scoring leader over the regular season, wound up with Celtic point honors at 29 while Bill Russell netted 25 and Heinsohn finished with 19. Jones also picked up 15 rebounds to run second to Russell's 29, and had seven assists, second only to Bob Cousy's 11 effort.

Boston's shooting was way off in the first half, when the Celtics couldn't even hit from the foul line. After two periods, Boston had only 11 points on 22 free throws while the Lakers had hit on 18 of 19 attempts.

Like most statistics, however, those tended to level off in the second half. At the end, the Celtics were 25 for 39 at the line while Los Angeles had hit on 42 of 47.

Lakers Lose Leads

But the Lakers, despite Elgin Baylor's 33 points, 25 by Jerry West, and 23 more for Dick Barnett, couldn't hold onto leads that at times reached 13 points.

"They were running right by us in that second period (when Boston converted a 13 point deficit into a one point lead in two and one half minutes) and that was the turning point," Laker Coach Fred Schaus said.

The Los Angeles pilot, whose team lost a seven-game overtime playoff decision to Boston last year, didn't permit his players to talk with newsmen. In fact, Schaus kept the Los Angeles dressing room door locked for 15 minutes after the game, and sent his players out a side door before admitting the press.

Red Auerbach, the coach who has directed Boston to five championships in the past six seasons, was quick to admit that his Celtics were lucky to win.

But all the while, Auerbach was worrying over the price, Havlicek, of his team's good fortune.

The Western Hockey League playoffs lapsed into two days of repose today with the possibility growing that both Northern and Southern Division battles will go the full seven games.

Portland's Buckaroos bounced back with two weekend victories over the San Francisco Seals to take a 3-2 lead in the Southern Division competition. The Seattle Totems meanwhile won a pair at home to square their series with Vancouver at two apiece.

Hostilities resume Wednesday in both divisions, with San Francisco and Vancouver becoming the home teams.

Portland's Tom McCarthy slapped in the winning goal at 3:12 of an overtime period Sunday night to give the Buckaroos a 2-1 decision. Neither team tallied until the third period, when Portland's Gordy Fashoway clicked and Mo Mantha of the Seals followed.

The Bucks hacked out a 5-1 victory on the Seals' home rink Saturday.

Seattle put on a stunning third period display Sunday night in registering a 5-2 triumph over Vancouver. The Totems scored four times in 10 minutes to blitz the Canucks, who had taken a 2-1 lead at the outset of the period.

Rudy Filion put Seattle ahead at 11:56 of the closing frame. Guyle Fielder and Bob Sabourin slammed in two more Seattle goals to put it out of reach. The Totems, who dropped the first two games of the series, downed Vancouver 6-3 Saturday.

Parade Set For Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The National League champion San Francisco Giants aren't going to win 'em all in 1963, but they get a welcoming-home parade today anyway.

They lost their first game of the season Sunday, a 3-1 thing to the Chicago Cubs after capturing their first four tilts. Then they grabbed a plane for San Francisco.

They open the 1963 Candlestick Park campaign Tuesday against the Houston Colt combine that they've already trounced three times this young season.

Tuesday's game is a sellout. It has been for six weeks, with all 42,000 seats snapped up. The weather, which has been rainy for the past week, is supposed to clear up in time for the start of the 14-game home stand.

Larry Jackson, with a ninth-inning assist from Lindy McDaniel, had the San Francisco sluggers eating out of his hands in Chicago Sunday. The Giants got only three hits off Jackson and one off his reliever.

The lone San Francisco run came in the last inning when Chuck Hiller was safe on an error and scored on Willie McCovey's double.

Pitcher Juan Marichal failed to go the distance for the second time. The Cubs got only five hits and two runs off him in the five innings he worked. But that was enough.

Bisons Get Needed Rest

By United Press International

The Buffalo Bisons will get a much-needed rest before they take on the winner of the Cleveland-Hershey series in the final round of the American Hockey League playoff series.

The Bisons clinched their best-of-seven series with a pair of weekend victories over Providence beating the Reds 8-1 Saturday and 3-1 Sunday night.

Cleveland took a one-game edge over the Hershey Bears in their best-of-five semifinal with a 4-0 shutout Sunday night, following a 5-1 decision at Hershey Saturday. The teams meet in the fourth game at Cleveland on Wednesday, with a fifth game, if necessary, to be played at Hershey on Thursday.

Outstanding goaltending featured both weekend sweeps. Denis Dejordy, 24-year-old Buffalo netminder who is being groomed to eventually replace Glenn Hall of the Chicago Black Hawks, turned back 35 shots Sunday night in repelling the desperate Reds. He had no room for error until Barry Cullen scored the clincher for Buffalo with less than half a minute to play.

Les Binkley had less action in recording his shutout for Cleveland, making 26 saves, and he got all the offensive support he needed from Bill Masterton, who scored the first two Barons goals.

Wings Stage Playoff Rally

DETROIT (UPI) — Alex Faulkner has cut loose with his "Sunday punch" once again and the Detroit Red Wings are back in the running for the Stanley Cup hockey championship.

For the third straight Sunday, the 5-foot-8, 165-pound Faulkner scored Detroit's game-winning goal in the National Hockey League playoffs, this latest tally enabling the Red Wings to beat the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-2, Sunday night.

Faulkner, a player the Leafs let get away last year, scored twice Sunday night, giving him five goals in nine playoff games against Chicago and Toronto. He scored only 10 during the regular season.

The Red Wings' victory cut Toronto's lead to 2-1 in this best-of-seven final series for hockey's most coveted trophy.

The clubs will meet Tuesday in the fourth game and the Wings, who don't seem to get going until all seems lost, have a chance to tie the series before the clubs head for Toronto for the fifth game Thursday.

The Maple Leafs, the defending cup champions who were thinking of a four-game sweep, are still favored to win the series. But it was just two weeks ago that Faulkner, who was drafted from Toronto last year, started Detroit off on an ambush of the favored Chicago Black Hawks.

With the Wings trailing 2-0 in the best-of-seven semifinal series, Faulkner scored the winning goal that ignited the Wings and set them off on a four-game winning streak. He also scored the winning goal last Sunday in the sixth and final game of the series against Chicago.
