Detective Shows Way

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Professor Moriarity, the arch criminal, stood in the dock awaiting his trial for stealing a small slam against Lord West and Sir Raymond East.

It seemed like an open and shut case as the prosecution proved conclusively that the Professor, sitting North, had bid three spades to show control of that suit when really he was void of clubs and by so doing had induced Lord West to open the king of clubs, not the king of spades against the final six heart contract.

The Professor called but one witness and a stir went through the courtroom when everyone saw that his one witness was the master detective, Sherlock Holmes.

Upon being duly sworn the great detective explained that the real criminal was Sir Raymond. Holmes pointed out that Sir Raymond should have bid four clubs over the Professor's three spades. In Holmes' words, "Lord West had shown a very strong two-suit hand and four clubs could not be hurt. Then if the Professor had still gone to six hearts Lord West should have been able to deduce that the Professor was up to one of his well known tricks and opened the king of spades."

As the spectators burst into cheers Holmes turned to the Professor and remarked, "You must be slipping. The old Moriarity would have bid seven hearts and picked up a grand slam."

What do you do?

A—Bid five diamonds. Even if your partner has five hearts a heart contract is likely to prove unwieldy.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Again you open one diamond. West overcalls with one spade. Your partner bids two diamonds and East jumps to four spades. What do you do now?

REDS OBSERVE COOPER SHOT — One of two Russian fishing trawlers spotted off the Florida coast Tuesday is shown headed south about 20 miles from downtown Miami. A Florida congressman reported the ships loaded with antennas and radar were inside U.S. territorial waters and he assumed they were here to observe the Cooper space shot. The Coast Guard said the ships were not seen in U.S. waters. No familiar-looking radar could be seen above deck. —UPI Telephoto

Driver Cited In Bus Crash

William M. Strong, 17, 713 North Ninth Street, was cited for failing to keep his car under control and not having an operator's license after the pickup he was driving slammed into a school bus loading passengers in front of Klamath Union High.

No one was injured in the crash, which occurred about 3:10 p.m. Tuesday, but both the bus and the pickup received moderate damage.

The bus driver, who was standing outside the bus and witnessed the accident, said the youth was driving at a high rate of speed on Alameda Avenue when he lost control of the pickup and it swerved into the side of the school bus.

Crop Information Need Discussed

LAKEVIEW—A committee of local ranchers together with representatives of the Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, and Vocational Agriculture met May 2 in the U.S. Post Office Building, Lakeview.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the feasibility of obtaining practical information on crop varieties and fertilizer recommendations for use in Goose Lake Valley. The committee selected Orla Shullanberger to act as chairman for the coming year.

The objectives of the committee are twofold. One is to secure practical information relative to crop varieties and fertilizer uses for the Goose Lake Valley. It was felt that this information could be obtained through trial seedings and fertilizer applications. The second is to compile the information obtained into a report form to be made available to the farmers and ranchers.

The committee outlined its plans for this year which include setting up nitrogen strip trials on native meadow land this spring; compiling information from a Gaines wheat and safflower trials already under-way; setting out a moisture block irrigation trial on hay, grain, and potato land, and selecting trial sites for forage grass with trials to be started this fall.

The group will meet again in September to compile all information into a report to be made available to farmers and ranchers in the Goose Lake Valley.

Irish Family Tells Pupil Of Customs

LAKEVIEW—As a part of his orientation program before leaving for Ireland on June 8, Dean Wimer, IFYE representative to that country, was the guest of an Irish family in Lakeview during the past weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Collins were the hosts for Wimer, and his reaction when he left was, "I feel like I've known the Collinses all my life." He spent the time getting acquainted with Irish customs and traditions and getting attuned to the lilt of the Irish brogue.

Dean will leave Oregon on May 23 to spend a week in Washington, D.C., for intensive orientation before departing from New York on June 8. He will spend six months in Ireland living with families for three weeks at a time. Upon his return to Oregon next January, he will be speaking throughout the state, with Lake County included in his schedule.

Wimer, a junior in general agriculture at Oregon State University, has a career in extension service in view for the future. He hails from Brownsville, near Eugene, where he lives on a 125 acre farm. Three foster brothers, two foster sisters, one brother, and his parents make a full house, says Dean.

He was a representative to the National 4-H Club Congress for two years, in 1959 on a swine project and in 1960 on an achievement project. He is a 10-year 4-H member, with his major projects swine and grain crops. He was a summer camp counselor for five years.

Before returning to the United States from Ireland, he will visit with Mr. and Mrs. David Murphy and Rev. John Phelan of Lakeview, who are all making a visit to their native land this summer.
