Strength in the National Basketball Association is the ability to win even without your super-stars.

Boston and Cincinnati proved once again Sunday they're the strongest teams in the league, the Celtics ripping the Baltimore Bullets 126-111 without the services of Bill Russell and the Royals beating the St. Louis Hawks 99-92 although Jerry Lucas and Wayne Embry were out of the lineup.

The Celtics broke a 58-58 half-time deadlock with 40 points in the third quarter. Key to this spurt was the 24 rebounds pulled down by Boston to only one for the Bullets. It was the Celts' seventh victory in nine meetings this season with Baltimore.

Six players hit in double figures for Boston, led by Sam Jones' 35, and Tom Heinsohn's 24. Walt Bellamy led the Bullets with 29 points and Bailey Howell had 21.

A pair of rookies, seven-foot Mel Counts and John Thompson, shared the ailing Russell's job. Counts getting 14 points and 16 rebounds while playing just over half the game.

Cincinnati, after enjoying a 14-point lead early in the game, finally broke an 87-all tie in the fourth period on a field-goal by Tom Hawkins. Although Lucas is out with a chest injury and Embry suffered a torn muscle Saturday night, the Royals went on to snap St. Louis' five-game winning streak.

Oscar Robertson of the Royals led all scorers with 30 points while high man with 24 for the Hawks was Bob Pettit, who sat out the entire third quarter after hurting his knee.

No other games were played Sunday.

Ken Hubbs' Hometown Hasn't Forgotten Hero

COLTON, Calif. (UPI)— A year ago today this city of 20,000 was plunged into mourning when its No. 1 athletic hero, Ken Hubbs, was found dead in the wreckage of his airplane in an icy Utah lake.

Today Ken Hubbs, a model of what people like to think is the typical American boy—a scholar, athlete, student body leader, and a church-goer is not forgotten.

Hubbs, just 22, was in the beginning of what promised to be a great career as a baseball player with the Chicago Cubs. He had played in 72 consecutive games at second base without an error. He had everything going for him.

His brother, Keith, 27, is administrator of the Ken Hubbs Memorial Foundation and is and many of the people in this city keep alive the memory of the baseball player cut down by an act of fate.

Keith is in the process of sifting through tax laws to have the Internal Revenue Service declare the foundation a non-profit organization.

"We have a lot of philanthropists waiting to contribute once this is achieved," said Keith in a UPI interview. "One of our main goals is to offer a college scholarship in competition all over Southern California . . . not just a token scholarship but a top scholarship . . . to a boy who may be like Kenny. Kenny wasn't only a top athlete, he was an 'A' student, he was a leader in student activities . . . he was student body president at the high school here.

"We're also going to try to establish an athletic center as a living memorial. Architects have donated their services and they're drawing up plans we have proposed. We want a complete Ken Hubbs memorial . . . a couple of baseball diamonds . . . Little League and Pony League fields . . . a picnic ground and a playground for little kids . . . a gymnasium with boys and girls—dressing rooms . . . maybe handball courts. In the foyer, we'd like to have a museum of Kenny's stuff—his glove, bat, uniforms, spikes and things like that."

Keith said the foundation is not yet ready to reveal figures on its assets because it must await the approval of the Internal Revenue Service before it can really get going.

He boasted they have by a film called "The Ken Hubbs Story" which Ken's father, Eulis, a local insurance broker, has been promoting with television stations throughout the country.

The most sizeable contribution they've had to date was about $3,000 given by president Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers as part of the celebration of a game against the Cubs last season.

"The arrangement was," said Keith, "that we were to get half of the price of all tickets distributed through the foundation. After the game was over we went to see Mr. O'Malley and he said, 'take it all.'"

Once the IRS has given its okay to non-profit status, Keith said, he will organize contributions from people like Phil Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, and other wealthy baseball figures.

Five rugged games were played in the Western Hockey League Saturday and Sunday, but as far as the standings were concerned it was hardly worth the effort.

The four leading contenders for a shot at the playoffs split their games down the middle, and the fifth and sixth place teams battled to a 1-1 tie in their single encounter.

League - leading Portland, which dropped a 6-3 decision to fourth place Victoria Saturday night, came back to wallop the Maple Leafs 8-1 Sunday.

The split enabled the Buckaroos to maintain their six-point lead over second-place Seattle, which defeated Vancouver, 5-4 Saturday but lost a 4-2 decision Sunday.

Fifth-place San Francisco and cellar-dwelling Los Angeles, who were idle Saturday, battled to a deadlock Sunday. San Francisco's Bill Connelly coudged in the only goal for Los Angeles as he attempted to clear the puck during a scramble at his opponent's net.
