EUROPEAN MAY DAY PEACEFUL

(By United News Leased Wire)

LONDON, May 1.—Thousands of workers celebrated May Day in almost every European capital, but not even the explosion of a Chinese fire cracker has been reported to haer out previous warnings that the day might be the signal for the explosion of terrorist bombs throughout the old world.

From Japan in the Pacific to England in the Atlantic there were parades of workers and ships, but no bombs. Two reasons are advanced for the absence of grisly crimes. One is that police precautions were so great that there was not a spot in Europe safe for the operations of a bomb thrower and the other that no one intended to throw any bombs anyway.

The British house of commons celebrated the workers' holiday by defeating a laborite bill to limit the labors of industrial workers to 48 hours each week by a vote of 223 to 128. David Kirkwood, the Clydeside Scotchman who recently was suspended from the house for speaking his mind too clearly, warned the government of its peril.

"Don't blame us," Kirkwood shouted to the conservative members seated across from him. "If there is revolutionary or other drastic action. We are constantly warning you that our people will not sit calmly and suffer injustice."

While Kirkwood spoke 10,000 British workers, most of them communists paraded from the embankment along the Thames to Hyde park. Hundreds of children were in the parade wearing their bright best and munching thick slices of bread. The women swigged tea from bottles. Among the British workers were many olive skinned hybrids from White Chapel. In the park the adults spoke or listened to speeches and the children danced around May poles.

CHICAGO POISON CASE DEVELOPS NEW INTRIGUES

(By United News Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, May 1.—New intrigue and conspiracy has been written into the history of the McClintock millions, since the wintry morning several months ago, when William D. Shepherd was arrested and charged with murdering the young heir.

Shepherd, bloated and pasty-faced from weeks in a jail cell, still denies all charges of criminal activity in the death of Billy McClintock, and ridicules suspicions that he may have been involved in the death of Billy's mother and of Dr. Olson. But new witnesses produced when the inquest was resumed today testified that deft plots and sinister intimidation have been under way in the case for the last few months —even since Shepherd was locked in jail.

Girl Detective

These witnesses were obtained by Judge Harry Olson, leading figure on the Chicago bench and student of criminal psychology, who has dedicated himself to ferreting out every phase of Shepherd's life and past.

Gladys Roberts, former private detective, testified that Shepherd was informed by John Jones, her detective employer, that "if you didn't change your story so often you'd stand a better chance of getting rid of the charge of killing McClintock."

Mrs. Louise Olson, widow of Dr. Olson, testified that a young woman called at her home after the exhumation of her husband's body, and urged her to leave town, offering to give her expense money.

"I told the woman to get out of my home, and she did," Mrs. Olson said. Judge Olson added to the story of intrigue by expressing his belief that the woman had represented the Jones detective agency on behalf of Shepherd.

If the visit were meant as a threat it had no effect on the quiet little widow, who again emphasized her suspicions of Shepherd on the witness stand.

"My husband seemed to be improving until Shepherd came to visit him," she said. "Then he got worse."

Mary MacSwinney Came Into U. S. Illegally

(By United News Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, May 1.—If Mary MacSwiney, sister of the former lord mayor of Cork, landed in New York, she entered the United States illegally, according to Immigration Commissioner Curran.

"We have absolutely no record of the Irish republican advocate passing through the port of New York," Curran declared late today. "We made our report to Immigration Commissioner General Husband two weeks ago and we can do no more. It is up to the Washington office to find out where she entered. If it was New York, as Miss MacSwiney is reported to have told officials in Chicago, she entered this country illegally."
