SENATORS AND ATHLETICS IN TIE FOR FIRST PLACE AFTER WINNING YESTERDAY; TEAMS SWING CIRCUIT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, May 6.—The first general migration of the baseball season began Wednesday night when the eastern clubs of the American league entrained for the west and the western teams of the National started east for a stand of about 20 days.

The glum and dismal Yanks, who again resemble the Yanks of 1910, are bound for St. Louis, where the clubs have been known to rain soda bottles on them, the Senators are routed for Chicago, the Athletics for Cleveland and the Boston Red Sox for Detroit.

When the Athletics scored four runs in the ninth inning at the stadium in the Bronx today they shoved Babe Ruth's team into eighth and last place, in a tie with the Boston Red Sox, who are regarded as the weakest team in either of the major leagues. It was the fourth time they had whipped the Yanks. It was the Yanks' ninth defeat in 11 games. It was the third time in the last four games with the Athletics that they had lost out in the ninth. And it was their 12th defeat in 17 games of ball since the season began, all of which statistical matter will make a very lugubrious record for Babe Ruth to read as he tries to cheer himself along in his convalescence.

The Tigers beat the Browns 11 to 4 in St. Louis, but the Tigers will have to win many more ball games before they can overcome the loss of 14 which they dropped in their customary spring slump. The Tigers had promised to fight for the pennant this year but the first excursion party from the east finds them in seventh place.

The Athletics go west to defend first place against the Indians. It has been more than 10 years since Connie Mack's team saw first place after the first week of the season but at nightfall today, with 17 games behind them, they were sharing that spot with the Senators, who won from the Red Sox 10 to 8. Walter Johnson did the pitching for Washington and won despite 13 hits by the enemy and three mistakes by his support.

The Indians dropped out of the triple tie for first because they and the White Sox were rained out in Cleveland.

The Yanks have begun to press now in their fight to get out of the slump and in pressing they are playing worse than ever.

There was only one game in the National and Dazzy Vance of the Dodgers, who recently was knocked out of the box, shut out the Braves in Boston, 10 to 0. Vance gave only four hits and struck out 8 men.

Everett Scott Gets Pulled Out of Game After 1307 Straight

NEW YORK, May 6.—Deacon Everett Scott, the New York famous shortstop, broke his long stretch of consecutive games today when he remained out of the line-up for the full nine innings of the Yanks' game with the Athletics at the Bronx stadium. It was the first time since June 20, 1916, when he was with the Boston Red Sox, that Scotty had failed to break into the line-up of the team with which he was allied in a regular championship game. He played 1,307 games without missing and, on the occasion of his 1000th game which happened to be played in Washington he was greeted by President Harding, and presented with a trophy.

Paul Wanninger, a rookie infielder just up from Augusta, Ga., took Scott's place and fielded the post without a mistake.

Scott did not go west with the Yankees when they left for their first western series in St. Louis. He is said to be bitterly disappointed because Miller Huggins would not let him continue in the line-up until definitely disabled or super-annuated. Scott probably will rejoin the Yanks later, but if he does he will first demand a promise that he is to be the regular shortstop and not a sub.

"Trolley wire" as a nickname for Scott was a compliment to his accurate throwing from shortstop to first in the world series between the Red Sox and Dodgers.

"That fellow's throws go straight to the base on a trolley wire," said Wilbert Robinson and the name stuck to Scotty.

Sport Tabloids

PITY POOR TYRUS

DETROIT, May 6.—Pity poor Ty Cobb. In six times up Tuesday all he could do was to get three home runs, a double and two singles! He's slipping fast!

The Tigers and the Browns hooked up in a swatfest at St. Louis and divided 31 hits. Sisler hit safely in his twentieth consecutive game.

Hooper Back Soon

CHICAGO, May 6. — Harry Hooper, veteran White Sox outfielder, hopes to get back in the line-up within the next week or ten days. A clot formed on his right leg when he was hit by a ball and an operation was necessary to remove it.

BABE BETTER

NEW YORK, May 6.—The tobaggoning New York Yanks will be without the service of Babe Ruth for several weeks yet, according to hospital authorities. The Bambino has so far recovered from his illness as to be taking his airing in a wheel chair, but several weeks must elapse before he can leave the hospital.

BIG LEAGUE TRADE

NEW YORK, May 6.—Alex Ferguson, released several years ago to the Boston Red Sox and Bobby Veach, the former Tiger outfielder, reported to the Yanks today just prior to their departure for the west. They came from Boston for "Lefty" Francis and $8,000 in cash.

PESEK WINS

KANSAS CITY, May 6.—John Pesek, the Nebraska heavyweight wrestler took two falls from Pat McGill in the final match of 1925-26 wrestling season tonight. Pesek used the head scissors and double wrist lock in winning the first fall in 42 minutes, 9 seconds. He took the second fall in nine minutes and 50 seconds with a head scissors, and bar arm lock.

Wayne "Big" Munn the Nebraska giant and former world's champion wrestler made his final appearance at the ring side, after recovering from an operation before entraining for his bout with Ed Strangler Lewis in Michigan City, Ind., to be held at the end of the month.

COOPER A CONTENDER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—Mickey Walker made his visit to San Francisco today and brought with him his new manager, Jack Kearns. Kearns gave expression to the observation that "Lefty" Cooper who meets the welterweight champion in a ten round bout here on May 15, was "even more important as a title contender than Dave Shade."

The title will not be involved in the Walker-Cooper fight however as Cooper has agreed to exceed the welterweight limit.

Pelicans Scouting In Portland for a Good Southpaw

There is just one serious problem confronting the Klamath Falls Pelicans. That is the chances for acquisition of a good left hander for hurling duty before May 17.

Manager Fred Glover, taking steps to remedy the team's weakness, yesterday dispatched Ed Clarke and "Red" Watts to Portland to scout around among Portland's best semi-pro teams to find a good southpaw hurler to join the Pelicans. Clarke and Watts have both played ball around the Portland sandlots, and it is believed they will bring home the bacon.

There are Bert Arnold, Hogan and Street—all good right handers, but all right handers won't do. Not for a winning ball club; not for a well balanced ball club. Clarke and Watts have several men they want a line on. Both these men were pitching A-1 ball last season, but pitchers, like prize fighters, have their off seasons. Seeing is believing in the opinion of Glover, who is trusting Watts and Clarke with the mission.

GIBBONS READY TO TRAIN FOR TUNNEY

NEW YORK, May 6.—Accompanied or closely pursued to Mrs. Gibbons and their numerous family of small boys, including the infant twins, Tommy Gibbons will arrive here in a few days to start training for his fight with Gene Tunney, the first high-fever fistic episode of a summer which promises to be a hot one in the ring. Gibbons probably will go to Atlantic City, where there are training facilities and plenty of customers for a training camp spectacle.

HARRY GREB WINS A 12-ROUND DECISION

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 6.—Harry Greb, middleweight champion, won a decision over Billy Britton, of Columbus, Kas., in a 12-round bout here tonight.

The fight was a tedious affair throughout which the fans jibed Greb. Greb opened up in the eleventh round with long wallops at Britton, but closed in ineffectively.

Holland Rejects 1928 Olympic Games There

THE HAGUE, May 6.—Holland has rejected the proposal to hold the 1928 Olympic games at Amsterdam.

Her refusal followed the rejection by the second chamber of the Dutch parliament of the government's bill, proposing a subsidy of 1,000,000 guilders to finance the games.

The subsidy was voted down, 48 to 36, after a turbulent debate.

The guide gives an up-to-the-minute resume of Klamath products and industries also data on the hunting and fishing grounds in such a form as to appeal strongly to auto tourists who are expected to visit here by the thousands this summer.

Besides the printed data the guide carries a number of new and attractive cuts and most important of all a 12x24 map showing every road and highway from Bend in Deschutes county to Redding in northern California, and extending east to Lakeview. The first class macadam roadways are shown in red, and the graded dirt roads with a heavy green line, and the side roads with light green. All possible information for the motorist in the way of camp grounds, oil stations etc., is indicated, also fishing streams and lakes.

The folders will be given out free at the chamber during the summer to every Klamath visitor who applies there.

Cartoon In Portland Papers Descrbes The Rail Stuation Here

Klamath continues to lead the world in advertising. Last night the Oregonian dated Wednesday, May 6th, arrived here carrying a mighty clever cartoon by Tige Reynolds, depicting "The Klamath Falls (railroad) Swimmin' Hole," showing the Oregon Trunk, the S. P. and the Strahorn line as country kids in abbreviated tights making frog dives into the puddle. The U. P. kid, fully dressed and with an expression of dep study on his face is sitting under a tree near by, and old man Oregon is saying to him "Come on in Bud the water's fine." The cartoon is captioned "What's the matter can't he swim?"

This is the second front page cartoon on the Klamath railroad situation carried by the Oregonian during the past six months. The first one showed Miss Klamath Falls giving the glad eye to the engine crews of the three separate roads, captioned "I just adore railroad men."

DAILY PEGS

Written by Westbrook Pegler

There was talk of tapping a tomb somewhere and reserecting a dead one for a million dollar stand against Harry Wills or Tom Gibbons this summer, in view of Jack Dempsey's shy demeanor.

"What about Firpo; can't you drag him back for one more collapse?"

Tex Rickard, who warily steered Luis Angel from the steerage plank of a South American ship to a fortune of half a million, didn't think it could be done now.

"Firpo," said Tex, "never was a ring fighter. He was too stubborn. He wouldn't learn. He whipped a lot of fellows simply because he was bigger and stronger, and whaled away so fast with that big rock of a right fist that they didn't have a chance to measure him. That made him a great show for the people to watch and he was worth all they paid him. He was a great alley fighter, but when he met fellows as strong as himself, who could box a little bit, he was whipped.

"I only wish I could bring him back. I could use another Firpo this summer. I could use Luis if he wasn't so satisfied with himself. But he has been clattering around Europe for months now, and you know the boys who go from New York where it's comparatively dry, to Europe, where it's sopping wet, don't order lemonade when the waiter says: 'Your pleasure, please?'

"I hear Firpo has been spending a lot of money in France, keeping a car and prancing around the swell places. You remember he wasn't exactly a spendthrift around the states. Well, he's losing more than he's spending, because if he had kept fit he might come back this summer and make another fortune without trying. I wouldn't try to use him now, though. It would take him four months to get into shape even if he would train, and he won't."

DEMPSEY SAILS FOR EUROPE ON HONEYMOON; MATRIMONY IS JUST LIKE PUGILISM; KEEP UP GUARD

NEW YORK, May 6.—Matrimony, like pugilism, is a game of give and take, and its principals, like fighters, should protect themselves at all times.

Sailing for Europe with his bride, Estelle Taylor, today on the steamship Berengaria, Jack Dempsey was prevailed upon to give this dictum on the mentality of young people you may be contemplating marriage. It was his first appearance, and probably his last in the role of cupid's kindly counsellor.

"I'll always be boss outside the house," Jack said, with a plausive smile at Estelle. "And she'll be boss inside. But I don't believe in this boss racket in marriage. It's a fifty-fifty proposition, and protect yourself at all times."

Shoving off for a honeymoon, which has received as much publicity as the British empire, Dempsey and his bride seemed likely to enjoy less privacy than a circus giraffe. Although there were several other famous or distinguished persons on the Berengaria, including Miss Doris Keane, the actress, and Georgette Cohan, daughter of George M. Cohan, the honeymoon—Mr. and Mrs. were the cynosure of all interest on board. And the almost funeral interest of European crowds in American movie stars and fight champions is well known.

Dempsey doesn't intend to fight in Europe, but he promised to take a light workout at the expense of one Jeffries, described as an international tub-thumper or sea going card sharp, if he should chance to meet him. Dempsey played cards, to his considerable loss and great chagrin, the last time he crossed the Atlantic, and would like to take up the matter with him.
