Food for thought and discussion and a hot time in the old town—the county budget.

Bayocean got it in the neck last year and the Little Nestuccaites will be the next to get it in the same place if they don't do something to prevent it.

After spending a big wad of money lawing over what was due the contractor for the Sour Grass road the case was compromised. That was should have been done before the law suit was started.

Have you joined the Women's Civic Improvement League? Every lady in the city should affilate with this organization, for there is much to be done along the lines of civic improvement. Ladies, the League needs you and your assistance.

The state has gone dry and we hope the state legislature will impose a fine and jail sentence on boot leggers. There are going to be a whole lot of persons who will become bootleggers, and one way to put a stop to it will be a severe penalty. The legislature can't make it too severe, as far as we are concerned.

Congressman Hawley made another remarkable race for re-election, obtaining a majority of 20,000 over his opponent. Two years ago, so we are informed, between $11,000 and $15,000 was expended to elect his opponent, and we are wondering if Weatherford and his friends dropped a big wad on a loosing race?

The Kaiser is going to devote his energies to a world wide peace after the war,. He should have thought of that before he undertook to whip France in a few weeks so as to devote his attention to Russia. He didn't have his Christmas dinner in Paris in 1914 as he predicted, so it is plainly seen that events since that date have entirely changed his mind about a world conquest to one of universal peace.

Some persons circulated a report that if S. G. Reed was elected county commissioner he would build a bridge across the Nehalem river at Wheeler, and that was the reason they opposed him. If people would stop and think for a few moments they would soon see how foolish it was to believe such reports. Before a bridge can be built across the Nehalem at Wheeler the cost must be first inculded in the county budget.

The timber owners of this county were exceedingly anxious that Hughes should be elected, and, no doubt, it is a bitter disappointment to them that he was not. With millions of dollars invested in timber they are in bad luck and will be as long as timber is on the free list. The result of the election will have this effect in Tillamook county. Very little development will take place in the lumber industry, and its a back set for another four years.

From what we could gather, the business men of Portland were in favor of the election of Hughes and the yellow journals, which they have been supporting, were for Wilson. We take it that the business men knew what was best for Portland and the state of Oregon when they favored the Republican nominee, and it must have been a bitter pill that they have had to swallow in seeing the yellow journals of Portland supporting the free trade party.

It is not proper for the snap shot man to butt in and say who the officers elected shall have for their deputies, but as Erwin Harrison has requested that those aspiring to be deputies in the clerk's office make application for the same, we are inclined to think that he will have a hard job to find persons more competent and efficient than the two deputies in the clerk's office. We believe he would be using good judgment in retaining them.

The dairymen of the Little Nestucca valley were fighting mad when they were shown the circular petition, accompanied which was a map, cutting off that part of the county from becoming a part of the highway through the county. Don't get excited gentlemen, the Dougal-Dougally Do man, who does not pay a cent of taxes in this county, has put something over on you and some of those who signed the petition. And it looks as if it was a scneme to do to the Little Nestucca valley what was done to Bayocean last year. What's the trouble anyway? The dairymen of the Little Nestucca valley don't seem to like Dougal-Dougally-Do-ism.

It is no use to disguise the fact that union labor was lined up for Wilson in the recent election, and the labor unions can claim that they elected him. Never before in a presidential election have organized labor lined up with one candidate, and the man who is responsible for swinging the labor vote was Gompers. Take the vote in the large labor centers and one can see at a glance that it was the labor vote that gave Wilson majorities over Hughes in what used to be Republican cities. Having been so successful at the recent election, there is no doubt whatever that labor organizations will be lined up again in future presidential elections.

Next Tuesday a special election is called to submit the question of the enlargement of the Port of Tillamook It was the Port that initiated the election, and to its honor it has carried on a clean campaign, attempting to show the voters the benefits that will accrue to the central part of the county by having a deep channel. We are well aware that quite a number of people are opposed to the enlargement on account of an increase in taxation, but on the other hand a great deal of money would be saved to those who have to buy hay and feed. The high price of hay last winter was a serious matter, and we hope that the dairymen will weigh and consider what a benefit it will be to them in the way of procuring cheaper feed. The little extra in taxation would be nothing in comparison. If it is voted down on Tuesday, it will only be a matter of a few years before the whole water shed of Tillamook Bay will be in a Port, and as the present Port can only levy two mills and there are no provisions for bonding, is it better for this vicinity to get into the present port or wait and be taken into a port that can levy taxes up to 10 per cent? The matter has been placed intelligently before the voters by the Port Commission, and it is for the people to decide.

We are in hearty accord with the idea of putting as much money as possible into hard surfaced roads, but we believe that all present road projects should be completed as quickly as possible and no new costly road projects started. After that is done then the county would be in better shape to apply the bulk of the road money to hard surfacing. Another thing it is costing Clackamas County one half the money to hard surface its roads to what it is costing Tillamook County.. There are three roads that should be completed—the Garibaldi-Wheeler road, Bayocean, and Little Nestucca, and the people want and demand their completion. A circular petition is being sent out asking that the county court construct seven miles of hard surfaced road next year. Suppose that $175,000 is raised for road work next year, it would take $112,000 for seven miles of hard surfaced road, for it cost the county about $16,000 for the last mile of concrete pavement. This would leave $21,000 each for three road districts. We believe that $60,000 should be used for the Garibaldi-Wheeler, Bayocean and Little Nestucca roads, which would leave practically nothing for the other work. We still adhere to what we have advocated so many times—complete present road projects as quickly as possible. We do not like the idea of outsiders coming into the county and putting stumbling blocks in the way of road improvements, as was done with Bayocean last year at the budget meeting, especially when a locality is without a road, and from the way things look there is a scheme to sidetrack the completion of the roads we have mentioned for hard surfacing. If those who are sending out the circular-petitions are so insistent upon hard surfacing and want to take money from other projects, why not bond the county for $450,000 and lets hard-surface as much of the highway through the county as possible? We do not advocate bonding the county, if it can be avoided, and we believe it can be if outsiders are not permitted to butt in and oppose certain road improvements.

Charles M. Schwab, of Bethlehem steel fame, has written an article for the November American Magazine in which he tells some of his opinions of college graduates. He says: "The college man who thinks greater learning gives him the privilege of working less hard than the man without such an education is going to wake up in disaster. I regret that some college men enter industry with an inflated notion of their own value. They want to capitalize at once their education, and the time they spent getting it. They feel it is unfair to begin at the bottom on the same basis with a boy of seventeen or eighteen who has never been to college, entering industry, is worth no more to his employer than a common-school or high-school boy, unless he happens to be taking up some position in which higher education is directly applied. Even then he has to adjust himself. Neither knowledge of the classics nor mathematical proficiency can be converted over night into a marketable commodity. Higher education has its chance later, when the college boy has mastered all the minor details of the business. Then if he went to college with serious purpose, and studied hard and systematically, he has the advantage of a thoroughly trained mind to tackle larger problems, a mind which should be broarder and more flexible because of its greater powers of imagination and logical reasoning."

BEAVER ITEMS.

The High School boys of Beaver are circulating a petition to get money to build a play shed. Part of the money which was made at the basket social will be used to frame the pictures for the high school, and what is left will be used to help build the play shed. All friends of the pupils are asked to help with a subscription for the shed.

Last Friday night the people of Beaver met at the high school building and organized a Literary Society. There was a good attendance and officers elected were as follows: For president, Forest Ayers; vice-president, Ruby Johnson; secretary and treasurer, Miss Gladys Bradley. The next meeting will be held the 24th of November in the schoolhouse. A program is to be given and everybody is invited to attend.

CRUISE ON WAR TANK DESCRIBED BY CREW.

Bullets Sound Like Rain Upon Tin Roof—Make no Impression.

A Young Austrailian soldier, wounded as serving as one of the crew in a "tank" has given the world the first real story of what happens when this newest engine of war goes into action. His diary of a week's work in an armored juggernaut follows:

Monday—Out for the first time. Strange sensation. Bullets rained like hail on a galvanized roof. Suddenly gave a terrible lurch. Looking outside we were astride an enemy trench. "Giv 'em hell" was the order. We did. The frightened Germans ran like rabbits, but were shot down in bunches. Machine guns started vicious rattle on our"hide". Not the least impression. Moved on, and caught another German detachment. Cut their ranks to ribbons. Prisoners were curious, stared at us wide-eyed. First day's experience not pleasant. "Tank" sickness is as bad as sea sickness.

Tuesday—Off for another cruise. Peppering began at once. Thought the old tank was going to drown in the shower of bullets. Silly brighters thought they could rush the tank like a fort. We fired at the point blank. We spat at them venemously. The blessed old tub gave a lurch. I thought it was goodbye to earth. It was only some German dead and wounded we skidded into. Rain of bullets sounded like hundreds of rivets being driven into the tank's hide. We got to like the regular rhythm of it. Heavier strummings on our keyboard. Machine gun at it. There was a tremendous thud along about this time. Whole outfit thought we were done for. Only some unwonted obstacles along an enemy parapet. Some Huns tried the rushing dodge. Their rushing days are over.

Wednesday—Early start. Roughest voyage yet. Waves of fire seemed to break over us. Party of Germans came to meet us outside the trenches. Thought it was the mayor and village notables coming to give us a warm welcome. Mistaken. Then they tried boarding tactics. We laughed. Tank reception party dispersed in cloud of smoke. Only remaining member fat old gentleman threw himself down before us with many signs of submission.

Thursday—Passed down village street of wrecked houses. Huns rushed out of cellers and dug outs. One bighter rushed at us with clubbed rifle. Made terrible swipe at tank. Hurt himself more than us. Had nice joy ride after a bevy of fleeing Germans. All fat men.

Friday—Early afloat. Usual shower of bullets. Got right across a trench. Enemy tried to run but couldn't, threw up sponge. One cheeky chap said he didn't think it was fair to use such fighting machines. We asked him if he thought we ought to get the kaiser's permission to use the tanks. Didn't see the joke. Took about 200 prisoners. Killed and wounded as many more. Tired out.

Saturday—Out before breakfast. Terrible crash first thing. Thought we had encountered wandering world. Weathered storm. Rare sport. Enemy preparing for surprise attack. Our surprise come first. We waddled into their ambush. Never saw men so frightened. Only few chaps staying behind. Went snorting after them whenever we could find them. Later strong detachments tried to make their way back. We lined up across road, gave them hot time. Every time they tried to push we ripped their ranks to bits. They finally gave up.

Sunday—Frightening Germans continued. Ladled out death as you might vamp out music from a hurdgurdy. Fritz got fits. No fight left in him. Prisoners scared to death. Some of them acted as though they believed we used our tanks for making sausage out of prisoners.

HEAR WITHOUT EARS.

Police and Detectives Are Using Lip Reading in Place of the Dictagraph.

Thousands of deaf people are today throwing away all hearing devices and enjoying all conversation. This method is easily and quickly acquired through our system. Absolutely the only thing of its kind in the country. Our proposition is entirely original. Cost is trifling. See what New International Encyclopaedia says on Lip Reading. Hundreds of people with normal hearing are taking up Lip reading for the many additional benefits gained. You can understand what the actors are saying just as far away as you can see them. The eye understands beyond the range of hearing. Send no money, but mention this paper and state whether or not you are deaf. All particulars will be sent you absolutely free and with no expense to you. Address, School of Lip Language, Kansas City, Missouri.
