SICK WIFE'S STORY SURPRISES TILLAMOOK

The following has surprised Tillamook: A business man's wife suffered from dyspepsia and constipation for years. Although she dieted she was so bloated her clothes would not fit. ONE SPOONFUL buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka relieved her INSTANTLY Because Adler-i-ka empties BOTH large and small intestines it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICKEST action of anything we ever sold. J. S. Lamar, druggist.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Muccous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A SUNDAY LAW.

Civil or Religious—Which?

Certain of our citizens in Tillamook are clamoring for a municipal Sunday law. When you remind them that this government of the United States is founded upon the principle of a separation of church and state, and religious liberty for all, and that we are bound by the constitution to make no laws establishing religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, then some begin to say that a Sunday law is not religious.

But why is it then that it is mostly religious people who are working for this law? And they declared repeatedly, "We must get protection for our Sabbath."

Now, earthly governments have their legitimate place. Without them, there would be anarchy and confusion They are ordained of God to guard our civil rights, to protect our lives and property. In civil matters, the government has jurisdiction. If we steal or defraud, or if we kill, defame, or otherwise injure another, we may be made to suffer for it;but that is as far as the authority of the government can rightfully go.

We may work upon the Sabbath, worship idols, or take the name of the Lord in vain, and the government has no right to punish us for doing so. These things may be wrong, but in doing them we are not injuring our neighbor, and are accountable only to God. And since God does not force us to do as he knows we ought to do, why should some men be so anxious to compel us to do as they think we should do?

Christians profess to believe that Christ is the head of the universe. Then why should they try to usurp his place, and dictate to their neighbors what they must and must not do in matters of religion? He has not given us authority to compel others to obey him.

The enforcement of religious laws always leads to persecution. All through the ages, persecution has been waged from time to time. Strange to say, it is always done in the name of religion, and has been accomplished through the church controlling the state. At times, the religious persecutors have been pagans, and in other pages the professed Christians have waged the bitterest persecution.

When Christ came to this earth to work out man's salvation, he was persecuted and finally put to death at the instigation of the leading religionists of that day.

The first settlers of America came seeking a land where they would be free to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience. A few years later, they were not willing to allow others the same liberty. Witches were drowned, dissenters banished, and violators of their Sunday laws were punished in various ways. These laws were so strict that they forbid a man kissing his wife on Sunday.

When it was seen that persecution and trouble resulted from the government meddling with religion, the framers of our constitution decided that Congress should make no laws to establish any religion, and declared that a man is accountable to God alone for his religious belief. If we pass a Sunday law, we are simply taking a step backward toward religious tyranny.

Now, people are free to rest on Sunday, if they so wish. Will it make them any better to compel them to rest, if they do not care to? And do the voters of Tillamook City want to send a man to jail because he works on Sunday? If so, why?

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

By R. C. Jones, County Agricultrist.

Big Guernsey Meeting.

At the last meeting of the Tillamook County Guernsey Club another meeting was called for Saturday, March 17th, at 1 o'clock at the court house. Everyone interested in the breed is invited to come. It is rumored that something will be opened at this meeting. Come and see what it is to be. Correspondence is at hand from several sources listing good Guernsey stock for sale. The meeting will be worth while. Don't fail to attend.

What is Your Community Doing?

Every community should center on producing at least one thing of high quality and considerable quantity. We are doing this with cheese, why not do the same with stock? In this way we will become advertised to the world, and this will bring us all the buyers we need.

The Percheron horse had its origin in just this manner in the little center of La Perche, France. The dairy breeds of cattle were also developed in small communities. Let's center on one or two breeds and make Tillamook cattle as famous as Tillamook cheese. Every wide awake dairyman should strive to line his community up with one breed. Join the breed association and get the help of others interested in the same thing. It will be a question of which group of breeders is most active that will decide what breed is to predominate in the county ten years from now. There is more difference in individuals within the breed than there is in the breed. If you are anxious to have your breed gain the ascendency you should line up with the Cow Testing Associations and Bull Associations and do all in your power to get the best individuals for your breed. This will advertise the breed in the community as nothing else can possibly do. It is up to you breeders to make your breed so popular and profitable here that all the rest will want it. Get busy.

Cleaning Aluminum.

Discolored aluminum kettles may be made clean by the following procedures.

Scouring is best unless the utensil is badly discolored. First free the kettle from all adhering food and wash in hot water with a mild soap. Scrape with a wooden spoon (metal spoons will scratch the soft surface off aluminum ware). The scouring preparation chosen should not contain hard, sharp particles of grit which will scratch the surface. The grit should be fine or else compound of rounded grains. A moist, soapy cloth, or steel wool, may be dipped into the scouring material and rubbed on the metal. Most of the commercial scouring pastes and powders on the market are satisfactory.

A mixture of equal parts, by volume of powdered whiting and alcohol with the addition of a few drops of amonia, is sometimes used for polishing aluminum that is not badly discolored.

Stronk alkali should never be used in cleaning aluminum because it attacks and dissolves the metal. Such household alkalies are washing soda, potash, lye, or even strongly alkaline soap, should be avoided.

The action of acids on aluminum, such as dilute vinegar, friut juice, or sour milk, on the other hand, is very slight, although it may result in the pitting of the surface if long continued. This action of acids may be taken advantage of, however, in the cleaning of aluminum. No acid which is poison us has a place in the kitchen and nothing of the sort should ever be used. There are, however, a number of acid solutions available, especially those occurring in many fruits or vegetables, such as rhubarb (either fresh or canned), apples or tomatoes. Cut the fruit up finely and boil with a small amount of water untill the kettle is clean. The fruit so used must, of course, be thrown away. After a kettle has been cleaned in this way it should be polished to remove any particles of metal or metallic compounds, and to secure a bright, clean surface, for this is less easily attacked chemically and so stains less easily than a rough surface.

ECONOMY TO BE POLICY.

State Partitioned; Commission to See Projects; Economy and Efficiency To Govern.

The policy formulated by the new State Hignway Commission it its first meeting in Salem Tuesday was to get close to the people's wishes and to exercise economy and efficiency in all its business.

The plan to divide the state into districts, each commissioner being delegated to the work of a district was suggested by W. L. Thomson of Pendleton and adopted. Petitions for allotments of funds, or for assistance on road work, will be sent into the highway department offices at Salem and the secretary of the board is to notify each commissioner as to the requests from his particular section. The commissioner will arrange for a meeting with the people of the district affected, examine the project, hold a hearing and otherwise secure all the information and data available.

The board as a whole will then examine the respective merits of the projects, classify them as to their importance, their relation to market town possibilities, population and other essential features and the work will be given preference upon such a basis.

It was tentatively decided that no individual allotments would be made until all of the applications have been passed upon. This will assure an equitable division of the highway fund, distributed in as many sections of the state as it is possible for it to reach, upon a basis of serving the greatest number of people possible and upon the basis of doing the greatest amount of good with all the money that is available for road work.

All commissioners agreed that the nearer to the public the commission may get the more satisfactory will be the work, the better the results, and the less friction and disturbance relative to the distribution of the funds available.

"It is essential that in reaching out to the people we come to an understanding that it will be the hope of the commission to give the greatest service along the lines of the greatest population," declared chairman Benson. "I am satisfied that if we may meet with the people in the manner proposed and take them into our confidence as to just what we can do, what obstacles we have to surmount, and show them that in some instances patience is the greatest requisite in procuring state assistance in road construction, we will be able to accomplish excellent results in a satisfactory manner."

The commissioners, under the plan which was adopted of dividing the state into districts for the purpose of visiting each section where there is desire for allotment of moneys, divided the state as follows; Commissioner Benson to have Lincoln, Polk, Tillamook, Yamhill, Washington, Clatsop Columbia, Multnomah, Clackamas, Hood River and Wasco counties; Commissioner Thompson all of eastern Oregon except Klamath, Hood River and Wasco; Commissioner Adams all of Western Oregon except those counties allotted to Commissioner Benson, and also to have Klamath county.

The commission reached no decision as to the selection of a highway engineer. Many applications have been received both from within and without the state, but no hasty action will be taken.

The commission will hold regular monthly meetings on the first Tuesday after the first Saturday of each month. The next meeting will probably be called by Chairman Benson to be held in Portland within the next two weeks to take up with government representatives the matter of co-operation with the government under the Shackelford act.
