Dr. Lane Makes Suggestion in Address Before Funeral Directors' Convention—Delegates Oppose Undignified Advertising.

At the afternoon session of the third annual convention of the Oregon State Funeral Directors' Association, held yesterday in the Knights of Pythias Hall, a resolution was passed which had for its object the election of a delegate to attend the coming convention of the State Medical Association to be held at Seaside.

The resolution was the outcome of an address delivered by Mayor Lane, who is a physician, before the Funeral Directors' Association, in which he pointed out the necessity for a better understanding between the funeral directors and members of the medical profession, and suggested that the convention elect a delegate to attend the convention of the State Medical Association, to take up for discussion with that body matters which affect both professions.

Dr. Lane's suggestion was favorably received and when the subject was introduced toward the close of the session aroused considerable discussion. The resolution which was passed provides that the new president to be elected at tomorrow's session shall represent the Funeral Directors' Association at the convention of the Medical Association.

Rev. J. R. N. Bell, of Walls, Walla, who was to have addressed the convention, was unable to reach the city in time. The paper of W. J. Cookery, of Walls Walla, was not read for the same reason.

J. P. Finley, of Portland, read a paper in which he emphasized the necessity of keeping the profession at the highest point of efficiency and to create and maintain a closer and better relationship with the medical profession. Mr. Finley's suggestions were listened to with close attention.

E. S. Hennessey, of Walls Walla, gave a short talk in which he outlined a plan of establishing a bureau for the purpose of keeping records of deceased persons whose antecedents are unknown. He referred to the advantage to be derived from this plan in the settlement of estates and furnishing of information to surviving relatives.

Such of the morning session was taken up with a discussion of the matter of advertising, and the members unanimously concurred in the opinion that displays of any sort calculated to attract attention to their calling are out of place and unprofessional. This discussion was precipitated by the badges worn by the delegates. E. Grison, president of the board, said he was sorry that the board had not known of the sentiment entertained by the members before the badges were ordered. Mr. Rader hastened to assure him that everybody was pleased with the badges, were glad they had been made, and wanted to wear them during the sessions.

Many others took occasion to remove any wrong impression gathered by members of the board, and on motion of Mr. Dunning, a resolution was adopted thanking the directors for preparing the badges and instructing the secretary to see that one was sent to every absent member of the association, to be preserved as a souvenir.

The convention will be in session today and tomorrow, both morning and afternoon, in Knights of Pythias Hall. Yesterday morning's session was largely informal and preliminary to the real work of the convention. The meeting was called to order by President S. N. Wilkins, of Corvallis. The election of officers will be held tomorrow morning.

The afternoon session will be the final one, will consist of examinations for state license at 4 P. M., in Knights of Pythias Hall. An entertainment program will be given, a banquet will be given tomorrow night.
