Our Weekly Portland Letter

Oregon Almanac is Used as a Textbook. Dairy Industry to be Encouraged in Ontario District.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 25 (Special)—The Oregon Almanac, issued by the State Immigration Commission, is in demand by schools and colleges where it is used as a textbook, which is helping along the know-your-state movement. The almanac, of which an edition of 380,000 was printed, is filled with data carefully gathered and compiled and is, in substance an admirable encyclopedia on Oregon. The book is being distributed to inquirers in all parts of the country from the Portland Headquarters of the Oregon Development League and copies will be sent, without charge, to any state schools desiring them for use in educational work.

During the coming year the book will be completely revised and enlarged and letters are now being sent out to county assessors in order to get accurate statistics on land classification in the various parts of the state, in order that reliable figures may be printed as to the extent of land timbered, tillable, untillable, etc.

The Ontario district hopes to make that one of the best dairy sections in Oregon. Heretofore, the chief emphasis has been placed on the possibilities of fruit growing and a big apple district has been built up. Hereafter, the chief effort will be to attract dairymen and to induce local farmers to keep herds of milk cows. Letters were sent to 50,000 dairymen throughout the country, to 2,000 agricultural college students and to 2,000 butter makers telling of the advantages offered to dairymen by Ontario and the surrounding country.

School children of the state are signing petitions sent out by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction asking that the famous battleship Oregon be placed at the head of the opening naval parade through the Panama Canal. After being signed by all the school children of the state, the petition will be returned to Salem and forwarded to President and Congress early in the Spring.

That Oregon can grow splendid corn, ranking well with the best corn states of the Union, is the statement of C. L. Smith, agriculturist for the O—W. R. & N. Company, who is arranging a corn show to be held next fall at Pendleton. This will be open to corn exhibits by farmers in every part of Oregon and another show will be held at Colfax, Washington, for the farmers of that state. "Farmer" Smith declares that the average corn crop per acre in Oregon is larger than in Iowa, that corn is a plant that will adapt itself to almost any climate and should be made one of the chief items of agricultural production here.

A use for hop vines left in the field after the crop is picked has been found by an experimenter at Tacoma, Wash. He proposes to utilize the fibre in much the same way that flax is used. A chemical is used to dissolve the vegetable matter that encloses the fibre and the latter is then ready to be dried, carded, spun and made into cloth. Practically the same treatment and machinery can be used as in flax manufacture.

A Shetland pony will be an attractive prize in the juvenile industrial contest to be held at the State Fair this year. It will be awarded to the boy or girl making the best exhibit of livestock and is offered by the Portland Union Stockyards Company. The exhibit must consist of at least one sow, or pen, of chickens or ducks, two pigs and a sheep. There will be many other prizes for which the young farmers may compete.

NEW DEPOT NOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

It seems mighty good to Tillamookers to see the new depot at last under construction. A week or more ago the railway people got busy and did some excavating with the aid of a steam shovel and some eight teams belonging to the Warren Construction Company, and now the ground is ready for the carpenters, who have begun their work.

The railway company will build the depot and the company's carpenter Thos. Herd is now on the job with four men. He expects, however, that ten more men will be added to his force today or tomorrow.

All the material for the new depot is now on hand and Mr. Herd expects to have the building completed by May 1. The main building of the new depot will be 25x112 feet, with two platforms, one platform being 8x25 feet and the other 36x25 feet.

The P. R. & N. began running trains in here one year ago last October and up to this time the people have been put to considerable inconvenience because of there being no depot. We are going to have a good depot and we will certainly appreciate it.

NEHALEM NEWS.

From Enterprise:

Custom Inspector F. L. Parker and Joe. Johnson of Astoria came in Monday to inspect the bark Mimi on the Nehalem Beach in order to prevent any dutiable goods from being carried ashore. They left the following day.

B. A. Todd is about to let a contract for the clearing of 15 acres of land on his farm on the North Fork to the Stasick Bros. who are engaged in clearing land for E. K. Scovell, when they finish their present contract.

The Mohler Cheese Factory will start up about March 1st, according to present plans. Hugh Barber has been retained as cheese maker for the coming season having given entire satisfaction in that capacity during the past both to employer and patrons as well.

Sam Lundberg has completed the excavation for the new building which he is building in Wheeler. He is building along practically the same plans as the new building which Alex Anderson Jr. is just completing in Wheeler. These two buildings are each 30 by 60 feet and two story and well built and are a credit to the new town of Wheeler.

Mr. George Rosenhall, one of the men who came to Wheeler from Lynden Washington, with Mr. Jensen, has purchased two lots in Wheeler and will immediately start to clear the same and will erect a bungalow.

A subscription list is being circulated in Wheeler with the idea of raising sufficient funds with which to erect a church building. A location for the church has been donated and it is probable that construction will start within a short time.

A Board of Underwriters consisting of E. C. Generaux of Seattle, surveyor on the Puget Sound for the San Francisco Board of Marine Underwriters, and Captain Albert Crowe of Portland who represents Oregon territory in the same capacity accompanied by Captain Westfall, came in Tuesday from Portland to inspect the Mimi and ascertain the possibility of getting her off the beach.

They arrived at Wheeler at 3:30 and immediately boarded a launch which took them down the bay. The party left the stranded vessel in short order and after a thorough inspection decided that she could be taken off safely.

The plan recommended by Captains Generaux and Crow is to put out two mushroom anchors 4000 feet from shore to which will be fastened two two-inch steel cables from the vessel. Two donkey engines will pull on these cables and a sufficient strain will be maintained to keep them perfectly taut at all times which will have a tendency to keep the vessel outward from the beach. In this manner it is believed that the vessel will come off easily.

Tugs will also stand ready to render any assistance that may be necessary. Arrangements having already been made with the Port of Portland and Puget Sound Towing Co., of Seattle for the use of the tugs.

It will require five days time before anything will be done, however, as the owners of the vessel at Hamburg, Germany must be notified before the Underwriters have the authority to act.
