Eagle Items Of Past Years

ONE YEAR AGO—

Nineteen ranchers with property bordering that portion of the "Big Burn" territory of which the Deer and Crooked creek water sheds are a part met to organize a grazing association for the purpose of leasing pasture land from Columbia county.

The Vernonia Bargain Store owned by Joe Hursh was being moved to a new location one door east of the old location.

FIVE YEARS AGO—

Alterations were being made in the rear of Mac's Pharmacy.

The Vernonia baseball team was granted a franchise in the Tualatin Valley league at a managers' meeting in Forest Grove.

The high school teachers were all reelected at a meeting of the directors of V. H. S. district 1.

TEN YEARS AGO—

Wallace brothers of Clatskanie, who were the successful bidders for building the new Early building, which will be the home of Vernonia's new postoffice started construction on the building this week.

After practicing one week, many of the younger generation appeared on the screen Tuesday and Wednesday evening at the Joy Theatre in a series of screen tests made by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Carde of Spokane.

Leland Tate of Portland, lease manager for the MacMarr company gave out the information Tuesday that his company has leased the store space in the White building, which was formerly occupied by M. Murray and Company. The MacMarr company will install a market and grocery department to open by March 1.

"BLONDIE" IS HAILED FOR NEW COMEDY—

With Blondie engrossed in the theories of child training; Dagwood trying to dispose of an apartment house so uniquely designed that nobody wants it; Baby Dumpling adjusting himself to school routine, and Daisy, the dog, unaccountably disappeared, "Blondie Brings Up Baby" comes to the Joy Theatre with more than the usual hectic hilarity of the Bumstead series of sensational film comedies. According to advance report, "Blondie Brings Up Baby" is filled with more refreshing humor and cyclonic action than even its brilliant successful predecessors.

Those who have seen this feature hail it as a worthy successor to "Blondie," "Blondie Meets the Boss" and "Blondiie Takes a Vacation," the trio of highly-praised comedies Columbia has launched upon the foundation of Chic Young's popular cartoon strip.

"Blondie Brings Up Baby" again brings Penny Singleton to the screen as Blondie; Arthur Lake as Dagwood; Larry Simms as Baby Dumpling and Daisy, the inimitable dog, as Daisy.
