SUNSET VALLEY, Sept. 29—Reverend Joe Dodson sustained an arm fracture and bad bruises on the chest and body Monday when working on his car. With one wheel of the car jacked up, Dodson was installing a new brake lining. The jacks and props slipped, allowing the car to fall, pinning Dodson, who evidently was unconscious for a short time, but later called for help. Mrs. Dodson and Frances Land come immediately to his assistance.

Due to Reverend Dodson's injuries the baptism services that had been planned will be postponed for an indefinite period.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reffett, Mrs. Blanch Hite of Nyssa, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hite and sons of Haines, Oregon arrived home Wednesday from a three weeks vacation, including fishing in Yellowstone park, Montana and Canadian streams, and hunting in the Copperstein mountains in Canada. A snowfall of eight inches covered the Banff and Lake Louise area. Leaving the Kootenai National forest, the group went on to Wapta falls in the Yoho National forest of British Columbia. Here the lake trout were plentiful. Leaving Mrs. Reffett and Mrs. Blanche Hite and young Loren, Jr., at the lodge, the rest of the party packed up the Spillimacheen river into the Copperstein mountains, coming out on the fifth day with an elk and a moose.

To hunters Canada is a paradise, as game is plentiful. The hunters were able to pass up group after group and selecting only the most desirable animals.

The moose season in the area is from September 15 to October 31. The Canadian and Alaskan law requires a first class guide with each party. Expenses can mount. First there is the big game license, then $25 to $50 per day per man for the required guide, although this does include horses, food and equipment. Then there is the trophy fees, which range from $5 for a bear, $15 for a goat, and on up to $60 for a moose.

Reffett also told of the law permitting one to kill enough "fool" birds per day for food. These fool birds are between the size of a partridge and a pheasant. Then one beats the bushes with a stick, the "fool' birds come out to meet death. Instead of wisely hiding and fleeing they are "fools" enough that they never learn.

Mrs. Paul Bergam and baby son, Dean Stuart, visited and rested two days at the home of Mrs. Bergam's mother, Mrs. Rob Thompson, and arrived home Sunday.

New automobiles are noticeable in the valley. Okanos have a new Chevrolet, Chester Bowns a new Buick and Magnus Ekanger a Ford.
