SATURDAY ..... JUNE 15, 1889

A Revolting Discovery.

Last evening a JOURNAL reporter discovered the decomposing remains of what had once been full of life and vigor. The scene almost prostrated him, but he nerved himself for the awful revelations that were so soon to follow. In crossing the south mill race he saw what appeared to be the body of an infant floating in the swiftly hurrying eddy. Running along the bank of the race he tried with a long pole to catch the body but was unsuccessful until it lodged against a grating which holds back all drift. Carefully, assisted by a long forked stick, he recovered the bloated body of the dead infant from its watery grave, when the ghastly discovery was made that the corpse was that of a tiny little pig, from which the hair had slipped, leaving a smooth and human-like flesh exposed to view.

Something About Hops.

Hop buyers are now circulating among the hop raisers of the valley trying to contract for the 1889 crop at 13½ cents. As a result the growers are at a loss to know what to do. Frosts are reported to have injured New York crops and every indication points to the heaviest crop the Pacific coast has ever known. The demoralization of prices of last year's hops makes the question a studied one for owners of big hop yards. One thing is certain, and that is that there will be an immense output of hops in Oregon and Washington this year, as the acreage is much larger than in previous years.

Back From Silverton.

Gen. W. H. Odell, one of the incorporators of the new Salem and Silverton motor line, arrived in the city yesterday after a trip to Silverton. During his absence he passed over the projected route and looked up the right of way and talked at considerable length with the citizens of Silverton concerning the proposed enterprise. They express themselves as in hearty sympathy with the movement and will leave no stone unturned to effect a consummation of the scheme.

He Sent Them East.

Yesterday a gentleman from Ohio was busily engaged in packing a quantity of Royal Anne cherries for shipment to his native state. He selected choice fruit and packed it in cotton for shipment by express. He said they were decidedly the finest cherries he had ever seen, and was sure his friends in the Buckeye state would open their eyes in amazement at the sight of them.

It Grows in Interest.

"Mr. Holden's Narrative" continues to grow in interest as one chapter succeeds another. He is now among the savages, as the fourth chapter published to-day, will show. Those who are not reading this narrative of truths are missing a rich treat. Mr. Holden's life is one continued miracle, but he is still preserved to narrate the history of his escapes and adventures to JOUNAL reporters.

The Wool Market.

The wool buyers in Salem are now paying twenty cents for a good quality of wool. Lower grades bring eighteen cents. There is quite a strife among the buyers and for that reason the market continues good. Considerable fleece is coming in at the present prices and the wool generally is first class and in good condition.

Campmeeting at Turner.

Salem is going to turn out en masse to the Turner campmeeting which has already commenced and will continue over three Sundays. A good crowd will go down to-morrow and not a few will stay over a few days. A pleasant time will be had and the meetings promise to be productive of much good.

A Day on the Water.

To-morrow morning the excursion leaves Albany for Yaquina bay. The special train will return in the evening, after having permitted its passengers to spend six hours on the sea. Those who go from here—of whom there will be several—can return home on the overland Monday morning.

Who? How? Where? When?

Salem is to have a democratic newspaper; it will start about July 1st.—Several exchanges.

SOME MORE RAILROAD RUMORS.

Oregon Pacific Surveyors in Salem Looking Up an Extension to this City.

Mr. Cooper, of the Oregon Pacific surveying corps, arrived down on the train this afternoon. He comes looking up a projected extension of the lines of the Oregon Pacific from a point near Scio to Salem. He is being shown over the city and introduced by Mr. Brink, a heavy contractor on the Oregon Pacific.

The proposed route would leave the main lines of the Oregon Pacific at Scio Junction, following a northwesterly course until the valley of the Willamette should be reached. This would be followed, as close to the river as practicable, until Salem was reached. The road will enter this city from the south.

There is strong talk of such an extension, as the route would be one easy of construction and quite practicable withal. There are no heavy grades, but on the contrary a gradual and easy ascent. Such a line would be of vast benefit to the Santiam country as well as to the valley. The freight traffic would be simply immense.

Circuit Court Proceedings.

The grand jury report four not true bills as follows, to wit:

State vs Geo Stewart, larceny from dwelling.

State vs W. B. Poyser, larceny by bailee.

State vs H. E. Rees, rape.

State vs A. J. Horgan, uttering a forged writing.

Florence E. McCoy vs plaintiff, James X. Smith et ux. Deft's, motion to strike out complaints and cross bill, overruled.

Daniel Durbin vs. plaintiff, vs. C. C. Kuney and R. W. Sayres, deft's. Motion to make answer more specific, overruled.

Jury excused until Monday at one o'clock.

State vs. W. E. Hawking, indicted for the murder of H. F. Ogle. Pleads not guilty.

State vs. Willis Jordan. Arraigned and given until Monday at one o'clock to plead.

State vs. Gorman. Fined $100.

State vs. Hawkins. Continuance asked and decision will be rendered Monday whether or not the continuance will be granted.

The prosecution in this case will be conducted by Hewitt, Bingham and Williams. The defense will be represented by Kaiser, Ford, Hayden and Holmes.

Run Over a Colt.

A colt belonging to D. H. Miller was run over this morning by Wm. Rennie's express wagon. Mr. Rennie was going west and Mr. Miller was going east on State street and the colt came between them and was struck by the hind wheels of the former's express wagon, which hurt its back so it may have to be killed, as it cannot stand up. The colt was valued at $50 and is a great loss to Mr. Miller as he is an immigrant and has just purchased a home. The old gentleman takes the loss very hard and when he told the reporter about it tears came to his eyes.

An Insane Fireman.

William E. Torpey, a Portland fireman, was adjudged insane yesterday and committed to the asylum for the insane. He has been acting queerly for some time. The other day he went to a dentist and had a number of teeth pulled and insisted on having them replaced. He would not leave the office and was arrested.

An Indian Prisoner.

Liberty, an Indian who gave liquor to his fellows, was brought to the penitentiary yesterday, sentenced to a term of one year. This Indian brave gave whisky to a fellow savage, who in his wild delirium of intoxication, murdered a woman.

Back Here to Live.

W. W. Brooks of Independence, but formerly of Salem, will arrive in this city with his family on Monday and will make this city his home in the future. He will be employed in the drug store of Cox & Brooks.

He Looks Well.

W. H. Hawkins, who is awaiting trial for the murder of F. H. Ogle, looks well and is hearty, the close confinement not seeming to deal harshly with him. He is bleached quite white, but is strong.

—For your meat go to Lafoar'e to-day on State street. tf

West Salem Items.

Mr. Furguson has had the finising coat of paint put on his new house and it looks as gay as a newly painted wagon.

Mr. Roblin, late from Winnepeg, Manitoba, has bought the twenty acre tract of W. A. Mills and has nearly completed a splendid house, and is making many other improvements on his place.

R. V. Harris has a large house well under way, but as he is a carpenter he has so much work for other parties that he can't find time to complete his own house.

Mr. Shryock, late from Iowa, has bought the Bonnett place and is putting it in good order, and intends making valuable improvements on the premises at an early day.

The crops look fine hereabouts. Mr. Ferguson has a field of rye that a six foot man would get lost in, as he could not see over the top of it. Mr. Glem has a field of wheat that would be hard to beat in the county.

A. S. Buckingham has a valuable old document that he intends to present to the state of Oregon. It is a commission appointing his grandfather, Henry Buckingham, a lieutenant of artillery in the state of Pennsylvania, dated 1809 and signed by Gov. Thomas McKead, who was one of the signers of the declaration of independence. The state would then have what few of the states have, a genuine signature of one of the signers of that famous instrument.

Where Charcoal Is Made.

About six miles north of this city, on the river road, is a charcoal pit where a good quality of charcoal is made. As some people have never seen charcoal made it can be explained in a few words. Large fir trees are cut down, the butts of which are rolled together and covered with dirt. The logs are then set on fire and made to smoulder, thus producing in a few days a nice lot of coal. In the meantime, while these logs are burning, a man stays there night and day to keep them from burning up or going out. If the logs burn too fast he throws on more dirt, which smothers the fire and it burns slowly, thus producing the desired charcoal.

Beardsley Went to Eola.

O. P. Beardsley, who was yesterday acquitted of the murder of his neighbor in Eola, returned to his home in that retired little Polk county village yesterday evening and is once more comfortably quartered "at home." His health would soon have failed had he been subjected to continued confinement in the county jails. He was out in his yard this morning, looking over the premises and refreshing himself with the pure air.

THAT TIRED FEELING.

Afflicts nearly every one in the spring. The system having become accustomed to the bracing air of winter, is weakened by the warm days of the changing season, and readily yields to attacks of disease. Hood's sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed. It tones and builds up every part of the body and also expels all impurities from the blood. Try it this season.

Church Notices.

Pastors who wish notices of their services published in the JOURNAL will be advised now to send to this office by next Friday afternoon their corrected copy. Churches for which no copy is sent will receive no notice.

Soapstone and Its Uses.

A writer in a London journal calls attention to the unappreciated uses and preservative qualities of soapstone, a material, he says, which posesses what may be regarded as extraordinary qualities in withstanding atmospheric influences, those especially which have so much to do with the corrosion of iron and steel, and from experiments made it is said that no other material is capable of taking hold of the fiber of iron and steel so readily and firmly as this. In China soapstone is largely used for preserving structures built of sandstone and other stones liable to crumble from the atmosphere; and the covering with powdered soapstone in the form of paint on some obleisks in that country, composed of stone liable to atmospheric deterioration, has been the means of preserving them intact for hundreds of years.

Thoughts of the Dying.

Fere affirmed that a dying person in his last moments thinks of the chief events of his life. Persons resuscitated from drowning, epileptics with grave attacks, persons dying and already unconscious, but momentarily brought back to consciousness by ether injections to utter their last thoughts, all acknowledge that their last thoughts revert to momentous events of their life. Such an ether injection revives once more the normal disposition of celebral activity, already nearly extinguished, and it might be possible at this moment to learn of certain important events of the past life, Brown-Sequard mentions the remarkable fact that persons who, in consequence of celebral affections have been paralyzed for years, get back at once when dying their sensibility, mobility, and intelligence. All such facts clearly show that at the moment of dissolution important changes take place, reacting upon the composition of the blood and the functions of the organs.—Med. Zeitung.

Made Him a New Nerve.

A remarkable surgical operation is described by the Manchester, (Eng.) Guardian: A small tumor was removed from an important nerve in a patient's arm, and during the operation some of the nerve itself was taken away. This was naturally followed by loss of sensation in the part of the skin to which the nerve was distributed. After forty-eight hours the surgeon, having obtained a piece of healthy nerve from a leg which had just been amputated, proceeded to restore the continuity of his patient's nerve with the borrowed piece of tissue. The result was that sensation returned in thirty-six hours and there was every prospect of a comple recovery.
