JEWELS AND LACES.

"Oh, girl with the jewelled fingers,
Oh, girl with the laces rare!"

What are your jewels and what are your laces worth to you if, from undergoing the trying ordeals which fashionable society imposes on its devotees, enough to test the physical strength and endurance of the most robust, you break down, lose your health and become a physical wreck, as thousands do from such cause?

Under such circumstances you would willingly give all your jewels and all your laces to regain lost health. This you can do if you will but resort to the use of that great restorative known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of grateful women bless the day it was made known to them.

For all derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to women, it is the only remedy, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

An invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system. For feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. One a dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

FUN FOR ALL.

HOW THE BILL CAME.

Mrs. Cumso (when her new bonnet came home)—Why, actually, the bird on this bonnet hasn't any bill.

Cumso—The bill was too large to go on the bonnet. It will come separately in a wheelbarrow about the first of the month.—New York Sun.

FEARED THE TRUTH

Smithkins (indignantly) — This statement in the newspapers about me is a shameful lie.

Johnson—Are you going to demand a correction?

Smithkins—Well, I guess not. The editor might print the truth about me then.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

THE WEEKLY SERMON.

Report of Preaching at One of the Salem Churches.

Tho' like a wanderer,
Daylight all gone,
Darkness be over me
My rest a stone;
Yet in my dreams I'd be
Nearer, my God, to thee,
Nearer to thee.

MRS. S. F. ADAMS.

The Lord of heaven and earth dwelleth not in temples made by hands.

We are all the creatures, and servants of God.

Rev. Sicafoose announced that next Sunday would be his last here. A memorial service to Mrs. Davis who died Feb. 26, would be delivered next Sunday morning. In the evening he would talk on failure and success in church work. The text was, The Harmony and perfection of the attributes of God in the government of the world. There was a superintending providence in the affairs of each person and each nation. As individuals we are lead in ways we know not of; a man deviseth his ways but the Lord directeth his steps. There is a controlling destiny that shapes our end. The attributes of God are immutability, independence and eternity. These are not communicable to man. The communicable attributes of God are power, benevolence, goodness, wisdom, holiness and justice. All that man possesses of these attributes he has from the source of divine authority. The divine is unchangeable and thence comes every good and perfect gift. The love and mercy of God are inimitable. The promises and threatenings of the Lord are the assuring and chastening influences that go to form character. His decrees are all conditional. The wicked he will punish unless they turn from their way. And from this there is no deviation.

The omnipotence of God is shown by his preservation of his creatures. By him all things exist. This power was displayed by the wonderful mysteries of the plan of the redemption.

This was an age of rationalism on one hand and spiritualism on the other. The old world was destroyed by water and the cities of the plain by fire. The ravens fed Isaiah, the whale carried Jonah, the frogs and lice afflicted the Egyptians. The events of time are all directed by an infinite providence, the ways of which are at times mysterious to us. We see but as through a glass darkly. Some of us must go in sorrow thro' life and to our graves, we know not why. In the end when we understand the plans and purposes of God, we will one day see it clearer than we do now, and we realize through it all that he is our father and we may look to him at all times for help.

To Home Seekers.

The Capital City railway company is prepared to tell home-seekers something to their advantage. Mr. David Simpson has taken charge of their real estate department at 115 State street. Call and see him.

When on the High Sea.

On the rail, on a steamboat, aboard fishing smack, or yachting on the coast, Hostetter's stomach Bitters will be found a reliable means of averting and relieving ailments to which travelers, mariners and emigrants are peculiarly subject. Sea captains, ship doctors, voyagers in saloons in the tropics, and all about to encounter unacclimated, and unaccustomed or dangerous climate, should not neglect to avail themselves of this safeguard of well ascertained and long-tried merit. Constipation, biliousness, malarial fevers, indigestion, rheumatism and affections of the bladder and kidneys are among the ailments which it eradicates, and it may be resorted to not only with confidence in its remedial efficacy, but also in the perfect freedom from every objectionable ingredient, since it is derived from the purest and most salutary sources. It counteracts the effects of unwholesome food and water.

FROM NORTHERN MARION.

GERVAIS, May 18, 1890

ED. JOURNAL.—As I have been around thro' the woods a little I will tell you something of the political pulse in the north end of old Marion. All the repubs. will support Herman for congress and some dems. as well. Yes, and if Mitchell was up before the people for U. S. senator he would, next June receive a larger vote than any man in Oregon ever yet received for any office.

He has struck a keynote, and one that any bad man would be afraid to monkey with, and as Mitchell seems to be always on the right side of every question, it appears to me he has a life lease of his seat in the senate, especially if the people elect.

For Governor S. P. will hold his own, altho' a few are in favor of Silvery P. because he lives economically, while in Salem at least, and because he vetoes water bonds in Portland—altho, he may allow them elsewhere; and because he favors the eight-hour movement—altho, his own laborers put in much more time and farmers who indorse him for this are working from ten to fourteen hours per day. Seems as though they should look into his free trade principles a little and see if that would be economy to them; methinks if they figure ahead a little they will find that protection will give every city good water, build a mansion at the capital for the Governor; pay him a decent salary, do every thing decently and in order and leave in their purses a good margin over and above free trade with its deteriorating tendencies, parsimony in public improvements, stinginess toward city privileges, and cheap actions and talk.

Silvery P. will get the bourbon and free trader's votes here while S P. will get the clear-headed protectionists solid.

The rest of the state ticket will obtain its usual majority, excepting perhaps Metschan, who deserves the biggest vote we can possibly give him. Metschan will prove good in every respect, and he is a man in every regard and solid, too, and will get the votes of thousands of Dem's in Eastern Oregon.

Looney will get a full vote and more too, while Hirsch will get some votes outside of the party.

Armstrong will get a heavy vote. Settlemeir, Baker, Geer and Minto will hold their own.

Cleaver will get his share, though some are trying to spoil his case. Yoder will get the votes of most of those wearing whiskers in both parties, while the school ma'am will garner the adolescents. Culver is all right while Stott will run like a steer in the corn.

In conclusion will say, it appears the republican county convention did some objectionable things for which Salem's delegates were mainly to blame, hence we cannot blame the "people of the woods" for scratching or scolding, when they observe the city, deserving a fair third of the offices, but obtaining more than half, and that mainly the best of them.

In the wind up allow me to say, I heartily endorse your paper, and think it is the most consistent people's paper in the state. If you keep to the line you are now hewing to, the time is not far distant when the CAPITAL JOURNAL will compete with the great and only.

With respect,
L.

SALEM LAND COMPANY

—Incorporated 1889—Capital Stock $30,000.—

POSTOFFICE BLOCK, -- -- SALEM, OREGON.

As early as 1800 Americans were fully alive to the fact that there was a value to real estate in and around cities of this country which did not attach to that of any other nation in the world.

The cause of this is easily understood when we stop to think that in all other countries up to that time real property belonged largely not to the individual but to a line of inheritance—a perpetuity that offered no incentive to acquisition or trade. At that time all mercantile pursuits and trades were looked upon as beneath the dignity of genteel people, and as a vulgar adjunct of life which contributed remotely to their comfort. Hence men who dealt in real estate in a commercial way were looked upon as little better than professional gamblers. This did not apply to agents alone—for they were little more than servants—but to anyone who was known to be dabbling in real estate.

Foreigners and descendants of nobility living in this country could not perceive that the will of the people was the sovereign of this nation, and that individual was an equal part of the sovereignty, thus attaching to them a right or joint ownership of the nation whose property they could acquire and convert by legitimate means into individual holdings—absolutely in their control, giving them the right to buy and sell as they plense. This value is best realized when we think it was an opening for the poorer classes to acquire homes, and with commendable vigor they sought to secure property as quickly as possible. The progressive had faith in his government, in his country and his town, and when he had secured his home he added to his holdings and "provided for a rainy day" by taking advantage of his knowledge and opportunities and buying a piece of property which he knew someone would come along and want, and that, too, within a very few years, and at a price which would net a handsome profit. From that day till now this has been practiced with profit by the wide awake people in every walk of American life. It has worked its way across the continent from east to west and from north to south, till nearly every point in America has had a period of unusual prosperity which of late years has been designated by the suggestive name of booms. Several years ago California headed all competitors and for several years led the procession not only of the Pacific coast but of the entire country. Hardly had its spirit began to wane when Washington Territory, with all the vigor of a dashing youth, sprang to the front and has led up to the present time.

Now, however, Oregon—the happy medium between California and Washington—is coming into view right in the front line and with its marvelous natural wealth and advantages of an enduring quality will forge to the front and lead all other states.

The secret has gradually leaked out that the Willamette valley, and particularly the country composing Polk and Marion counties, is the most worthy of all countries yet brought to the general notice, and that till within the past two years the people living here so happily and contented have been too modest to proclaim the merits of the country to the outside world.

During the rush to the south and north of them, they have looked on with an half amazed wonder, never dreaming in a few short months the charms of this valley would be found out and attract thousands of people in search of just such an earthly paradise.

Hardly has this been realized till it is also seen that it is the last, almost, in the United States that has not been crowded full to overflowing.

There is little need for us to remind men of capital and experience of this opportunity, for they are thinking and acting for themselves. But we do think it is a good idea that the laboring men and farmers, the bank clerks and store keepers and the professional men—who are too busy in their practice to give much thought to financial matters—the teacher and salesman, in fact, the masses should look this field over and make good, judicious investments before it is too late to reap the full benefit.

We believe that this is an "opportunity of a life time," and that it is unlikely that it will ever again offer to the masses now living here. Of course it is possible that some individuals may drift into some other locality at the right time to repair the damage which will have been done to their finances by procrastinating now. We admit that it is possible, but who wants to run that chance? We don't. Do you?

From all points of the United States we are informed that people are going to remove to the Willamette Valley, of which they have heard such wondrous and attractive reports.

EVEN IN WASHINGTON AND THE PUGET SOUND there is a strong undercurrent, setting in towards Salem and the Willamette valley, which, before the season is over, will resolve itself into an immigration that will add a good many thousands to our already fast increasing population.

In addition to our present attractive and substantial improvements there are now proposed some public measures which will advertise our city so that the impetus will place Salem and the Willamette valley so far in front that she will hold her own against all competitors for years to come.

Property is now within your reach, and if you do not take advantage of your opportunities it will not be our fault.

We are free to admit that we are interested in your welfare in a selfish way, and that our incentive to interest you in property is largely due to the small commission which will fall to our share, but it is not all, as you will perceive upon reflection. We have a reputation to build up and sustain, and an ambition to extend our acquaintance and enlarge our circle of friends.

This course cannot help but enlarge our business and make it a pleasant pursuit as well. To accomplish this we must prove to you that our judgment is good and that our motives are not entirely selfish or enough so as to cause us to influence anyone to invest where he might lose all his hard earned pennies.

Our trade is rapidly increasing and we flatter ourselves that our efforts in behalf of Salem and her people are being duly appreciated, yet we do not expect nor desire more trade than we merit and which the merits of our property deserve. Come and see us and if we cannot please you go to some other agent and look at his bargains, but do not neglect to invest now. If you do you will have to buy and pay the newcomers a profit which you could just as well have had as your own.

We have made it the policy of the corporation which we represent to recommend only such property as will prove profitable to the investor and which possesses an actual value entirely distinct and separate from a speculative value, and which, at the same time possesses rare qualities and is located where it has the greatest prospective value of any in the market.

Living in a country possessed of a fertile soil and beautiful scenery, it is natural for the inhabitants who give a thought to such things to desire to locate upon high and sightly ground, and where there is deep, rich, black soil.

In a country like this valley, of course, there are no bluffs. Near the river are prairies like the one which lies to the east of Salem.

Hence to find the highest sightliest and best choice as well as the most fertile you must seek the highest of the level ground in sight. In selecting and buying our own homes we were influenced by these qualities, and believing that we are an average in our tastes with other men, we have made our investments and secured other property to sell in the same direction. Our addition, Englewood, is the most central, sightly, fertile and conveniently located in the market. It is within four blocks of the elegant East Salem schools, which accommodate nearly 700 pupils.

Street cars are now running near it, and we hope and have every reason to believe, that before another month is passed we can announce to you that a line of street cars will pass through it, which will bring it within five minutes of Commercial street.

The city water mains will be laid through it during the present summer, arrangements having already been completed for having it done.

It lies nearly 100 feet above Commercial street, and overlooks the city, the state and public buildings and the clear, blue waters of the beautiful Willamette river. From it you can look to the westward and view thousands of acres of the fertile and romantic Polk county hills fringed in the dim and hazy distance by the heavily timbered Coast range, while to the east are the green-clad foothills of the Cascade range, with the snow tipped peaks of Mounts Adams, St. Helens, Hood, Jefferson and the Three Sisters showing beyond them. Following up the Garden Road—the most popular road leading out of the city, we have suburban homes for sale that are highly improved, being planted to fruit of all varieties, with buildings and gardens that go to make up an ideal home.

These places have from five to twenty acres of land, lying high and very choice. In this same direction, that is east of the city, and in Salem Prairie, we have Fairview, Hampden Park and Garden City subdivisions of five acre tracts, all ready for setting out to fruit, and the very choicest fruit and vegetable lands in the county at very low prices, and on payments of one-fourth down, one-fourth each in 1, 2, and 3 years' time.

For farms we have some of the very choicest on Salem and Howell Prairies, which we can heartily recommend to any one desiring a farm that will yield a good revenue.

We have city property in all portions of the town, some very choice and very cheap property in South Salem, and also a very cheap residence property and four lots in Capital Park.

Some business property which will make big money for some man very soon.

Come and let us show you some of our bargains—free of charge. Surely you will not let all of the good chances pass by.

Call and see us or write for our circulars.
