in California the Price for Canning Pears Runs From $35 to $85 Per Ton - Quality Here Is Better.

Growers of Bartlett pears in Oregon are up in arms against the canneries of this state, because of the low prices they are offering for the fruit in comparison with what the orchardists of California receive. District Fruit Inspector James H. Reid voices the complaints of the growers as follows:

"The canneries in Portland and other ts of the state have made the price Bartletts of the 2½ caliper size, which is the largest grown here, $25 per ton. For the 2% callper size they pay $30 per ton in California, the largest Bartletts only gauge 2% callper, but the range of only gauge 24 caliper, but the range of prices paid by the canneries of that state is from 355 to 25 per ton and it is re-ported that a few contracts have been made there at 355 per ton. The bulk of the contracts for No. 1 California Bart-letts run from 350 to 365 per ton. "Like the cherry crop, the Oregon pear erop this year will be of unusually fine quality. Although the yield will be light around Eugene and south of that peint, in the remainder of the Willamette Valley there will be a very fair crop. The farmers should have what they are en-titled to. If the conditions in the cantitled to. If the conditions in the can-ned goods trade justify the California canneries in paying an average of $50 to 155 a ton for pears, the canners of Ore-gon should do likewise. "I understand that the Weber-Bussell command of Section npany of Seattle made a few contracts Bartletts in the Valley at good prices. but that the Oregon cannerles induced them to quit, by offering them all the pears they wanted at the low prices that have been fixed."

NO MOVEMENT IN HOP MARKET

Latest Reports of Crop Conditions in

New York State.

New York State. The Oregon hop market is in a most inactive condition. There is some little equiry for spot goods at the low prices lately paid but growers are not disposed No demand for contracts is re-

The Jefferson Review finds the 1907 hop outlook very discouraging for growers. The paper says. It is freely predicated that Sgeents will be the top figures, unless the European crop should prove much shorter than at present seems possible Prime 1906 hops are selling at 4 to 6 cents. Buyers claim to have enough 1967 hops contracted to fill all foreign orders, and are not making any attempt to contract If this condition continues there will be practically no market at picking time and hops in many yards will be left with arrivals decreasing and the demand active. Two of the city creameries have ad-vanced to 35 cents. The market for butter is firm, and the new price will robably be general in a few days. DRY ROT AFFECTS PEACHES

Much of the Fruit From the Roseburg Section Is Bad.

The local fruit market is being awamped with poor peaches from the Roseburg section. Nearly a carload of them came in by express yesterday and only added to the accumulation carried over from Saturday. Most of these peaches are affected with dry rot which makes them practically unsaleable. The Roseburg growers have had this trouble for several years, though it was not very serious last Summer This year, however, the blight is worse than ever before, judging from the fruit now reaching this market. There is a strong demand for good peaches and jobbers find it a problem how to get hold of any. Fist-class stock will sell as high as $1.25 per box, but the poor offerings go around 70 and 75 cents. A car of Merlin peaches passed through Portland yesterday enroute to the Sound markets. Five cars of bananas arrived, about one-third ripe. A car of sweet potatoes also came in.

Grain Markets Are Unchanged.

The cereal markets presented no change yesterday. Wheat was rather quiet and quoted steady. Oats were dull and still easy, with but little inquiry for new crop, though it is said that the surplus of old crop oats has been considerably reduced. Continued been considerably reduced. Continued activity is reported in barley, which is always the earliest of the grain mar-

The higher and medium grades are firm, but do not thow the strength of the lower grades. The cause of the flurry is the lighter pro-duction of the lower grade of tens. Grow-ers are turning their lands to other ourers are turning their lands to other purposes which they find more profitable, and this, with the strong demand, has had the effect of lifting prices. Compehas the effect of lifting prices. Compe-tent authorities declare that it will not be many years before Japan goes out of the tea-raising business. Labor has become expensive there, as in Western countries, and it is being found that the land will produce other crops in which likere is more money. there is more money.

Lane County Growers Discouraged. EUGENE, Or., Aug. 12.—The condition of hops in this county is rather unfavorable. During the recent cloudy and rainy weather the lice spread all over the vines so thickly that most of the growers are badly dis-couarged. John Middleton, of Harrisburg, recently sold a car of last year's crop at 5 cents. Another grower in the same vicin-ity has held his hops ever since the high prices of a year ago. At that time he was offered 31 cents but asked 32. The price went down, and since then he has stored his orop. He is wealthy and his friends are wondering how long he can wait for prices to rise to 32 cents.
