UNPARALLELED.—Christmas day in Salem was the mildest, says some of the old residents, that they have ever seen in Oregon. At midday the thermometer registered 56° in the open air, where the sun had not moderated the temperature. Christmas night was clear and the air was balmy and no frost came on the following morning, which was a day as bright as the previous. Hundreds of people were out walking Christmas afternoon, as though it was a spring day. The same old story has just reached this city of some of the Eastern friends, who were in Oregon a few weeks and condemned the climate. They now write from their cold, icy Eastern homes of being homesick to see Oregon again and live in her balmy climate. This is the same old story which hundreds of others have told many a time before. The fact is, there has been no cold weather in the Willamette valley this year. Very little frost has been seen here, during the past few days this was especiall so. The air has been clear and refreshing. From the top of the state house or University the snow crowned brow of Mt. Hood, Adams, Jefferson and Rainier could easily be seen in the distance, while the valley was green. Surely, this is the place for a home.

MAP MAKING IN SALEM.—A JOURNAL representative stole a glance at a very artistic piece of work. It was a map of the Wapinitia canal and the country through which it passes. The map itself is some 15 feet in length and traces a canal over 20 miles long, from the dam on Clear creek, two miles below Clear Lake, to Juniper flat, in Wasco county, the intention being to have it discharge into the Deschutes river, using all the water necessary for the irrigation of Wapinitia plains. Hampton Kelly, brother of the sheriff at Portland, is at the head of the ditch company; Captain A. Gesner, of this city, did the surveying and Judge J. J. Walton, of this city, was the artist of the map, which is a model of beauty in its mountain shading, lettering and general make-up. It is a fact that in no place in the state can as neat, clean, tasty and accurate maps be drawn as right here in Salem.

THE LITTLE GEORGIA MAGNET.—Wednesday night at the opera house Mrs. Annie Abbot gave her truly marvelous performance. The audience was not so large as it should have been but that was easily accounted for by the fact of it being Christmas eve and there were many other attractions about the city. She performed all that she advertised she would. Her feats are very remarkable to say the least. For instance she held on her open palms a billiard cue and in spite of their utmost efforts several of our solid and muscular citizen were unable to move it. It looked rather odd to see several stout men exerting their utmost efforts to lift a weight of only 98 pounds but lift her they could not. Her greatest test of power was the lifting of nine men clear from the floor. She is truly a phenomenon.

PIONEER STEAMBOATMAN.—Captain U. B. Scott, a pioneer steamboatman of the Willamette, has now in course of construction two propellers to run between Tacoma and Seattle, that are calculated to run at a rate of thirty miles per hour. They will be the fastest water crafts in the world. Captain Scott has already been a progressive steamboatman, and has lead wherever he has been. When on the Willamette he ran the best boats on the river. Getting too large for this river he went to the Columbia, where he put on opposition boats, both fleet and attractive, and did more to lower traffic on that river than any other man in Oregon. He now anticipates going to the Sound to revolutionize traffic on those waters.

SING WITH JOY.—The people who have been at Krausse Bros. during the past few days buying goods have been so handsomely treated that their joy knows no bounds. That fine piano is still on exhibition there and many are casting longing eyes at it to see whose it will begin the sweet bye and by.

SCHEME FOR IRRIGATION.—A move is being made in some of the Eastern Oregon regions whereby a petition will be presented to the next legislature to devide that region into convenient districts and that these be bonded for the purpose of raising money to construct irrigation ditches and that a fixed rate of toll be charged those using water. The petition asked that the matter be submitted to the people of that part of the state to vote on and if two-thirds of the voters favor it such be granted them. Those at the head of the move claim it would be a grand thing for that part of the state. They also claim that in that way it will unite the effort and all will receive the benefits. Single individuals have not the means to construct the ditches, but in this manner in a long term of years the ditches could be epaid for and little expense by the people in general. In fact they claim in a few years the irrigation would cost them very little.

HEAVY STORM.—Wednesday morning about two o'clock a heavy wind visited this city, though no damage has yet been reported. Many persons were awakened from their slumbers by the storm and some thought their houses were in danger, and some even wondered how the bridge would stand it. In an hour or so the wind abated and all was again quiet and no accident is know to have occurred. The storm seems to have been more disastrous along the coast and on the Sound where many wrecks are reported with heavy damages. Heavy winds have prevailed along the coast of Oregon for some time, at times extending as far north as Alaska.

THAT MASTER WHEEL.—The master drive wheel which was cast by the Salem Iron foundry was placed in position and the work of setting it was going on to-day. This forenoon the babbitting was done on the bearings of the main wheel. The smaller wheel was brought down from the iron works this afternoon and it was also set, and to-morrow they will be started to working the great pumps. The cogs of these wheels are made of eastern hickory. The sudden jerks of the wheels caused by the uneven pressure on the mains prevents iron cogs from being successfully used. The makers of these wheels think the hickory cogs will last for years.

A BREAK DOWN.—While out driving Christmas day H. W. Cottle and family met with a small accident while in no way accompanied with serious results was not very pleasant, considering the muddy conditions of the roads. When returning from their drive, and near the I. O. O. F. Rural Cemetery, the king bolt of the carriage gave way, letting the occupants suddenly to the ground. The team ran a short distance with the front wheels, and were stopped. The family made their way to town on foot, probably none the worse off for a wholesome walk, though a slightly muddy one.

CRUSHED HIS LEG.—Tuesday morning Lewis Anderson met with a serious accident in the flouring mill of Levi Douglas at Harrisburg. He was in the third story of the mill looking after some part of the machinery, when the engineer below heard him crying for help. He hastened to his assistance and found him lying on the floor with one leg broken, it having been caught in the machinery crushing the limb above the ankle. Anderson was formerly miller in the Red Crown mills of Albany.

HOME AGAIN.—Mrs. Geo. Edes and daughter Helen returned home yesterday, from an extended trip through the East. They visited all the larger cities and principal points of attraction during their three months absence from Salem. In their travels they were in one wreck in Arizona, in which four men were killed, but they escaped unhurt. They were glad to get back to Salem again, though they highly enjoyed their trip.

COULD NOT MOVE HER.—Several of our citizens could not move the little Georgia magnet the other night. Lunn has gotten up a reputation for fair dealing which can not be overthrown. He has a large stock and makes his selling price so little above the cost mark that he has a big trade.

WALKING MATCH.—There was a walking match in Salem t'other day between two young men of leading families. It was a close race and both men got to G. W. Johnson & Sons at about the same second. It was one of those fine ties they were after.

DON'T FORGET YOURSELF.—Christmas is over; you have bought gifts for all your friends, and now you will have a chance to invest a little money for yourself. Johnson, Boothby & Co. can sell you a good warm suit of clothes, or anything you may be needing in gents' furnishing.

FORSTNER & CO.—The rush of the season has been great and tons of goods have been sold but the above firm still has goods enough to supply everybody and at prices that are surprisingly low.

THAT FURNITURE FACTORY—May go elsewhere, but we still have a fine place to purchase furniture as Keller & Marsh have a fine line on hand.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL.

Dr. L. S. Skiff went to Portland this afternoon.

J. W. Minto, of Portland, is in the city visiting his parents.

Napoleon Davis, wife and son are in Portland, spending the holidays.

J. B. F. Giesy, went down this afternoon to visit at his old home in Aurora.

Harry Singleton was among the passengers bound for the metropolis this afternoon.

H. C. Caldwell, of the Salem Land Co., spent Christmas at his old home in Hubbard.

J. T. Bowles, sheriff of Union county brought Aaron Updike to the asylum last night.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Baker took the afternoon train for a holiday visit with Portland relatives.

A. W. Bowersox, of Corvallis, is in the city spending a few days with his parents and visiting friends.

J. N. Smith, and J. C. Menzies, of Portland; Chas. Graham, of Roseburg, were appointed notaries to-day.

Mrs. John Dancy, of Portland, is spending the holidays with her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Eberlin, on North Commercial street.

City recorder, L. F. Conn, made a flying trip up to Roseburg, to spend a day with the "old folks." He returned this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Darling are spending their Christmas at Hubbard, with Mrs. Darling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Henkee.

Hon. D. P. Thompson, of Portland, was in the city to-day, visiting his brother, A. M., who is very ill at his home on Liberty street.

R. D. Cannon editor of the Port-Portland Telegram, and wife, spent Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Cannon of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Barzee and babies, of Turner, came in on the afternoon train to visit at Mrs. B's paternal home—that of Mr. Jas. Aitken.

W. A. Munly, the governor's private secretary, went down to Portland yesterday afternoon, to eat turkey with friends. He returned last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bower (the latter Miss Mary McKinney formerly), of Spokane Falls, who have been visiting relatives here, returned home to-day.

Mr. Wm. C. Brown, who has been the guest of Rev. H. H. Brown the past three weeks, started today for Meadsville, Pa., Theological school, where he is to fit for the Unitarian ministry.

Salem express wagon No. 16. Leave orders in my box at Wade & Co.'s hardware store, corner of Court and Commercial streets. J. G. Harris, proprietor. All orders promptly attended to.

Rev. Thomas VanNess, the Pacific Coast superintendent of the American Unitarian association, arrived on the morning train and is the guest of Mr. J. B. Stump. He will preach at the Unitarian hall next Sunday morning and evening.

A BUSY DAY.—The day before Christmas was a very busy one in commercial circles in this city. There was doubtless more business done on that day than on any other day in the history of Salem. Many of the stores were so jammed that it was almost impossible to move around. Extra clerks were in all the stores but still customers had to wait to receive attention. If it were possible to give the amount of money spent in the several retail stores it would be astonishing.

EXTREME LOW WATER.—The Corvallis Times rises with this remark: The Willamette river is lower than ever before known at this season of the year. Yesterday Max Friendly's logging outfit consisting of a wagon and three yoke of oxen forded it about a mile and a half above this city and the driver didn't get a drop of water on himself. The like has never been known in December.

IN PROBATE.—In the matter of the estate of Albert W. Kinney, deceased, August Kinney and Virginia Watson, executors, filed their sixth report, and the same was approved. The will of Amanda Edy, deceased, has been admitted to probate, and W. L. Wade appointed executor, Thos. Ryan, Eli Nell, and R. P. Boise, Jr., appraisers. The amount of the property is estimated at $650 and goes to her daughter, Adelia E. Cheney.

MARRIED.

STALEY-ROBERTS.—Wednesday evening, Dec. 24, 1890, at the home of the bride in Yew Park, by Rev. Corwin, Prof. W. J. Staley to Miss Nellie Roberts, both of this city.

This excellent young couple were united in the presence of the family circle, and a few close friends. The ceremony was performed in a brief and binding manner, when after hearty congratulations by all present a hearty luncheon was partaken of, and a pleasant evening was passed. The groom, Prof Staley, is principal of the Capital Business college in this city, and a young man of rare good qualities, while the bride is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Roberts, late of Nebraska, where the acquaintance of the young people was formed. They will make their home in Salem.

SPONGE—CRANGLE.—At Lincoln, Polk county, Christmas day Dec. 25, 1890, Mr. J. M. Sponge and Miss Ada Crangle.

INCORPORATING A UNIVERSITY.—Articles incorporating the Portland University, of the city of Portland, were filed with the secretary of state Wednesday afternoon. The following list of gentlemen of the above named city are the incorporators: Alfred Kummer, Ross C. Houghton, Daniel N. McIntuff, James W. Bushong, G. M. Pierce, W. C. Noon, H. Wood, E. W. Cornell, William Masters, George H. Chance, and F. L. Parson. The articles did not mention any capital stock as belonging to the corporation at the time of filing the articles. Portland evidently wants a university; so does Salem, if she did not she would give Portland the one she has now.
