QUEEN BUYS ROBES HERE.-MISS Hatti Maroif, the newly elected Queen of the Tillamook Carnival will leave this morning to return to Tillamook after a strenuous day in the hands of one of our foremost modistes which resulted in an exquisite symphony that is to be shown in all its spiendor for the first time next Thursday. Miss Marolf a handsome bru-nette with luminous brown eyes, has chosen for her carnival robe, an all over lace gown, over a pink satin foundation which is cut en train, and worn with a queenly mantle of ivory broadcloth, elaborately studded with silver. The maids, Miss Ollie Chase and Miss Winnie Wallace are to be gowned in frocks of a delicate shade of blue. The pages are to be impersonated by two small maids, Miss Mabel Easter and Miss Nellie Crane, who will be resplendent in costumes of shimering white satin. Miss Marolf has been chaperoned while at the Imperial Hotel by Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Snuffer, of Tillamook, who have superintended the purchasing of her robes. Owing to the fact that Miss Marolf is and orphan and justly popular in her home town the mer-chants of that place decided near the closing of the contest to work in her behalf with the result that almost 3000 otes majority were cast in her favor.

VISITOR LIKES PORTLAND. - Albert Phenis, staff correspondent of the Manu-facturers' Record, of Baltimore, Md. came to Portland a week ago, intending to spend 24 or 48 hours in this city and then continue his trip to the other cities of the Coast, but he became so interested that he remained here for a week and did not leave until yesterday afternoon. Mr Phenis in discussing his visit here said: "Portland has almost taken me off my feet. It is a sound, sane city and from the standpoint of climate and location is one of the most attractive centers I ever The fact that Portland is an American city and that almost 95 per cent of the population are native born, that the city gets along with fewer strikes than other cities and that it is strikes than other cities and that it is growing in all departments of finance, trade and commerce in an even, well-grounded and substantial way makes one feel that here is to be built one of the chief cities of this country, I shall deal at length in my article in the Manufacturers' Record with this city, for I believe there are many things here that will be an inspiration to the people of the South and East. Pantages. THE New York Comedy Four, a quartet of dispensers of fun and song are the feature at the Pantages this week, and it must be said that Manager Johnson has made no mistake in placing them at the head of the bill. They are funny, and they are musical, with just enough nonsense to make them a nonzeriel troup of vandaville pera nonpariel troup of vaudeville per-formers. Their act is one of the best witnessed at the house for a long time, and the many encores they receive show how well the audience receives their

Another important part of the bill is an act by the "Great Pool," the rubber man, one of the best contortionists ever seen on a Portland stage. He certainly lives up to his name, the "Rubber Man," for he ties his body in knots, and does some other seemingly impossible feats. While the audience sits and looks on in utter amazement he performs some tricks that defy all laws of human anatomy. Ross and Vack, eccentric German cor edians, Greenway, a comic Jugler, the musical Brenans, a pair of comedians, help out the bill. Jean Wilson sings an illustrated song, and the bioscope shows a number of moving pictures.

"THE SECOND IN COMMAND," an English military play, riveted the attention of a large audience in the Marquam last night through four tense acts. As Major Bingham, the second in com mand, an example of dense noble goodness, Franklyn Underwood did the best piece of work he has yet done in Port-land. Edward Emery as Colonel Aus-truthers, the dull major's superior officer and rival in love, labored under the dis-advantage of a part unsuited to his temperament, yet read his lines with a natural ability that no part can hide. Miss Georgie Waldron as Muriel Mannering, the woman on whose love affairs with the two officers the story of the play hinges, filled her difficult and, from an ethical standpoint, undesirable part. with clean-cut but rather subdu-strength. Last night was Miss Waldron first appearance this season in Portland

The audience liked the actress in spite of the character she portrayed.

Although the atmosphere of the play is in the last analysis gloomy, its un-dercurrent of the cynical was relieved and dercurrent of the cynical was relieved and lit up by the clever comedy of Norval MacGregor, Joseph Dalley, F. G. Hearn and Miss Frances Slosson. As the barbed tongued, ealculating Lady Harburgh, Miss Georgia Woodthorpe showed herself an actress of subtle power and finished ability. Leo Lindhard, cast for the part ability. Leo Lindhard, cast for the part of the detestable brother of Muriel, a coward, liar and craven, was handicapped like one in Lago, but denied by the author even a line with which to appeal to his audience.

On the whole "The Second in Command" is one of the strongest plays seen in this city for a long time. There is not a weak or poor part in the cast, and one leaves the theater with the feeling one leaves the theater with the feeling that after all a clean square character wins in the end even in the case of a blockhead.

At the Stock Theaters

"The Tie That Binds" at the Star.

THE Star Stock Company, which has been occupying the boards at the Star Theater for the past three months, is presenting its last bill at that popular playhouse this week. Hal Reid's drama of New York life, "The Tie That Binds," a pathetic every-day story of society life in the great metropolis, is the vehicle selected for the company. Several social and economic evils are clearly shown in this true-to-life story, and the abuses ex-isting in the present system of private in-sane saylums is clearly shown.

sane saylums is clearly shown.

The play tells of a well-to-do young society man of the great city, who, with one wife living in an insane asylum, marries another. The crazy woman escapes her keepers and comes back to her husband, but before she can disclose her identity is hustled back to her living death in the asylum. She finally escapes, comes before her husband and tells that she is his wife. But in a few days she succumbs to death and the much-married man is free once more with his younger wife.

The part of Carleton Ruthedge, the man in the case, is taken by Earl Dwire, and that of the crazy wife by Minnie Ger-Accused of Breaking Lad Law.—

finish of the last act. The plot is complex, a series of complicated situations and misunderstandings.

The central figure is that of the girl from Albany, a sweet young thing, just out of school. She wears short dresses for the purpose of concealing her age and that of her mother. She causes trouble on all sides. White-halred men and young on all sides. White-haired men and young bachelors fall on their knees to do her homage. It would be difficult indeed to attempt to describe the plot, it is so complicated and complex.

Verna Felton, the clever and talented

Her youth, together with her womanly disposition and The other members of the company do good work. Forrest Seabury as usual, shines, while Irving Kennedy and Charley Ayres are pleasing. ## Are YOU Satisfied With Your Work and Income?

Are you a worker and willing to work for an income? If so, it might pay you to read on. No one will deny that there are a good many men who are making good salaries selling life insurance. They did not, however, become capable all at once. They just took hold, hung on, worked hard, and now have lucrative positions. The demand for life insurance is certain to increase. It is a common sense proposition and only needs to be put to common sense people in a common sense way. The recent changes in this business will only serve to make it more popular when they are understood. This spells opportunity for someone.

Just now there is an opening for the right man to represent a great insurance company. A liberal contract will be made for work in this section or elsewhere. It is not desired to attract those who are looking for a snap, or who have no persistence. If this work could be done without effort and by everybody, it would pay no one to do it. The fact that it is not dead easy is the reason it pays those who can do it

If you are interested drop a line at once to the undersigned, give your references, and tell him something about yourself. Don't simply send your address-that alone will not fill the bill. All letters treated in strict confidence.
