DOUBLE NUMBER SATURDAY.

Next Saturday's JOURNAL will be a double number with large and interesting illustrations. To make it of especial interest matter for the Saturday paper is being especially prepared for that number, and it will be twice the size of the regular DAILY JOURNAL. In fact it will be an effort to furnish two day's reading to our patrons and obviate the necessity of buying large Sunday papers from San Francisco and other large cities. The local daily has to fight for its existance against the metropolitan papers. Yet the local paper employs twenty people on its payroll and spends all the money it brings here for foreign advertising and subscriptions among the business men of the city. Yet there is enough money paid out to buy out-of-town papers each month to run another daily paper at Salem larger than any paper now printed here. This is inevitable and will always be so, but it should inspire our people with greater loyalty first to the home press that does more for the town than all the outside papers put together and gets less in return. The Saturday paper will be able to carry large ads. and announcements of trade for the coming week. Tell the people what a good business you have been doing and what you will do for them the coming week in the Saturday announcement, and let the coming year be one continuous reaching out to bring more and more trade to Salem. The merchant who ran large ads. during December in THE JOURNAL all say that it has paid them well and that they never did as good a busidess or came as near cleaning up their holiday stocks. The JOURNAL will make a number of improvements this coming year and all its receipts will be expended on improving the plant, and we hope by the end of the year to print twice as large a paper and do twice [illegible] business. The JOURNAL's re[illegible] from subscriptions outside of [illegible] and from all over the state are [illegible] large as its business in Salem. [illegible] proud of its city and county and state and wishes to thank all for liberal patronage in the past.

THE FIGHT FOR A FAIR SALARY SYSTEM

It is in the power of the people to change the present system of private State official salaries, fees and perquisites without holding a Constitutional Convention would cost $50,000, with present extravagant methods of conducting such bodies, and then it might not be adopted by the people when submitted to their votes.

THE JOURNAL has shown that the State Constitution is a limitation on salaries, not a prohibition of fair salaries, and that it was specifically left to the legislature to fix additional salary, and that it has been done in round-about way.

All the fees, perquisites and salaries now paid under the constitution, and mostly in spite of it, because the Constitution does inhibit payment of fees and perquisites.

The people must make a stern and persistent demand for this reform. Do not be deceived by the proposed delay of constitutional amendments and conventions. The people through the legislature have the power now to reform the abuse.

If men of character and ability are sent to the legislature, men above working a petty graft for themselves, men who can go against a proposition involving about fifty thousand dollars of boodle without fear or trembling, fair salaries can be enacted at the next term.

The best and most intelligent Republicans and honest men in all parties demand this chance in the interest of good government. The time has come when the minister influence of incordinate compensation ought to be removed from our strte government.

IS THE ENDOWED COLLEGE AMERICAN.

When Thomas Jefferson abolished the laws of entail it was supposed that the foundation for the accumulation of unequal fortunes had been swept away in this country.

But donations of millions annually from Rockefeller to Chicago University, that are taken from the people in profits on oil, gasoline and Christmas candles, prove the contrary.

The last Oregon legislature spent $190,000 on four State Normal schools, when Normal schools with hundreds of attendants are being run in this city without a cent of State endowment.

In other words the cost of education is so small, that the endowed schools cannot furnish it enough cheaper to be an inducement to the young men and women to the adjoining county.

The endowment goes mostly into larger salaries for educators who are doing the same work as the unendowed professors. The endowed school is founded on injustice and unequality, and can only produce such fruits.

There has been great hue and cry recently over a graduate of Standford University who is getting $35,000 a year salary. But where are the Stanford men making reputations in journalism, the bar, in medicine, as orators?

Is not the $35,000 a year salary man a dangerous ideal to hold up to our young men and women as an ideal product of the endowed college? Does not the endowed college destroy the "equal chance" principle?

JOURNAL X RAYS.

THE HUSBAND'S PROMISE.

Yes, dear, I give my solemn promise
To quit today all habits vile;
And for the long new year that's coming,
Abstain from all things that defile.

I'll leave off smoking poor cigars,
I'll "shake" the nasty cigarette;
I'll spend my evenings all at home
With baby, and with you, my pet.

You're laughing, eh? Well, I'm in earnest;
I know you think it's all a joke;
But for the next twelve months—I swear it—
I'll neither lie, swear, chew nor smoke.

I'll give up all my clubs and lodges,
I'll drink no whiskey, wine or beer;
I'll go to church with you on Sunday—
The parson's words of truth to hear.

I'll give to you my dimes and nickels,
And never, never more be seen
Either in saloon or "smoke-shop"—
Bucking that cus-sed slot machine.
—AL COVE.

Portland finances have improved the past two years until they have enough money to pay running expenses and meet interest. Such a city administration was sought to be thrown out by the charter a man named Geer vetoed. Down with Geer is the watery of the afflicted taxeater at Portland and it looks as if he were mighty and would prevail.

* * *

Chinese are fearless of death. They learn rapidly by imitation. The nations of the world sent in their crack military organizations and kept them here two years. The Chinese are equipping armies and propose to expel every European. Who can blame them? It is their country.

* * *

The expanded JOURNAL will be four dollars a yearbut we have taken the matter to heart and given all a chance until Feb. first to extend their subcriptions at the old three dollar rate. THE JOURNAL believes in giving all its old friends an equal chance at a good thing.

* * *

Give the babies plenty of fresh air; don't kill them with too many clothes; give them plenty of water to drink if you want to be sure to have it clean boil it and set it out over night to cool in an open vessel. The X-Ray man is a friend of the babies.

* * *

That Salem minister who says he is opposed to all grades in the public schools above the ninth ought to reside in towns all around Salem that have ten to twelve grades and see the moral effect it has on the young people of the community.

* * *

THE JOURNAL has received many compliments on its review of the Geer administration. Appreciated, gentlemen, but this paper would do just as much for a Democratic administration that had done as well.

* * *

The State Reform School Trustees thought they had some insurance when they had not. It would be interesting to know who was to blame for that policy being drawn in that way, and when it was drawn?

* * *

The Eugene Register has words of praise for Fulton, Scott and others for United States senator, but not a word for Senator Simon. Yet good things could be said for Simon if one were so disposed.

* * *

The Bohemia Nugget says the people of this state have implicit faith in the earnestness and ability of a certain federal senator from Oregon. For instance, his earnestness on the money question.

* * *

People who buy homes away off in the unsettled parts of the state make a mistake. Salem will long be the center of population of the Willamette Valley. Get as near the center as you can.

* * *

The Salem wedding wave has reached high tide. It has swept over Gaiety Hill and will spread over all the valley and catch some of the couples lingering on the suburbs of matrimony.

* * *

Judge Lochren could not well decide otherwise in the Northern Pacific case than to let them issue all the wartered stock they wanted to. He is a watered stock proposition himself.

* * *

The man who can see only the little, nasty mean things in a neighbor to harp about, and never sees any good things he does, is not the most useful person ever created.

* * *

THE JOURNAL Saturday will be a double number with lots of pictures. That is the way we give the people two days reading without printing a Sunday paper.

* * *

Since Marion county went onto the salary system and put all fees into the treasury she has had money to burn. Now is the time to get a lower tax levy.

* * *

Palma carried off the palm in the first Cuban election. Well they had to have an American president and it might as well be a New York man as any other.

* * *

Pat Collins, Mayor of Boston, seems to fill the eye of the Democratic politicians for President. U[illegible] was born in cold Ireland.

* * *

The brigands of Bul[illegible] more of Miss Helen S[illegible] Missionary managers.

Eugene papers have raised the price of advertising.

* * *

Next—the spring primaries and the spring school election.

* * *

Salem has now four clubs. It is the club town of the valley.

* * *

To read the newspapers Alaska will soon be exporting vegetables.

* * *

Europeans have taught China the art of war and being prepared for it.

* * *

The Oregon winter has moderated but the backbone of it is not broken by any means.

* * *

THE JOURNAL is glad it don't have to swallow the iniquity of the war in the South Africa.

* * *

This year will not vary much from last. There will be football and slot machines as before.

The little archer Cupid has been doing a big business at Salem of late. Well, all our industries are growing.

Union Veterans Union.

The good people of this organization had a reunion with their families at the W. C. T. U. hall on New Year's day. A fine dinner was spread and some patriotic speeches made by the old boys. Some one said any old skinny goose captured by one of them out bushwhacking and roasted before the fire, tasted better than the finest grub that was served up, and one of the boys, who went through with Sherman as a bummer, said they always took the young and tender ones when out foraging. There was a lot of old wartime reminiscences dug up and dished up and it was very enjoyable. Most of the veterans are getting past the funny points of life, still there is always a stock of stories to be told, that lose nothing with age.

NEWS OF NEW YORK MARKET

The New York Producer's Price Current, Dec. 21, says there is very great contrast between the volume of business so far this season and what was accomplished up to this time last year. Receipts show a shortage of 49,319 bales behind in the exports. Compared with two years ago the difference is only slight. Upward of 8,300 bales of the past week's receipts were in transit for export, all from the Pacific Coast, with the exception of one lot of 597 bales which came from this State. The situation here has not changed in any important feuture. Browers have been taking a moderate quanity of stock, and with the hops that have been made to local holdings. Some dealers have taken on more stock against future needs, but the outlook for trade has not been sufficiently bright to encourage large buying.

The Waterville Market.

The Waterville Times says a carefully prepared list of the growers who have not yet sold their hops, together with their holdings, shows that there is not to exceed 600 bales left in the town of Sangersfield and Marshall. A year ago the 10th of January there were 2,000 bales left in growers' hands. Madison has about two hundred bales left. A careful estimate places the number of bales left in Oneida and Madison counties at not to exceed 1,500 bales.
